

Campaign in 1964 May Develop Into Personality Battle

Leading Republican Winners Of Type Necessary for Race

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American electorate's demonstrated disdain for party labels in Tuesday's election indicates Republicans may need a personality-plus candidate in 1964.

It just happened in the balloting that the Republicans who won the big ones are just that type. They have the kind of fresh, voter appeal that is credited with helping make John F. Kennedy a headline winner in 1960. And no one is doubting that the President will seek re-election in another two years.

The GOP stars in an otherwise confusing and somewhat frustrating election that ended in almost a numerical dead heat in congressional and gubernatorial contests were:

Rockefeller Tops List

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, an omnivorous blintz-consuming, hand-shaking, back-slapping campaigner who is mentally quick on his feet and knows the ways of television. By getting himself re-elected by nearly half a million votes Rockefeller leaped to the top of the heap of Kennedy's potential GOP rivals.

Gov.-elect George Romney of Michigan, an indefatigable campaigner who charmed some union votes away from the Democrats to win his race in a key state. Possibly somewhat less liberal than Rockefeller, he may attract support from party conservatives who look on the New York governor as too inclined to the welfare state to suit them.

Gov.-elect William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, a very wealthy man just getting his feet wet in bigtime politics. He is a handsome, all-smiles candidate who can be a tough campaigner if the occasion demands it.

In the second line, as prospective material for a vice presidential nomination, two young GOP crusaders came to the front.

They are Robert Taft Jr., son

of the late "Mr. Republican," who won election to Congress in an at-large race in Ohio, and Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, who won re-election while the voters of his state were giving another term to Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse.

The central performer in the GOP's greatest disappointment, the failure to attain the governorship, was

Two Killed in Portage Woods

Father, Son Shot To Death in Remote Section of County

STEVENS POINT (AP)—A father and son were found shot to death in a remote wooded area of Portage County Wednesday and authorities said it appeared to be a case of double murder with robbery as the apparent motive. A 23-year-old man was being held for questioning.

Portage County Sheriff Emil Meshak said a small bullet hole was found in the left cheek of 37-year-old Robert Wesely of Wisconsin Rapids whose body was discovered near his truck by a hunter on Deer Road 20 miles southwest of Stevens Point. A bullet hole also was found in the back of Wesely's father, Frank Wesely Jr., of Route 1, Adams, whose body was located in a nearby wooded area Wednesday night by a 17-man posse.

Autopsies were planned on the bodies today.

Sheriff Meshak said $40 to $60 was missing from the wallets of the two men who had been in the area cutting wood pulp for sale to a mill at Mosinee.

A Wisconsin Rapids hunter, Edward Brown, found the body of the younger man lying in a pool of blood. At first authorities were not sure whether he had been injured in an auto accident or had been shot.

Efforts to contact Robert Wesely's father in Wisconsin Rapids were fruitless.

Meanwhile, the sheriff said, the 23-year-old man was taken into custody about 9 p.m. Wednesday by Portage and Wood county authorities for questioning.

Shortly thereafter, a 17-man searching party was organized and dispatched to the spot where the body and truck had been found at 10:30 a.m. Shortly before 10 p.m. the officers formed a line and moved through the underbrush. They turned up the body of Frank Wesely slumped over a chain saw which he had been using.

Frank Wesely's car was located earlier some 100 yards down the road.

The scene of the slaying is three miles east of the community of Kellner in Portage County's Town of Grant.

Estes Receives 8-Year Term in Texas Prison

Bankrupt Promoter Guilty of Swindle, Jury's Verdict Says

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — A jury convicted bankrupt promoter Billie Sol Estes of swindling and set his sentence at eight years in the State Penitentiary Wednesday.

The verdict, reached after the 11 men and one woman deliberated 2 hours and 8 minutes, ended a 17-day trial on state charges growing out of a transaction involving a mortgage on liquid fertilizer tanks. The state said the tanks did not exist.

Estes, 37, faces state anti-trust charges accusing him of fixing the price of liquid fertilizer. Also pending against him are federal charges of fraud, conspiracy and perjury in connection with $22 million in loans obtained on fertilizer tanks.

First Conviction

It was the first conviction for Estes since his multimillion-dollar complex of liquid fertilizer tank mortgage deals, cotton allotment transfers and grain storage collapsed last spring.

Asked for comment on the verdict, Estes replied: "What can you say?"

Estes was accused of inducing Pecos farmer T. J. Wilson to sign a $94,500 mortgage on non-existent liquid fertilizer tanks. Prosecutors claimed Estes, his own credit exhausted, paid rental bonuses and got farmers to contract for non-existent tanks, leased the tanks from them and agreed to pay monthly rentals matching payments due on the mortgages.

The defense claimed he merely paid a bonus for borrowing credit. Estes remained free under $20,000 bond pending a motion for a new trial, promised within 10 days by defense lawyer John D. Coffer. Altogether, kinsmen have posted $140,000 bonds for Estes on state and federal charges.

Split Bullet Causes Girl to Lose Eye in Sharpshooting Act

MILAN, Italy (AP)—The crowd under the big top held its breath Wednesday night.

Khoidy Barlay, a sharpshooter from Germany, aimed a carbine at his pretty wife, Annelise, 20, and, one by one, picked off five balloons tied to her head. The audience roared approval. The tent rang with applause.

Across the city in a hospital operating room, doctors operated on Alice Althof, 17, shot a week ago when she substituted for Barlay's wife in the sharpshooting act. The doctors were unable to save the girl's right eye, which had been injured by a bullet fragment that pierced the eye and lodged in the brain. But they reported that the girl was beginning to recover from the partial paralysis that followed her injury.

Barlay, 37, stunned by the mishap, said he had never missed the target balloons before. Police investigators found that the bullet, made of hard plastic, had split in flight. One piece hit the girl. The other burst the balloon.

church at 2 p.m. Burial will be beside her husband on the family's Hyde Park estate overlooking the Hudson River.

The 78-year-old widow of the nation's 32nd president and niece of the 26th president had suffered from what the family described as "a complicated type of anemia" for two and a half years.

Her health failed rapidly during the last six weeks, accelerated by non-contagious tuberculosis which was not proved until Oct. 25.

Her physicians, expecting heart failure, were with her at the end, along with three of her five living children. Two sons were en route by plane from distant points in the nation. Nineteen grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive her.

Many Express Sorrow
"One of the great ladies in the history of this country has passed from the scene," said President Kennedy. "Her loss will be deeply felt by all those who admired her tireless idealism or benefited from her good works and counsel."

Communists Start Drive on East End Of Battle Line

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Chinese Communists have launched fresh attacks at the eastern end of the Himalayan battle line, the Indian Defense Ministry announced today. The action broke a lull of more than a week.

The fighting was at Walong, 15 miles from the Burma border, with the Communists making five shooting strikes in the past two days.

A defense spokesman also reported an Indian patrol clashed with the Red Chinese outside Chang, near the monastery town of Towang.

Towang, just east of the Bhutan border, was captured by the Chinese more than a week ago.

Envoy Leaves Party After Red Attacks U. S.

Bulgarian Leader Alleges Piratical Action Against Cuba

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — U.S. Minister Eugenie Anderson walked out of a Soviet reception Wednesday night after Bulgarian President Dimitar Ganev accused the United States of piratical action against Cuba.

Ganev made the accusation in an address during the Soviet Embassy's reception in honor of the 45th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. It was attended by Sofia's diplomatic corps and chief delegates to the Bulgarian Communist party congress now being held here.

The guests also included Soviet chief ideologist Mikhail Suslov, and Blas Roca, former secretary general of the Cuban Communist party.

Soviet Envoy Speaks

Ganev spoke after Soviet Ambassador Georgi A. Denisov addressed the guests. Denisov made a passing reference to American imperialism before launching into the familiar Soviet line that Premier Khrushchev saved the world from war by withdrawing Soviet missiles from Cuba.

Ganev said the United States had violated all international laws in trying "to put up the blockade around small but heroic Cuba, in beginning piratical action and in openly preparing an armed attack on revolutionary Cuba."

"I think we had better leave," said Mrs. Anderson to her American interpreter. They started out. Bulgarian government officials rushed over in an attempt to smooth things over, diplomatic informants said, but Mrs. Anderson would have none of it.

The Bulgarian press did not mention the incident today.

Father Out of Job, But Son's Working

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. John B. Swanson called home Wednesday after the returns showed the Democratic incumbent had lost his bid for re-election.

"Well, we lost, son," Swanson told Peter, 12.

Peter has been working as a page for Democratic Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski.

"Did T. John lose too?" Peter asked.

"No, T. John won," the governor replied.

Aiming at Removal of Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blocking U.S. Navy ships were ready to check homeward bound Soviet vessels today for proof that they are hauling Red missiles from Cuba.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Wednesday that 40 Soviet rockets had been dismantled in Cuba and probably were on their way back to the Soviet Union.

The Pentagon said Wednesday night that arrangements were being made with Soviet representatives for the Navy to check on the number of dismantled missiles aboard the homeward-bound Soviet ships.

No Further Details

In announcing that the first contact would be made today, Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, indicated no specific hour. And he declined comment when a newsman asked if the Red Cross would play a part in the inspection procedure.

The administration has insisted on international verification of the de-nuclearization of Cuba. Asked Wednesday if the arrangement for a Navy check of the missiles removal was considered satisfactory, Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, called attention to the last exchange of messages between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

In his Oct. 27 message to Khrushchev, Kennedy said he understood the Soviets to have agreed to remove offensive weapons systems from Cuba "under appropriate United Nations observation and supervision."

Red Cross May Act

There has been talk since of the Red Cross filling this role.

Salinger also was asked if the plan for a Navy check would have any effect on U.S. insistence upon on-the-spot verification inside Cuba. He said he was not prepared to go beyond the Pentagon statement.

The announcement said: "The Soviet Union has reported that ships are leaving Cuba with missiles aboard."

"Arrangements are being made with Soviet representatives for contact with these ships by United States naval vessels and for counting the missiles being shipped out."

The statement was issued after President Kennedy met with the

Alleged Bogus Oath Brings Libel Suit

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Testimony has begun in a criminal libel trial in which the Knights of Columbus charges a minister published a fictitious K. of C. oath in a church pamphlet.

Harold J. Lamboley, K. of C. general counsel, and a former Monroe, Wis., judge, testified Wednesday he repeatedly asked the Rev. Walter L. King, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, Independent, at Finleyville, Pa., to retract the bogus oath.

George H. Ross, an assistant Allegheny County district attorney, said no retraction was printed.

The K. of C., a Catholic fraternal organization, claims the Rev. Mr. King published the oath in the "Voice of the Nazarene" in May, 1960.

News Pictures Show Fraud at Polls, Paper Says

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Daily News says a federal investigation may develop from news pictures which the paper said showed fraudulent voting in the Chicago election Tuesday.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Ill., told the News in a telephone interview he may request a federal inquiry. Curtis is a member of the Senate subcommittee on elections.

Curtis declared he was shocked by reports that Daily News photographers had made pictures of a Democratic poll worker paying money to voters after they left polling places. The Daily News published the pictures Tuesday.

"I intend to follow this up," Curtis said.

Two investigators for the Senate subcommittee were in Chicago Tuesday to watch for possible irregularities. Curtis said he would wait for a report from them before deciding a course of action.

The pictures were taken outside a polling place in the 5th Precinct of the 1st Ward on the West Side.

The newspaper identified the alleged cash dispenser as a 78-year-old man who has been a Democratic Party worker for 46 years.

The News said two women voters told a reporter for the newspaper that they each had received $1 for their votes.

School Board Won't OK Married Student

GRAY, Ga. (AP) — The Jones County School Board has reaffirmed its stand expelling an 18-year-old high school football star because of his marriage.

The board met Wednesday night to take another look at the case of Johnny Arnold, the 6-foot, 170-pound halfback who was expelled with his 15-year-old bride under the board's no-marriage rule.

Angry Arnold boosters have been urging that he be readmitted so that he can continue his education and perhaps win an athletic scholarship.

GOP, Democrats Can Cheer Voting

Republicans Gain Strength In House, but Lose 4 Seats To Opposition in Senate

BY JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans alike found something to cheer about today in the make-up of the new 88th Congress that will convene on Jan. 9.

For the Democrats, the big talking point was that they had not suffered the big losses that usually befall the party in power in an off-year election.

President Kennedy said in a statement issued by the White House that he was heartened by the outcome of Tuesday's elections and was certain Congress would meet its responsibilities "in a progressive and vigorous manner."

Republicans failed to make the gains they had hoped for in congressional races, but the GOP national chairman, William E. Miller, said he did not see this "in any way an endorsement of

Prelate Lauds Prayers for Church Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican's top prelate dealing with non-Catholic churches said today a beginning has been made toward Christian unity. He credited Protestant prayers for the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Augustin Cardinal Bea, German-born Jesuit who heads the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity, spoke to newsmen covering the council, which was in recess today.

The 81-year-old biblical scholar indicated his satisfaction over the contacts with more than 40 Protestant and Orthodox observers attending the council sessions.

He expressed the hope that more Orthodox churches would agree to send representatives, saying: "Our joy—I say our joy, including also the observers and the confessions they represent—is disturbed by the absence of a good number of venerable Orthodox churches of the East."

Cardinal Bea said he was impressed that "so many communities of non-Catholic Christians have made repeated appeals, even official ones, to their own faithful calling on them to pray for the council."

He noted that such appeals were made by various Anglican, Evangelical, Presbyterian, Baptist and Orthodox churches around the world.

"This is therefore already a first beginning of unity and, above all, a sound foundation for our trust in God," he said.

India Asks U.N. For Buildup of Permanent Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — India Wednesday proposed a United Nations peace force strong enough to stamp out the threat of war following a disarmament agreement.

India's Arthur S. Lall said the United Nations must be strengthened militarily to become "an effective peacekeeping body."

Without such a peace force, he added, "the process of disarmament cannot be supplemented as it should be."

Lall spoke as the 110-nation political committee of the general assembly continued debate on general and complete disarmament.

Ybarra saw the car and jumped to safety. Gonzales walked into the side of the vehicle.

Damage to the car—an estimated $300 from a broken windshield and dented side panel.

Gonzales shrugged the whole thing off, claiming no injury.

GOP Prepares For Drive in Deep South

Republicans Search For Young Blood To Assist Party

Chicago Daily News Service
WASHINGTON—The Republican Party has quietly launched an all-out campaign aimed at cracking the Solid South wide open in 1964. Pleased with gains in the South in Tuesday's elections, party officials sent instructions to every state chairman in the South urging them to begin laying 1964 campaign plans immediately.

"As far as I'm concerned," said I. Lee Potter, the Republican national committee's expert on southern affairs, "the 1964 campaign in the South has opened." Potter said he'd concede no state to the Democrats in the 1964 race.

Won 12 Seats

Southern Republicans won almost a dozen House seats in Tuesday's elections and GOP candidates put up startlingly successful races in several campaigns for Senate seats.

The party also won in many county and municipal elections in areas that historically have been the exclusive property of the Democrats.

Many of the GOP candidates are in the early 30s—and most are even more conservative politically than the conservative Democrats they faced.

And there, in the political philosophy of their candidates, lies the Republican problem in the new campaign.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — One of the world's biggest manufacturers of telephones, the Ericsson Telephone Co., admitted with embarrassment today that for a week its main switchboard hasn't had contact with the outside world.

A company engineer explained that the board is a new model, and all the small screws were a fraction of an inch too large. A team of mechanics is still replacing the screws.

The company is convinced the new model will ultimately be a success on the international market. The firm said it had similar trouble with the old type when it was first installed and now it's used all over the world.

Khrushchev Probably Revising Strategy in Wake of Cuba Retreat

Some Speculation That Reds May Launch 'Peace' Offensive Soon

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev evidently is revising his diplomatic strategy to bring it into line with his nuclear weapons retreat from Cuba.

This may mean that he is dropping plans for an early showdown with the United States, Britain and France over the future of West Berlin.

It may also mean that the main Soviet emphasis in the next few months will be on a peace offensive, as developed in a variety of East-West negotiations, rather than on threats and pressures designed to achieve Kremlin purposes by brandishing Soviet power.

These are speculative conclusions suggested by remarks which the Soviet leader made Wednesday to reporters whom he met at a reception at Moscow. Authorities here noted that his tone was on the whole conciliatory and in accord with his published letters to President Kennedy when the Cuban missile crisis was at its height 10 days ago.

Plan Exists?

The belief that such a plan did in fact exist arises out of the timing of various Khrushchev maneuvers which pointed to an early effort on his part to force a Berlin showdown and, in that connection, to have a summit meeting with Kennedy. The assumption here is that he planned to use the Soviet buildup as a surprise move aimed at gaining U.S. concessions on Berlin.

Ever since Khrushchev's hand was called on his Cuba gambit and he chose to back down rather than face the grave dangers of a military conflict that could spread into a great nuclear war, U.S. officials have been watching for signs which would indicate Khrushchev's future strategy.

London Times Praises Mrs. Roosevelt's Life

Chicago Daily News Service
LONDON — Eleanor Roosevelt, the best known and the most highly admired American woman of her generation in Europe, drew a profound tribute from the London Times after the announcement of her death reached London in the early hours today.

She was, it said, "perhaps the most distinguished of all the first ladies who have graced the White House. It is true that Mrs. Wilson, the second wife of President Woodrow Wilson, exerted more direct political power for a short period. But Mrs. Roosevelt was more of an influential personality in her own right."

Baby Abandoned on Doorstep of Rectory

WAUKESHA (AP) — A baby wrapped in two thin blankets was found on the steps of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church early today. The child, a girl only a few days old, was taken to Waukesha Memorial Hospital where attendants said she was in good condition.

Police were summoned to St. Joseph's rectory by the pastor, Father Eschweiler, at 2:30 a.m. The priest had been aroused by a telephone operator who said a woman had called to report that a baby was on the steps of the church.

The temperature was only three degrees above freezing when the abandoned infant was found on the church steps. The child was clad in an undershirt and diaper. The hospital said the infant was 21½ inches long and weighed seven and one half pounds.

Mrs. Roosevelt Became Famous After Husband Died

Former First Lady Made Career For Herself on Leaving Capital

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—When Anna Eleanor Roosevelt left the White House in 1945, it was with the feeling that for the first time in more than four decades, she was on her own.

Her husband, one of the nation's most dynamic presidents, was dead. Her children were grown. Would she, like so many presidents' widows, retire to obscurity? Not Eleanor Roosevelt. In many ways, her own life was just beginning.

Until her fatal illness, ending with her death Wednesday night, she knew few quiet moments. She traveled endlessly, constantly backed causes, many of them controversial, and spoke her mind with eloquence and forthrightness.

Her love of controversy prompted her, in her late seventies, to spark a swap of tractors for prisoners of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, and a New York City political reform movement, and to entertain Soviet Premier Khrushchev at Hyde Park on his shoe-pounding visit to the United Nations.

'Face the Fact'

"We have to face the fact that either all of us are going to die together or we are going to learn to live together—and if we live together we have to talk," she said.

And talk she did, and listen, in all parts of the world.

She once reflected on her life before the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt:

"In my early married years, pattern of my life had been largely my mother-in-law's pattern. Later it was the children and Franklin who made the pattern. When I went to Washington I felt sure I would be able to use opportunities which came to me to help Franklin gain the objectives he cared about—but the work would be his work and the pattern his pattern."

Pattern Emerges

In the post-White House days, the new pattern emerged as Mrs. Roosevelt could, at long last, use "my own mind and abilities for my own aims," about which she had been thinking since the last of her five children had gone off to boarding school. Curiously enough, however, the new pattern was much like the old pattern, except that in this later phase her life was dedicated to the world. The sphere of influence of Mrs. Roosevelt broadened progressively from her family to her state, to her nation. In her work for the United Nations, she hews a unique niche for herself as a world citizen which derived only partially from the position her husband held for so long.

Once when she was first lady, Mrs. Roosevelt was asked what she looked forward to most when she left the White House.

"Freedom from public notice," she replied.

More Acclaim

Actually, she received almost as much public notice—and certainly more international acclaim—as a private citizen, but by that time she had learned to live with it and accept it gracefully.

Well into her seventies, Mrs. Roosevelt carried a schedule of lectures, speech writing, correspondence, trips, junkets, appearances, conferences and interviews which would have sent the ordinary citizen running for tranquilizers. She thrived on it.

The bedrock on which her active life was constructed was, of course, a rugged constitution, excellent health and fantastic vitality.

But inherited energy and ability to get along nicely on four hours sleep do not explain the force which drove her. Her adult life was dominated by a need to serve.

Felt Useful

"The feeling that I was useful," she once wrote, "was perhaps the greatest joy I experienced."

The blossoming of a painfully shy, awkward and downright plain child into the poised, apparently serene and handsome older woman was summed up by Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. as a "triumph of character, a sheer and terrifying act of will." Her childhood was neither happy nor secure. Orphaned at 10, she was brought up by a strict grandmother, packed off to an exclusive English girls' school and then pushed reluctantly through the proper "coming out" rites mandatory for young women in the financial and social strata of the Roosevelts.

In 1904, when she was 20, this niece of President Theodore Roosevelt married her fifth cousin once removed. While her marriage brought her a sense of security she sorely missed, it also brought the problem of living with and handling her dominating mother-in-law, Sarah Delano Roosevelt. It took self-control to avoid conflict with this strong-willed woman who not only enjoyed holding the purse strings but who wanted to run the lives of her only son and his growing family.

Didn't Interfere

The result of this disciplining experience with the senior Mrs. Roosevelt was that President Roosevelt had an almost exaggerated determination not to interfere in his children's lives, and Mrs. Roosevelt kept so clear of interference that she sometimes worried that her daughters-in-law might think she was not interested in them at all.

Mrs. Roosevelt went to Washington as First Lady with specialized training as an official's and a politician's wife. Franklin Roosevelt had been crippled by polio before he was elected governor of New York, and it was as the governor's lady that Mrs. Roosevelt elected herself as his eyes and ears.

When Mrs. Roosevelt was the wife of the President, her determination to be useful to her husband made her a highly controversial figure, for she never was content merely to fill the traditional role of White House official hostess. When she left the White House the political enemies of her husband stopped referring to "Eleanor" in special, bitter and clipped syllables.

But Mrs. Roosevelt, always an individual, continued to be a storm center.

Lawrence Man Given Grant For Project

Dr. Richard Zuehlke Will Study Metals Through Magnetism

Dr. Richard Zuehlke of Lawrence College chemistry department has been given a grant of $26,550 by the Air Force Office of Scientific Research for a two-year study to be carried out in the magnet laboratory of Stephenson Hall of Science on the campus.

He will study the electronic structure of metallic surfaces, through an examination of its magnetic properties.

The unique provision of this grant is that it provides for a full time technical assistant, plus two student assistants during the summer months. With this laboratory help, Dr. Zuehlke will be able to carry on the study while continuing to teach. He began the work with a grant from the Petroleum Research Fund, which provided the magnet and ultra-high vacuum system needed for the experiments. Lawrence students who have already assisted as Baer, who graduated in June, Carl Gottlieb, Hempstead, N.Y., and Reed Williams, Orland Park, Ill.

Dr. Zuehlke is involved in a trans-oceanic collaboration on the work with Aage Solbakken of the Norwegian Technical Institute at Trondheim, Norway. The two men met at the University of Minnesota when Zuehlke was doing his graduate work, and Solbakken was there on a research fellowship. As far as Zuehlke knows, they are the only ones pursuing this line of investigation; each is concentrating on a different aspect of the work.

Eleanor Roosevelt

The death of Eleanor Roosevelt takes from the American scene one of its most remarkable women. Whether one agreed with the ideas and actions of Mrs. Roosevelt during her colorful and controversial career, she could not be ignored.

It is usual to assume that Mrs. Roosevelt's life of wealth and fame was an easy one but the evidence points the other way. Mrs. Roosevelt was aware of her limitations in beauty and humor as much as she acknowledged what she conceived to be her responsibilities. She faced the facts of living in the glare of publicity as courageously as she faced her husband's domineering mother. She accepted her role as wife of one of our most famous presidents and she continued to accept after his death what she considered to be her duties because of that role. An ardent supporter of the United Nations and peaceful efforts to further world understanding she was untiring almost to the very end. Her daily schedule of meetings, speeches, flights and writing in her last years would have staggered most women of twenty.

Certainly Mrs. Roosevelt's most noble characteristic was her unselfishness. She never chose the path of least resistance. In spite of widespread and sometimes pathological criticism and antagonism she continued promoting the ideas she felt were right. Whether they were or not somehow doesn't seem important any more. Mrs. Roosevelt's career will continue to be a controversial one. But its judgment now is out of the reach of mankind.

Now Reynolds Must Face Facts

Governor-elect John W. Reynolds, if he is honest with himself about it, must wonder what kind of mandate he has been given by Wisconsin voters for the next two years.

Reynolds' victory over Philip Kuehn was by the smallest margin in over 80 years, a margin so slight that a recount is a possibility. Republicans elected all other principal state officers. Republicans increased their control of the State Senate to a two-thirds majority, 22 to 11 compared with 20-13 in the last legislature. And they retained control of the Assembly where the line-up is now 53-47 against 55-45 before the election.

Among the curiosities of the election result is why some voters split their tickets to vote for Reynolds and didn't do the same for David Carley, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant governor.

Should Reynolds take his election as a mandate to repeal the state's selective sales tax, as he said he would, he can now ponder the fact that the electorate returned to the legislature with only a few exceptions the Republicans who voted for a general sales tax in the last session.

The fact of the matter is that voters outside Milwaukee County did not give Kuehn the majorities he needed to offset Reynolds' margin in Milwaukee, but at the same time these same voters generally returned the incumbents or their political allies to the legislature.

A fair case could be made that the election results are really a mandate for a general sales tax, taking into account the legislative results and the fact that Kuehn narrowed his margin of defeat from 53,000 votes two years ago to 12,000 this year.

Certainly a state senator or assemblyman who voted for the general sales tax and has been returned to office by a sizeable margin will also consider that he has a mandate from his constituents.

Political experts will be trying to interpret the confused situation for months to come, and there will be as many opinions as there are experts.

But the important result is that the State of Wisconsin faces two years of indecision on its critical fiscal situation. It could be worse than indecision; it could be disastrous.

Reynolds has made commitments to his party and to the electorate which will make it extremely difficult for him to compromise with a Republican legislature. And the solid Republican control of the Senate will certainly prevent him from putting any of his own ideas into effect.

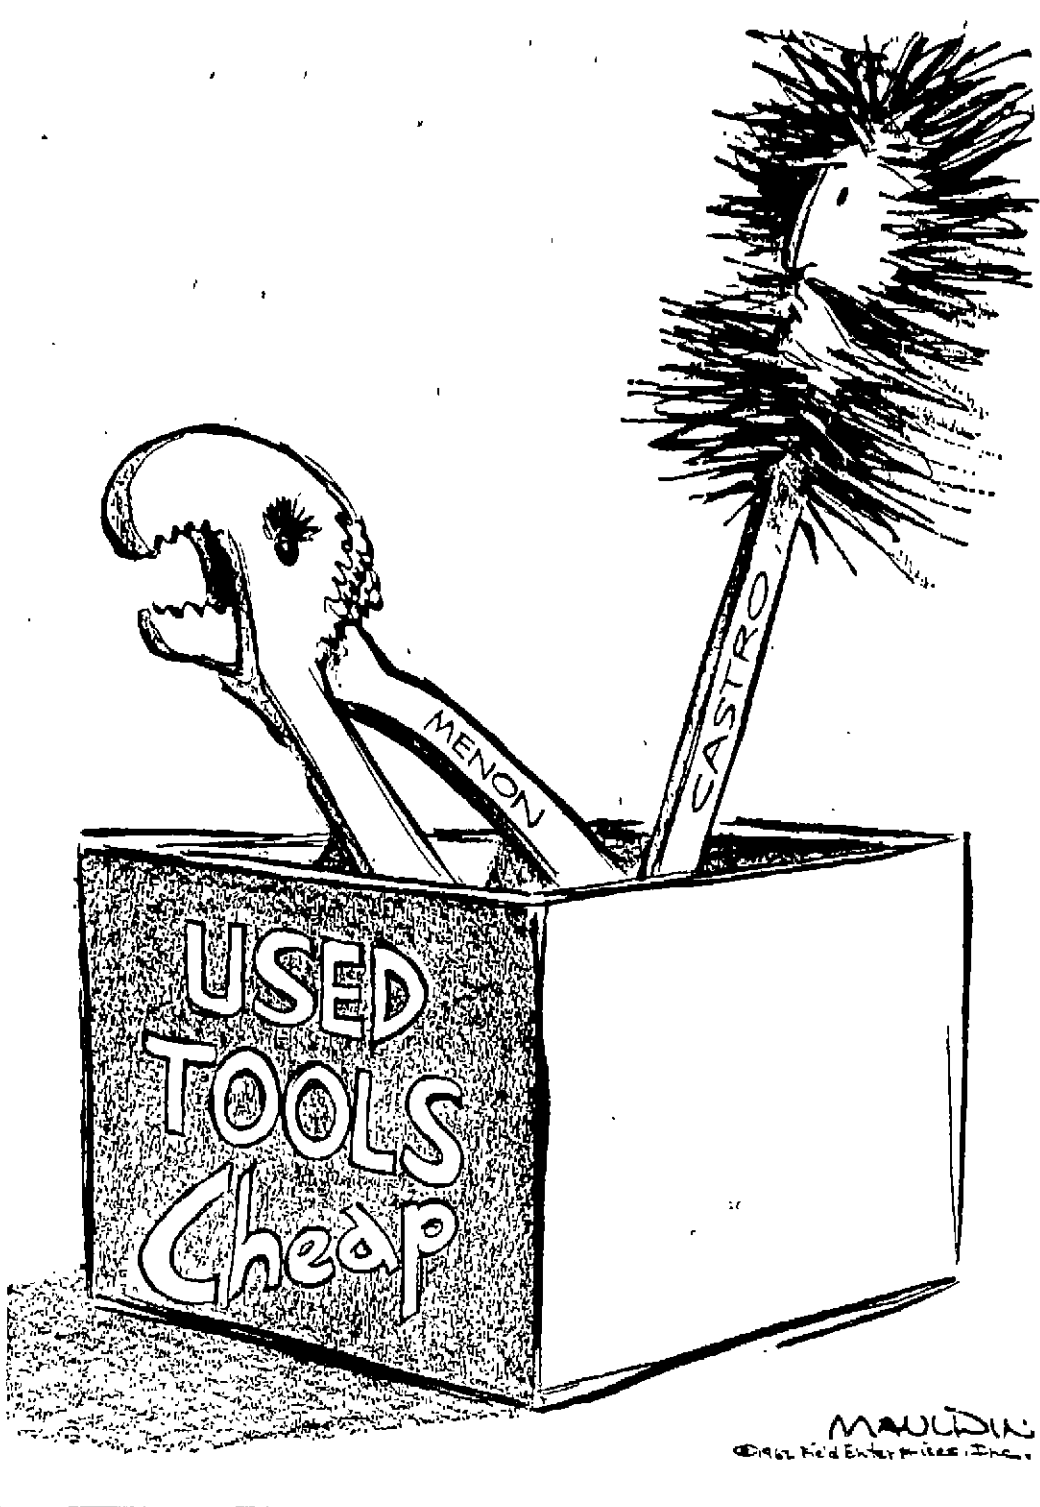

It is extremely unlikely, for instance, that Reynolds will be able to carry out his campaign pledge to repeal the selective sales tax. On the other hand, given the distribution of votes in the Assembly, it is unlikely the legislature can put across a general sales tax.

Yet the new governor and the legislature face the problem of providing a minimum of $100 millions in new revenues for the biennium. If they solve the problem at all it can only be on a temporary basis. No long-range revision of the state's tax structure will be possible.

The spectre of what happened recently in our neighboring state of Michigan now stands starkly before Wisconsin. Given no solution to the fiscal problem it could mean teachers going without salaries and other disastrous developments.

Mr. Reynolds won the governor's office by deceiving the people of Wisconsin about this fiscal problem. He convinced enough voters that it could be solved without them paying the bill.

Now those voters are going to see for themselves the hard truths of the situation.

Raising Beer Drinking Age Doesn't Solve Basic Problem

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Reference: Letters written by Grover Chandler and Terence Roberts regarding the beer bar problem and teenagers.

First of all, I'd like to stress I am in my twenties and it isn't too long ago I was an avid minor bar fan, enjoying good clean fun without excessive drinking or causing trouble.

Let's get to the stem of this problem — let's not place all the blame on beer itself or minor bars. After all you can enter a beer bar and find there are some kids who can behave and enjoy themselves and some who are there who don't even drink beer. Parents enter into this problem even if they like to push it off on the beer bars. Is it merely the beer bars or the beer that are causing the trouble? No, it isn't — it's the teenager himself. There are some who enjoy meeting friends, dancing and chatting over hamburgers and a few beers. Then there is the crowd who are creating the entire problem — those who are there trying to consume the greatest amount of beer, getting out of hand and spoiling it for the rest.

Where does this trace back to? The home naturally and the parents' guidance. Do these parents realize what excessive drinking does to teenagers? Do they instruct their children and train them to cope with these things? Do they know what shape Junior comes home in? Do they realize how much their dear lil Junior drinks? Frankly, how many of these parents know what their kids are doing? Too bad some of these parents can't stand in the background and see their teenager.

Changing the age will solve nothing. Kids are getting beer somehow who aren't even near 18 so the kids prove they can get it. We'll find more of this if you take it away from teenagers completely as this will only create a challenge for them. Furthermore — let's face it — if proper guidance isn't instilled in a child before 18, he surely won't be able to handle himself at 21 either. Parents wake up — quit passing the buck — stand by your teenagers and make something of them so they will be staunch enough to cope with these problems with self-respect as well as respect for others and will be able to handle themselves and still have a good time with good clean fun.

Parents remember closing minor bars won't turn your teenager into the ideal boy or girl you dream of. It is your place and role to make your teenager ideal.

A Beer Bar Fan of Yesteryear.

P. S. Please note they still haven't closed all the taverns to keep parents from depriving their families of support as well as their companionship and love and affection.

Regional Planning Makes Sense; Should Continue

Editor, Post-Crescent:

You are to be commended for the seven part series in the Post-Crescent by Reiny Wessing Oct. 20th to 27th as to the continuation of regional planning in the Fox River Valley by the eleven municipalities. However I might say that we ought to have the Town of Harrison and the Town of Kaukauna as members.

Schellie's contract expires Dec. 31, 1962. We can not afford to let $200,000 and 5 years work go down the drain. Let the 11 municipalities, officers, commissioners and the present committee members work this out before Dec. 31, 1962, for a satisfactory decision.

I am much interested in the progress of Fox Valley Regional Planning. As I understand it this was intended for a Metropolitan Plan Commission which would act as an advisor in the planning and control of land use within the proposed 14 municipalities in the Fox River Valley.

The advisory body would coordinate work now being done independently, now being done by cities and villages by their own Planning and Zoning Commissions. Towns mostly come under county zoning Ordinances.

We do not want it to be said

25 years from now by our children and grandchildren that we did not look ahead for future development. That's what we have heard and said for the past 25 years. What a change! I can go back 60 years ago when I worked at Calmes Wagon Shop when there was a canning factory and a wind mill manufacturing company, where the Coated Paper Mill is at present. Where Penney Co. is now, there was the Globe Hotel, and stables for horses for farmers while shopping. Now there are garages and automobiles.

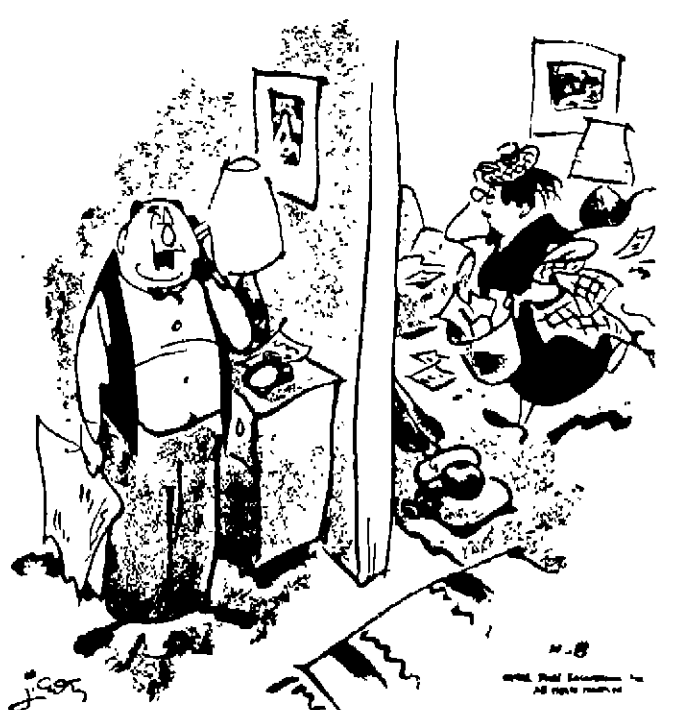

I would like to see the organization continue to the limit of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Ass'n. ability to justify such membership. It then goes without saying that any planning, in-cogin zoning, should be done with an eye to its relationship to the regional pattern.

Regional planning as I see it applies uniform provisions, over much larger areas, than would be the case if it were replaced by several municipalities planning. I hope that all involved analyze and determine for continuation and take an interest in their own government.

Harrington's Goal Is To Make Wisconsin 'U' No. 1; It'll Be Costly

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A measure of the man the University of Wisconsin regents recently chose to be the executive head of the University is provided in the bluntly ambitious goal for the school as published by President Fred H. Harrington.

The new Harrington budget for the next two years, given past performance of the legislature and the state administration, and the political climate that portends in the statehouse next winter, is ambitious enough.

But the new University leader has calmly accompanied that budget with a statement to alumni and the general public that this is merely a preliminary step to his real goal for the first part of his regime, which as an Alumni Society bulletin has paraphrased it, is "to close the gap between itself and the top few universities in the country" by the mid-1960's.

The goal, plainly put in the publication, is to begin the climb to No. 1 position by 1965.

That means, the bulletin continued with altogether admirable candor, that the University's tax budget must be pushed from the present level of around $31 millions a year to about $100 millions annually during the next three years.

Let there be no doubt about it. Here is a man who knows what he wants, and who intends to get it, without apology or circumlocution.

The new budget recently published is a high one, by all normal standards of comparison, off or on the campus.

Yet he says matter-of-factly that "this is a modest budget, an honest budget, without a cent of bargaining money in it."

What the new University president has said, in his successive policy declarations since his elevation only a few weeks ago, is that his purpose is to secure the best qualitative university program in the country, without sacrificing the growth rate that has caused such a commotion in fiscal circles lately.

There has been some quiet

speculation among policy-makers here and elsewhere about the ability of the tax base to provide adequate support in a qualitative way for higher educational services in a time when college admission of high school graduates is growing at such a rapid rate that it will soon be virtually universal. Even today very nearly half of all of the college age residents of this state are enrolled in institutions of higher learning, and the ratio of enrollment at the tax-supported institutions is steadily rising.

But President Harrington has no doubts. He proposes to support the most liberal admissions policy, while simultaneously bringing up the university's teaching and other standards to the top bracket among the major schools of the country.

THE CHALLENGE

This is a challenging goal. But there are ample signs that President Harrington is prepared to face it realistically.

It is evident that he is ready to operate on public and political relations grounds more attentively and aggressively than any of his recent predecessors. It can be deduced also that he believes there will be more public support for his goals, because the higher ratio of university and college enrollments today makes the question of university financing a more popular issue than it was in earlier generations when student populations were relatively small and university officers encountered public indifference.

Dr. Harrington, like the realist he is, plans to devote more effort to soliciting private and federal grants to underpin his expansion program.

Notwithstanding, his proposals for higher slices of state treasury tax income are so big that their achievement must be counted as doubtful, at best, by anybody who has even a cursory understanding of the outlook for state government financing.

Without planning it, the University has offered the best proof of the pressure for complete and painful overhauling of the state revenue system that could be provided. Its blueprint simply cannot be managed, until it is recognized that it involves considerably more taxation — for everybody.

Strictly Personal

Nagging Wife Chose Hubby She Could Nag

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Whenever we cannot make a person "good" — in the way in which we think he or she should be good — we proceed to make him or her miserable; for no matter what our political and economic views, no one really practices laissez-faire in his personal relations.

It is only a generation after a war that the ordinary people begin to admit that it was a futile, foolish and unnecessary war — which is something the prophets, poets and philosophers were nearly stoned for saying just before it began.

Precise and punctilious people never learn the truth of Melville's shrewd observation that "There are some enterprises in which a careful disorderliness is the true method."

Space is more important for the welfare of a family than money; a rural region has less delinquency than an urban one because children have space for growth and seclusion; in a crowded slum, the very density of housing creates frictions that soon explode into delinquency.

The nagging wife deludes herself with the thought that with a different kind of husband she would not be a nag; but she ignores the fact that she chose the sort of man she could nag, and that her nagging gratifies even while it upsets her.

If everyone were given, tomorrow morning, his or her prime desire in complete fulfillment — the morning after that, the germ of another prime desire would begin to form itself and would come to full growth before a year was out. The range of human desires is infinite and insatiable — and thus happiness can come only by rigorously limiting our wishes, not by relentlessly pursuing them.

Speaking of happiness, that most fragile, elusive and equivocal of words, perhaps the best and most succinct comment on the subject was made by Erasmus, when he said: "It is the chiefest point of happiness that a man is willing to be what he is."

A woman who is proud of her chastity is like a man who is proud of his honesty — in both cases, the sin of pride can be more damaging to the character than the vices they reject.

With the temperature always hovering around 72 the year around, how do the people in Hawaii open a casual conversation? If you can't teach an old dog new tricks, he was probably never much good at tricks when he was a young dog; age does not change us, it merely makes more rigid our innate tendencies.

"Unreciprocated love" is a meaningless phrase; it is as impossible as clapping with one hand.

Counsel for Youth Makes Draftee Angry

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I just read Mr. Chandler's letter on drinking before you're 21 years old. I haven't made up my own mind as yet on the problem. Oh! Excuse me, I'm getting like some of the people whose articles I've read recently. I used the word "problem". How do I know that it is a problem? Just because some people say so? If you read Mr. Chandler's letter close, he first uses the word "modern" in a way you feel that all teenagers today just don't think right. Next, he says that drinking beer is a "bad habit." Is drinking beer a bad habit? A little farther on he tells you not to get hooked by the drinking habit. What are you drinking? Narcotics?

The part of his letter that really got me is when he told Terence to save his letter and re-read it once every ten years 'till the age sixty, when you will understand its meaning. Does he infer that the age sixty is the all-knowing age?

This kind of a letter leaves me with an awful taste in my mouth. I can't help feeling he was one of the men who thought it was all right during World War II to draft 18 year olds. I was one of them at the time. We were old enough to be in service during time of war to defend our country, but not old enough to enter an adult bar or vote. I would just like to see one good letter to the editor that makes sense and that the author doesn't use words like Modern, Bad Habit or Hooked, in a discussion of this type.

Teacher Disagrees With Resolution on HUAC

Editor, Post-Crescent:

On November 2, 1962, in Milwaukee, the delegate session of the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers convention adopted several resolutions. Among those adopted was an appeal to the Wisconsin members of the House of Representatives for the abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Another resolution called for the sending of the appeal first directly to each Representative and a second time through the union locals in each congressional district.

If there is an impression that the WFT membership speaks with one voice on this matter, I will make it clear that it does not. As a member of WFT, but not as a delegate, I attended the delegate session where all final convention business was voted upon. Using my right to observe, I saw and now report that Mr. Tremain of Eau Claire made a quiet, earnest effort to have the abolition resolutions rescinded. The unsuccessful attempt to repeal was supported by a group that was large enough to be significant. I believe a significant number of WFT members do not accept or support the abolition resolutions. I do not accept or support them. The WFT does not speak for me concerning the HUAC.

I believe a significant number of members do not want their WFT to include political sloganeering in its pronouncements. I invite comment from all WFT members.

Lawrence Says Business Can Breathe Easily After Election

House Coalition Of Conservatives Will Continue

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy did not get his wish. He campaigned harder than any other chief executive in history to get an increased majority of his party in both houses of Congress, but the voters did not grant his request.

The coalition Lawrence of conservative Republicans and Democrats, therefore, remains in control of both houses. Radicalism is checked again. Business can breathe easier. For, if the Democrats had made substantial gains in both houses of Congress, the stock market would have broken badly and there would have been predictions of a deeper recession in 1963 than now is anticipated.

All the talk of "net gains"—by mathematical putting together the Senate and House victories of the Democrats—doesn't alter the fact that it needs only a coalition in one house to block radical legislation. This barrier exists more firmly today than ever before against unsound fiscal policies and proposals which, if enacted would discourage and retard business progress.

In fact, it would not be surprising if 1964 finds President Kennedy campaigning with a less liberal and more conservative strategy than he followed in 1960.

Third Party?

Governor Rockefeller of New York, who won re-election, may be President Kennedy's opponent now that former Vice President Nixon is out of the running. But, to get the nomination, Rockefeller will have to convince the conservatives who dominate the Republican Party that he is basically a conservative on business and fiscal matters. The Republicans may consider this more important than anything else.

There is, however, always the possibility of a third party made up of conservatives from both the Republican and Democratic parties, and this could mess up the picture for the Republicans and assure the re-election of President Kennedy. In California, Nixon lost largely because he failed to win the full support of the conservative Republican. Many didn't go to the polls.

The elections for governor generally had no national significance—except that the Republicans gained a number of those state houses in big states with large electoral votes. The newly elected Republican governors can help their party in an organizational sense.

Looking across the country at the congressional contests, it is evident that Democrats in many areas had a difficult time getting re-elected. Majorities were considerably reduced in many places. In Alabama, for instance, the Democrat, Senator Hill, won by a narrow margin.

In a big state like Illinois, Senator Dirksen, the Republican minority leader, won out, and Kentucky again returned a Republican senator. The Democratic victory in New Hampshire was due to a factional fight inside the Republican party.

It is true that in Indiana, Senator Capelhart, of the conservative school, lost, but here the labor-union vote is all-powerful. It is significant that the popular Abraham Ribicoff, Democrat, had a relatively small margin of victory in Connecticut in his race for the Senate, and that Senator Joseph Clark, Democrat, in Pennsylvania didn't have as easy a victory as he did before.

Local Issues

Basically off-year elections turn mostly on local issues. When President Franklin D. Roosevelt increased his majority in both houses in his first off-year election—1934—he felt that the nation had given him a vote of confidence. In the next off-year election in 1938, however, when the Democrats lost a number of seats, Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference that congressional elections in off-years are usually decided on "local issues."

Gains made by the Republicans in the South this week had some relationship to the anti-administration feeling of the public over the Mississippi controversy and may be a forerunner of trouble for Mr. Kennedy in the next presidential election, as there may be a "States Rights" ticket that will draw electoral votes from him. The Republicans now have 11 seats in the House of Representatives from southern states—the highest proportion in nearly 100 years.

Examining the outcome of various senatorial contests, irrespective of party, the minority groups played a decisive part in the big states. Senator Javits of New York, Republican, and Edward Kennedy, Democrat, in Massachusetts owe their large margins to the big vote of such minority groups. For, all other things being equal, there are many voters who are influenced by the fact that the candidate happens to be of the same religion as their own. These are not pleasant matters to discuss, but in practical politics they are discussed every day—and one hears that Gov. Brown in California benefitted by a large vote in that category.

As for the congressional elections, the most important result was the failure of the President to win an increased majority in the House of Representatives. It matters little that the Democrats point out with satisfaction that they lost less than in any off-year election for Congress since 1934. What is important, however, is that they did lose seats.

Labor Leaders In U.S. and Canada Battle

AFL-CIO Backing of Labor Dispute Irks Canadian Congress

BY FRANK FLAHERTY
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service
OTTAWA, Ont. — Big labor leaders in Canada and the United States are in the middle of one of their rare fights.

It looks the noisiest and bitterest they've had and could result in a severance of long - standing arrangements for cooperation.

The Canadian Labor Congress is angry about the way the AFL-CIO appears to back the Seafarers International Union of Canada
(SIU) in a bitter jurisdictional fight with the Canadian Maritime Union.

Traditionally major labor organizations in the two countries act on the slogan "solidarity forever." any fights they have are settled in the security of private rooms.

Outsiders, outlaw unions, employers and politicians often complain of American dominance of Canadian unions, equal to American dominance of Canadian business. Orthodox labor men regard that as anti-labor propaganda, inspired by "bosses" who want to keep Canadian unions weak and Canadian wages down.

SIU Expelled
The SIU was expelled from the Canadian Labor Congress for raiding. Then the CLC set up a Canadian union to organize seamen on Canadian ships, the Canadian Maritime Union (CMU).

CMU obtained a contract with one lake steamship company. SIU retaliated by picketing ships manned by CMU members, and allegedly used strong-arm tactics against CMU men.

The CLC enlisted members of other unions, including canal workers, and blocked the Welland Canal to ships manned by SIU seamen.

The Canadian government intervened to end the blockade, and appointed Justice T. G. Norris as a commissioner to investigate.
For months now, SIU and CMU have been engaged in a verbal battle before the commissioner.

He's now holding hearings in Montreal, chosen as the site of a three-day meeting of the maritime trades department of the AFL-CIO.

Attack CLC

At that meeting, while Judge
Norris carried on his probe, Hal
Banks, president of the Canadian SIU, and Paul Hall, president of the SIU of North America, attacked the CLC.

The meeting passed a resolution calling CLC vice-president William Dodge a "scab and a strike-breaker." The senior Canadian labor organization was accused of using the Norris commission to destroy the SIU.

As the meeting began CLC president Claude Jodoin telegraphed AFL - CIO president George Meany protesting against its being staged in Montreal at this time.

He said the Maritime Trades Department (MTD) Montreal meeting was "a completely unjustified intrusion into Canadian affairs" and "an affront to the Canadian judicial system." Meany ignored the telegram.

Attack Unwarranted

Jodoin later called MTD officers' attack on Dodge "completely unwarranted" and "an invasion of the democratic rights of unionists in Canada." He predicted it would be deeply resented by union members in Canada and other countries.

The Canadian Labor Congress is a federation of most Canadian trade unions. Its principal constituents are international unions which also belong to the AFL-CIO.

The Seafarers International is an exception, having been kicked out of the CLC while remaining in good standing in the AFL-CIO.
James Hoffa's Teamster Union is now out of the CLC but remained in it long after the teamsters were ousted from the AFL-CIO.

High School seniors and graduates have only until Nov. 16 to apply for the Navy's Reserve Officer Training Corps. Applicants will take the nationwide competitive examination Dec. 8 as the first step toward an appointment as midshipman.

Designed to supplement the officer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for a young man to earn a regular commission while studying at a civilian college of his choice which has an NROTC unit. All tuition, fees and books are furnished by the Navy, and the student receives an annual retainer of $600 for not more than four years. During the summer, the student goes on interesting training cruises to many parts of the world. After completing the usual four year college course, he is commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty as a prospective career officer in the Naval service. He receives the same promotional opportunities, duty assignments and benefits as his Naval Academy contemporary.

High school seniors and graduates who have reached the 17th anniversary of birth and have not reached the 21st anniversary of birth on June 30, 1963, may apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Those who make a qualifying

Age Called Factor In Wiley's Defeat

GOP Chairman Says Explosive Press Conference Also to Blame

MADISON (AP) — Claude Jasper, Wisconsin's Republican chairman, says his contributing factors in the defeat of Sen. Alexander Wiley were his age and an explosive press conference.

Jasper blamed the defeat of Philip Kuehn, the Republican candidate for governor, on the nominee's tax stand.

The 78-year-old Wiley, a veteran of 24 years in the Senate, was beaten in Tuesday's election by Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

whose victory gave Wisconsin two Democratic senators for the first time in history.

Nelson, completing his second term as chief executive, gathered 648,832 votes to 583,258 for Wiley on the basis of unofficial returns from 3,485 of the state's 3,525 precincts.

Kuehn, losing for a second time in the governor's race, was defeated by Democratic Atty. Gen. John Reynolds. Reynolds' vote count in the same number of precincts was 627,438 to 615,454 for Kuehn.

Wiley Rejected

Jasper said Wednesday night he was "inclined to think" Wiley was rejected because "the people mistakenly related the senator's annoyance" during a press conference Oct. 9 "with his age."

Wiley became angry during the conference when questioned about his stand on the administration's medicare bill, which he opposed, and told a newsmen to mind his own business.

Jasper said he thought Wiley "was badly maligned by the press as a result of the conference," and added:

"I'm not blaming the press. It was just an unfortunate thing and I'm sure if they had known all the facts they would not have been as rough. Actually, as we know now, the senator was under the tremendous pressure of foreign affairs, especially Cuba."

"In view of this, when the consequential issue of medical care was raised, he became extremely annoyed. This created a false image of the man. I'm sure that, in the same situation, a man of 45 years would have acted the same way."

Had 'Monkey'

Turning to the governor race, Jasper said, "We had the tax monkey on the Democrats' back until about six weeks ago, but in some way the psychology or image changed to show the Republicans stood for more taxes and the Democrats for less taxes and more services."

Jasper said Reynolds' ads picturing a sales tax on bread, butter and shoes had a big effect, "and we didn't have anything to counteract it."

"The Kuehn group," he said, "was taken up with this television jungle about Kuehn the leader and it wasn't until the last minute they agreed to put on a panel with figures comparing taxes of a family of four under Kuehn and Reynolds programs."

Jasper continued: "We had been getting this for two weeks—complaints from our Republican friends that the election was sliding, sliding. In a strictly Republican area it was shocking to

North Shore Line to Continue for 10 Days

CHICAGO (AP) — Service between Chicago and Milwaukee on the Chicago and North Shore Railway is expected to be provided for at least another 10 days.

The Interstate Commerce Commission recently gave the line permission to discontinue operation Nov. 2. Officials of the line, however, agreed to continue operating trains, pending a decision in a new federal court suit filed by the State of Illinois and a commuters organization which challenged the ICC's right to order the line abandoned.

A panel of three U.S. District judges heard arguments by Illinois officials and the commuters at Chicago Wednesday. The judges set Nov. 14 as a deadline for filing replies. It probably will be several days after Nov. 14 before the judges render a decision.

find that a number of people voted for Reynolds and then voted for the rest of the Republican ticket."

Kuehn favored a general three per cent sales tax with a credit refund while Reynolds backs increased income taxes.

"It was strictly that these people had no understanding of Kuehn's credit refund," Jasper said.

While the Republicans were losing the two plums in the election, they won the four remaining constitutional state offices.

Jasper continued: "We had maintained control of the Legislature and re-elected their six congressmen. The state's four re-sliding, sliding. In a strictly Republican area it was shocking to

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Auto accidents during the night in three widely separated Wisconsin counties resulted in three deaths and raised the state's 1962 traffic toll to 797 compared with 760 on this day a year ago. The victims included a Waukesha bank president.

Miss Judith Schaap, 24, of Plymouth was killed at 1:30 a.m. today when the car she was driving hit a power pole at the eastern outskirts of Plymouth. She was thrown out and pinned beneath the automobile. Her sister, Gladys, 30, and a friend, Gloria Minch, also of Plymouth, escaped with minor injuries. The three had spent the evening bowling.

Walter W. Coombs, 57, Route 4, Oconomowoc, president of the Dousman State Bank, was killed Wednesday evening when his car left a Waukesha County road on the outskirts of Dousman and struck a bridge support.

Ole Haug, 84, of Whitehall in Trempealeau County was killed Wednesday when struck by a car as he attempted to walk across Highway 53 to the home of his son, Palmer, on the outskirts of Whitehall. The pair had walked several miles from a machine shop operated by the son.

Nixon Charges Press Was Unfair in Race

New York Post, the Milwaukee Journal and the Fresno and the Sacramento Bee

Nixon added after that "But I couldn't disagree more." He then went on

"I would hope that in the future, as a result of this campaign, that perhaps they (the newspapers) would try, at least simply, to see what both candidates say is reported, that, if they have questions, to ask the same questions of the other candidate

"I hope that what I have said today will at least make television, radio and the press first recognize the great responsibility they have to report all the news and, second, to recognize that they have a right and a responsibility, if they are against a candidate—give him the shaft

"But also recognize, if they give him the shaft—put one lonely reporter on the campaign who will report what the candidate says, now and then. Thank you, gentlemen, and good day."

Not Accusing All

The former vice president made it clear his indictment was not directed at all reporters

"There is one reporter here," he said, "who has religiously, when he was covering me—and, incidentally, this is no reflection on the others because some of you, you know, weren't bothered by me. I've got to get acquainted with the only reporter on the (Los Angeles) Times that fits this incidentally are from a political thing who wrote every word that standpoint of course to take a I said—wrote it fairly wrote it objectively.

"I don't mean that others didn't miss I couldn't feel frankly, have a right to do it differently more proud of my staff for the but Carl, despite whatever feelings he had, felt that he had an obligation to report the facts as he saw them."

Nixon also defended the right of editorial expression

"I can only say that the great metropolitan newspapers in this field have a right to take any position they want to on the editorial page. But on the other news page they also have a right to have reporters cover—men who have strong feelings—whether they are for or against a candidate, but the responsibility also is to put a few Greenbergs on a candidate they happen to be against. Whether they are against him on the editorial page or just philosophically deep down a fellow who at least will report what the man said. That's all anybody can ask."

Gov. Brown said his campaign received "very fair coverage."

"The press has treated me fairly," Brown said. "I'm almost afraid to say that because my opponent might say this is evidence of special treatment (from the press)

Long Political Holiday

Of Nixon's news conference Brown said "I think Mr. Nixon took the defeat a little bit hard. In retrospect, he'll feel differently."

At his news conference Nixon said this of his future

"Well, my plans are to go home. I've got to get acquainted with the (Los Angeles) Times that fits this incidentally are from a political thing who wrote every word that standpoint of course to take a I said—wrote it fairly wrote it objectively.

"I don't say this with any sad. I couldn't feel frankly, have a right to do it differently more proud of my staff for the campaign they helped me to put on."

Publisher Otis Chandler of the Los Angeles Times said his paper has supported Nixon in all his campaigns and "we continue to believe that he was the best qualified candidate for governor, as we said in our endorsement editorial of Oct. 21."

The Sacramento and Fresno Bees, two other papers mentioned by Nixon, are members of the McClatchy group. Myron V. DePew, assistant to the McClatchy editor, said "We can't make any comment. We'd like to know what in the world he was getting at."

Untruths About Papers

Norman E. Isaacs, executive editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, said

"Mr. Nixon seems to make the necessary distinction between editorial endorsement and news coverage. On this we agree. We agree that newspapers ought to take editorial positions. We agree that they should report what a candidate has to say. This is what we have done—report what the candidates have had to say including untruths they have had to say about our newspapers."

Nixon headquarters in Los Angeles provided The Associated Press with a list of about 45 daily California newspapers that endorsed Nixon. A Nixon aide said several papers probably had been omitted from the list which was prepared from memory. Brown headquarters provided a list of a dozen pro-Brown papers and said it also had probably overlooked several.

Major dailies endorsing Nixon included the Los Angeles Times, San Francisco Chronicle, Oakland Tribune, San Diego Union, San Diego Tribune, Sacramento Union, Hollywood Citizen News, San Jose Mercury News and Riverside Press-Enterprise.

Brown Supporters

Major dailies endorsing Brown included the San Francisco Examiner, San Francisco News Call Bulletin, Long Beach Independent and Press-Telegram, Sacramento Bee, Fresno Bee, San Bernardino Sun and Santa Barbara News-Press.

Nixon acquired a reputation of aloofness among some newsmen during his unsuccessful campaign for the presidency in 1960. A Nixon aide said privately during the California primary election campaign this year that the former vice president was aware of this situation and intended to conduct himself so that it would not be a problem again.

Nixon made what many felt was a conscientious effort to avoid the problem when he invited interviews during the general election campaign. A reporter who traveled with ship of California, was Richard M. Nixon, familiar again in bitter defeat

Nixon bowed out of politics with a denunciation of the press and the acerbic comment "You won't have Nixon to kick around any longer."

Nixon had sought through the force of his personality, his ability as a polished debater and his experience in television to overcome Gov. Edmund G. Brown in a state with a wide bulge in Democratic registrations. He lost.

Despite his penchant for provincialism and his difficulties with syntax, Brown proved himself an artist at pressing palms, slapping backs and chucking chins. He won.

Re-elect Kuchel

Just how little attention Californians paid to party labels was demonstrated when they re-elected Brown and at the same time gave a new six-year term to the Senate deputy Republican leader, Thomas H. Kuchel.

This seemed to be the mood of voters all over the country as they installed the first Republican governor of Oklahoma and put Democrats in the governors' offices in Vermont for the first time in 108 years and in New Hampshire for the first time in 40 years.

In Pennsylvania the same pattern put Scranton in as governor and gave Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark another term.

In Michigan Romney's victory was accompanied by the election of a Democratic lieutenant governor and a Democratic congressional man-at-large.

Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy was the shining star of the Democratic lineup. He won by a landslide the seat that his eldest brother gave up in 1960 to become President.

Ted Kennedy's run appeared to have pulled Endicott (Chub) Peabody to victory over Republican Gov. John A. Volpe. In the complete count of about 2.1 million ballots, Peabody had a 9,000 lead. Volpe talked of a recount.

Contest Closer

The contest in Rhode Island was considerably closer. With about 6,000 absentee ballots yet to be counted, Democratic Gov. John A. Notte had a 46-vote edge over his Republican opponent, John H. Chaffee.

In Minnesota with a handful of precincts remaining to be tallied Democratic Lt. Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag held a slim lead over the organization's local bar president, GOP Gov. Elmer L. Andersen.

The results were so close that the election may not be determined until the state canvassing board meets Nov. 20.

For all practical purposes, the Democrats threw back the Republican attempt to make traditional minority party congressional gains in a nonpresidential election year.

In the Senate the Democrats gained a net of four seats to make their ratio over the Republicans 68 to 32. This was the highest mark reached by the party since the 89 seats it held after the 1938 election.

In Tuesday's voting the party won additional strength where it needed it least, in the Senate. In the 87th Congress, the Senate went along with most of President Kennedy's major proposals, his program for Social Security-financed health care for the elderly being a notable exception.

Addition of four new liberal Democratic votes probably assures Senate passage of that program. But trouble lies ahead for the administration in the House. There the Democrats had elected 258 members, the Republicans 176. A Democrat was leading in one undecided race in Alaska. The Democratic margin in the last Congress was 261 to 174.

Paper, Guild Reach Accord

Agreement Still Must be Ratified By Union Members

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for the strikebound New York Daily News and the New York Newspaper Guild agreed today on terms of a new contract—subject to ratification by the strikers.

Announcement of the agreement, indicating a possible early end to the week-old strike, was made by an aide of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz after a seven-hour negotiating session.

Both sides in the dispute agreed not to make the terms of the agreement public until it is presented to a membership meeting of the guild unit at the Daily News.

Guild leaders' sped plans to present the proposal to a membership meeting tonight.

The strike shut down the News, the nation's largest newspaper, with a daily circulation of about two million.

Aims to Set Pattern

Wages have been a major issue in the negotiations.

The New York Newspaper Guild, a unit of the AFL-CIO, shares which is the same as in American Newspaper Guild, 1961 struck the News a week ago when the union's contracts with it and the six other major newspapers in the city expired.

The guild, in picking the News as its target, sought to get a contract settlement that would set a pattern for contracts with the other newspapers.

Four thousand members of mechanical and craft unions—such as printers, stereotypers and pressmen—refused to cross Guild picket lines, thereby forcing the paper to suspend publication.

Before the negotiating session Wednesday night, 18 of 18 issues had been resolved, Wirtz said. The remaining issues involved money and a "related" issue, he said.

The last publicly announced money offer by the News was a weekly package increase of $7.25 in two installments over the term of a two-year contract.

Dividend Set by Paper Company

WISCONSIN RAPIDS — A dividend of 35 cents a share for the fourth quarter of 1962 was declared by the Board of Directors of Consolidated Papers, Inc., at a meeting here Tuesday.

The dividend is payable Nov. 28, 1962 on stock of record at the close of business Nov. 13, 1962.

It will bring total dividend payments for the year to $1.40 per share which is the same as in 1961.

THANK YOU!

I sincerely appreciate the assistance, support and votes given to me in this campaign. Thank you all ever so much. You have bestowed upon me a great honor. I assure you that I will always make every effort to justify your confidence as Outagamie County's First District Assemblyman. Sincerely, world joined in expressing sorrow and loss.

"I have lost an inspiration," said U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, the only person outside of the family to visit Mrs. Roosevelt during the final weeks of her illness. He went by her invitation.

"She would rather light candles than curse the darkness," Stevenson said. "and her glow has warmed the world."

Private funeral services will be held at St. James Episcopal Church in Hyde Park, N.Y., north of New York City on the Hudson River, at 2 p.m. Saturday.

She will be buried in the rose garden of the family estate at Hyde Park, beside her husband, "in accordance with the joint wishes," the family said. His simple gravestone already bears her name and the year of her birth, 1884.

"Those at the interment service, in addition to family, will include representatives from the U.S. government, the United Nations, and the state of New York, as well as close friends of Mrs. Roosevelt," the announcement said. President Kennedy will attend. So will former President Harry S. Truman and his wife.

Plan Memorial
A memorial service at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City is being planned for sometime within the next two weeks.

The family gave permission for an autopsy, but its purpose was not made clear. Eight years ago, Mrs. Roosevelt willed her eyes to an eye bank.

Mrs. Roosevelt fought her illness with the same vigor with which she had pursued a career which took her to the far corners of the world.

She was often on the go—shuttling around the world on one errand or another, both public and private. She lectured far and wide and was known to the public in many lands.

Her travels were often the subject of good natured humor. They also brought barbed criticism from many who disliked her or her husband—or both of them.

Only after her death did the family disclose that her illness was discovered two and a half years ago. Initially, treatment permitted her to continue writing, speaking and battling for the causes for which she had become famous.

But last July, the anemia worsened and she entered the hospital for a series of tests. She left the hospital and went to Hyde Park for a rest, then to Campobello Island, where she had tirelessly helped her husband to recover from polio 40 years ago and resume his career despite the crippling handicap.

She re-entered the hospital Sept. 26, and was moved to her apartment three weeks later, at her request.

Mrs. Roosevelt died exactly 30 years after the first election of her husband to the presidency.

She campaigned with him through four successful bids for the presidency and served as the political eyes and ears for her physically handicapped mate.

Although having expressed a wish for "freedom from public notice" upon leaving the White House, Mrs. Roosevelt moved on to even wider fame.

She helped organize the United Nations and served President Truman, her husband's successor, as a United States representative to the United Nations.

executive committee of the National Security Council.

Later, at the United Nations, authoritative sources said the Soviet Union first proposed last Sunday that the U.S. Navy inspect outbound Soviet ships. Agreement on details was reached late Wednesday, the sources said.

They added that the Soviet Union had made the proposal because of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's opposition to international inspectors in Cuba. The sources said the United States was "quite happy" with the agreement as far as it goes, but "it's not a complete substitute for on-the-ground inspection."

In Washington, there is widespread belief that Castro is not the only fly in the inspection ointment. Despite the tight secrecy with which the Kennedy administration has now surrounded negotiations on Cuba there is reason to believe that Soviet representatives have been trying to chisel away Khrushchev's commitment to international inspection.

Stalls on Agreement

For one thing, his chief Cuban crisis negotiator at the United Nations, Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov, has been stalling on final agreement for removal of IL28 jet bombers from Cuba. U.S. officials seem confident that they will be withdrawn eventually.

In another development on the Cuban front, the White House Wednesday night authorized newsmen to go to the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba, Saturday.

Clearance of on-the-spot news coverage was granted after the government considered requests by news media to send correspondents to the base and to the area of the naval blockade.

The Pentagon also announced that two Argentine destroyers were on their way to join the blockading fleet. They are the first Latin-American warships to join in the quarantine, which was authorized by an Organization of American States resolution.

for the Democratic nomination in 1960.

When Kennedy won the party nod, she turned her energy toward his election and, the President said Wednesday night, "since the day I entered this office, she has been both an inspiration and a friend."

She was born Anna Eleanor Roosevelt on Oct. 11, 1884, a member of the Oyster Bay, N.Y., branch of the Roosevelt family and niece of President Theodore Roosevelt.

The President came to New York City in 1905 to give his niece in marriage to her handsome fifth cousin, Franklin. They had met and courted during his student days at Harvard.

Six children were born of the marriage, but one, the first Franklin Jr., died in infancy.

Terrors Place Two On All-FRVC Team

Kranzusch And Hietpas Are Honored

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

Aggressive, hard-hitting Tim Kranzusch and Gary Hietpas have become Appleton High School's first all-conference football players in two years.

For their key roles in helping AHS rise from the basement (in 1961) to a co-third place finish (in 1962), Hietpas and Kranzusch were named to the all-Fox River Valley Conference team by league sportswriters.

Kranzusch, a hard-rock tackle, was one of five players named both to the offensive and defensive honor units. Hietpas nailed down one of the linebacker posts. Seven members of Sheboygan South's undefeated champions won positions on either the offensive unit or the defensive unit or both. With a trio of 2-way players, Redmen were named to 10 of the 22 spots on the two alignments.

Place 2 Apiece
South is the only team that placed more than two different players on the glitter squad. Appleton, Oshkosh, East and West placed two gridders apiece. Manitowoc had one, and North failed to place.

The "both-ways" selections, besides Kranzusch, were Oshkosh's Larry Kopitz and South's Tony Kabord, John Cinealis and Tony Baranowski.

The repeaters from the '61 hon or team are Kopitz, Manitowoc guard Dave Hablewitz and East guard John O'Connell. Kopitz was cited on the defensive team only last year. This year, he stood out as a linebacker, and on the offense, he kept South from monopolizing the entire backfield.

The bull-dozing Kopitz, one of the unanimous picks (offensively) led the league in rushing, with

'Rules Ought to be Changed'

'You Gotta Sit on Him,' Says Huff of Taylor

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — "When you get him, you gotta sit on him or he'll keep moving. . . you gotta pile on him a little to keep him down."

The speaker was Sam Huff, linebacker for the New York Giants, and the "him" Huff was discussing is Green Bay Packer fullback Jim Taylor, who is making a runaway for rushing honors in the National Football League.

Huff also proposed that maybe the roughness rules ought to be changed a little in Taylor's case. He explained:

You can get an unnecessary roughness penalty easy when you pile on Taylor, but it's not right. You gotta pile on him a little to keep him down."

How It Feels
Bob Harrison, linebacker for the San Francisco 49ers explained how it feels to tackle Taylor.

"One time," Harrison said in a burst of bruised recollection, "Taylor saw me waiting for him and he ran right at me. I planted my feet wide apart to be as solid as possible, but he hit me so hard that he knocked me right into my life. Then he picked me up."

Eagles May Subject Bays to Concentrated Aerial Attack Sunday

Packer Defense One of Best In 20 Years

By ART DALEY

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Eagles are the passingest team in the National Football league — 267

attempts, 151 completions for 2,075 yards. Those figures top the league. And they serve as a warning to the Packers' defense. This is nothing new. The enemy has been throwing everything but the kitchen sink (built-in, of course) at the Green Bay defense.

Each week brings a new challenge. This week (in Philadelphia) the Bays may face a concentrated aerial bombing. Don't know what brought it out, but Coach Vince Lombardi remarked in the dressing room after the win in Chicago last Sunday that "they'll (the Eagles) prob a bly throw 50 passes at us."

Lions Creep Up

But the defense has been nothing short of sensational. Detroit's Lions have crept up and now each team leads in six defensive (statistics) categories.

The Packers are tops in the department where it really counts — points allowed, a miserly 61. That's an average of 7.6 per game.

The total adds up to seven touchdowns, seven extra points, and four field goals. One of the touchdowns didn't come at the expense of the regular defense. That would be Abe Woodson's 85-yard punt return. The remaining six TDs came on moves of 63, 34, 80, 91, 53 and 78 yards.

The field goals, two each by the 49ers' Tommy Davis and two by Dick Bielski of the Colts, were from 31, 13, 34, and 34 yards.

Thus, the enemy has been able to make good on only 11 scoring chances (getting the ball for offensive scrimmage) out of approximately 100 in the eight games. One out of 10! The Bears, for instance, had the ball 12 times and came out with one score. The Colts had it for 11 and came out with two scores (field goals).

How good is the Packer defense? Obviously, it's too early for answers to such a query. There are still six toughies ahead

Dixie Walker Named New Braves Coach

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fred (Dixie) Walker, who joined the Milwaukee Braves coaching staff in 1960, was named a coach for the 1962 season Wednesday by manager Bobby Bragan and president John McHale.

Walker, 52, played with New York, Chicago and Detroit in the American League and with Brooklyn and Pittsburgh in the National League during his 17-year-career in the majors. He had a major league lifetime batting average of .306.

Walker has served as a coach with the St. Louis Cardinals and as a minor league manager since retiring as a player.

Badgers Have 'Even Chance' Against NU, Bruhn Declares

Wildcats Aren't Ranked First By Mistake, Milt Stresses

MADISON (AP) — University of Wisconsin football coach Milt Bruhn doesn't feel that playing top-rated Northwestern Saturday simply amounts to putting a double barreled Myers-Flatley shotgun to the collective Badger head.

Bruhn said "We've got an even chance" and indicated his club has a lot more hope.

"This week the players started out with purpose," the coach said. "Even in something like calisthenics, they're yelling with the snap."

Purdue's DiGravio May Face MSU

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — No. 1 Purdue quarterback Ron DiGravio saw limited action with the starting backfield Wednesday, raising hopes that his injured ankle will be healed in time for Saturday's game at Michigan State.

Running with DiGravio in the offensive workout were halfbacks Tom Bloom and Dave Miller and fullback Gene Donaldson. Still on the injured list were fullback Curtis Vick and halfback Tom Fugate, both with bad knees.

Notre Dame Works On Balanced Offense

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame brushed up its aerial and ground attacks Wednesday and pointed a balanced-offense against Pittsburgh Saturday.

The No. 1 backfield included quarterback Daryle Lamonica, halfbacks Ron Bley and Don Hogan, and fullback Joe Farrell. Frank Budka worked at both quarterback and left half.

Vike Co-Captain Has Never Missed A Football Tilt

When Tom Schinabeck, Lawrence College's offensive center and co-captain, steps into the Midwest Conference test at Carleton this weekend he will be playing in his 54th consecutive game in a string which goes back eight years.

The griddler from Sheboygan North has not missed a football game in his entire playing career. He participated in games during all four years of high school and has been a regular at Lawrence since a sophomore.

The record on the football field is about the same as the Schinabeck classroom record — it is filled with honors. Tom is a premed student at Lawrence and has maintained an "A-B" average during his four years of undergraduate work.

On the field, Schinabeck is recognized as one of the best of a

Taylor Travels At a Record Rushing Pace

Gains Tie for Fourth Place In Scoring Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Taylor, star fullback of the unbeaten Green Bay Packers, has increased his rushing lead in the National Football League to 255 yards while traveling at a record-breaking pace.

Taylor, who gained 124 yards and scored four touchdowns against the Chicago Bears last Sunday, has picked up 934 yards for the campaign. His average is about 117 yards for eight games which, if continued, would give him 1,638 for the season. The individual rushing record is 1,527 in 257 attempts by Jimmy Brown of Cleveland in 1958. Brown, currently in fifth place with 561 yards has won the title in all five of his years in the NFL.

Fourth-Place Tie
Taylor's four TDs also moved him into a fourth-place tie in individual scoring with John Crow of St. Louis. Each has 60 points on 10 touchdowns. Frank Clarke of the Dallas Cowboys is the leader with 72 points followed by Bobby Mitchell, Washington, 66 and Paul Hornung, Green Bay 62.

Sonny Randle of St. Louis moved into a first-place tie with the Redskins' Mitchell in pass completions. Each has 44. Tommy McDonald of Philadelphia dropped to third with 41.

John Henry Johnson of the Pittsburgh Steelers moved into second place behind Taylor in rushing with 679 yards. He replaced Don Perkins of Dallas, who was sidelined with a sprained ankle for the second half against

Neil Johnston To Coach Rens

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Neil Johnston signed a one-year contract Wednesday to coach the Pittsburgh Rens of the American Basketball League.

Johnston's signing came after a short meeting with new owner Bill Rosensohn. Johnston coached the Rens last season.

Rosensohn said, "we never were apart on dollars. We waited until Johnston had a chance to see the team in practice and to evaluate his personnel."

The Rens have been practicing in nearby McKeesport in preparation for the season's opener Nov. 16 against Chicago.

The current varsity roster includes five seniors, a pair of juniors and five sophomores. Lettermen back include Gih Hietpas, 6-5 senior center; Bill

All-America Checklist

UW-NU Game May Be Real Starmaker

CHICAGO (AP) — It takes a pressure game to jell an All-America candidate, and Saturday's meeting between top-ranked Northwestern and amazing Wisconsin could be a real starmaker.

The Big Ten football campaign suddenly has developed into a cliff-hanger affair, but if there is any key contest it is the Madison, Wis., joust between pacesetter Northwestern (4-0) and runnerup Wisconsin (3-1).

As far as the Associated Press Midwest All-America screening board is concerned, this game could prove a clincher for any of more than a half-dozen talented candidates.

Already established as prime All-America prospects are the rival quarterbacks in the big Madison mix, Northwestern's Tommy (Gun) Myers and Wisconsin's Ron (Handy Vandy) VanderKelen.

But there are other Wildcat and Badger standouts, already cited by the midwest board, who could make a lot of All-America hay in Saturday's crucial Big Ten battle.

Top Players

These include towering end Pat Richter, guard Jim Schenk and tackle Roger Pillath of Wisconsin, and guard Jack Cvercko, tackle Joe Szczeko and flanker back Paul Flatley of Northwestern.

Big Ten statistics have set the stage for a show not only between Myers and VanderKelen, but also ace receivers Flatley and Richter.

Myers is the current Big Ten passing leader with 57 hits on 92 tosses for 779 yards and 8 touchdowns. VanderKelen, runnerup in passing with 49 out of 85 for 611 yards and 5 TD's, leads the Big Ten in total offense with 741 yards against Myers' net of 707. The non-running Wildcat star has lost 72 yards rushing.

Flatley and Richter rate one-two as the Big Ten's best receivers. Flatley has snagged 22 tosses for 299 yards and Richter 21 for 273 yards, each in 4 league games.

Injured Men

Both Richter and Cvercko have been hobbled this week, Cvercko seriously enough to be a doubtful starter. However, Wildcat Coach Ara Parseghian has hopes the talented Cvercko may have "another miracle" and play as well against Wisconsin as he did in Northwestern's upset of Ohio State.

The midwest board gave strong support to three stars from losing teams, including halfback Marv Woodson of Indiana, halfback Larry Ferguson of Iowa and center Rich Butkus of Illinois.

Meanwhile, the board continued to keep high on its All-America checklist such season-long stars as tackles Bobby Bell and Carl Eller of Minnesota; fullback George Saimes of Michigan State, and tackle Don Brumm of Purdue.

Svare Plans No Drastic Changes For Colt Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams had a busy day under their new head coach, Harland (Swede) Svare, Wednesday.

Svare called the squad together at 9:30 a.m., 90 minutes before the usual 11 a.m. get-together, and an hour later the players were on the field, working for Sunday's game here against the Baltimore Colts.

Svare said that in assuming the duties cast aside Tuesday by Bob Waterfield, he will not spare anyone or himself in trying to salvage something from a season that has produced only one victory in eight starts.

Svare indicated, however, that he plans no drastic personnel changes for the Baltimore game.

Bleier's Bar Hands Sindahl's First Losses In Volleyball Loop

Bleier's Bar took three games from Sindahl's to remain unbeaten and took over sole possession of first place in the Appleton Recreation Department Men's Volleyball League.

Bleier's (12-0) posted victories of 15-12, 15-3 and 15-12.

The Power Company Chargers (9-3) moved into a tie for second place by sweeping three games from the Power Company Kilowatts, (1-11) 15-2, 15-12 and 15-0. The Police Department (8-4) won a pair of games from AAL (3-9) by scores of 15-5 and 15-11 and dropped the third game, 15-13. Valley Ready Mix (3-9) won two games from Appleton Mills (3-9) by margins of 15-8 and 15-10 before losing 15-9.

Celics Win on Cousy's Goal

Knicks Hand
Hawks First Home
Loss of Season

Old pro Bob Cousy, now in his last season with the Boston Celtics, still has that knack of getting the points when they count.

Couz dropped in a field goal and a free throw in the last 11 seconds Wednesday night for the key points in Boston's 106-105 National Basketball Association triumph over Cincinnati. Los Angeles swept past San Francisco 132-108 and New York handed St. Louis its first home loss of the season 122-112 in the other games.

The 34-year-old Cousy, who has signed to coach Boston College next season, hit from the field with 11 seconds left, breaking a 103-103 tie at Cincinnati. He added another point on a free throw five seconds later before the Royals came rushing back.

Misses Jump Shot

Oscar Robertson, who finished with 42 points, flashed down the court and sank a basket, pulling the Royals to within one point. Bob Boozer stole the ball from Boston, but missed a jump shot at the buzzer.

Cousy finished with 17 points, second to the Celtics' Sam Jones, with 23.

string of fine offensive centers at Lawrence. He was given honorable mention in the All-Midwest rankings last year.

At North High School, he was named All-Fox River Valley center, despite the fact that he was playing with a losing team. Last year he was given mention in the small college All-American rankings of his fraternity.

Perhaps the best single token of Schinabeck's accomplishments is signified by the trophy he won as a senior at Sheboygan. This is given to the outstanding "student and athlete" in the graduating class. At Lawrence, he has been awarded the Junior Spoon as the outstanding man of his class, the prize scholarship in semantics, and is a member of Mace, senior honor society.

The 195-pound, 5-10 veteran has always played center. In high school he doubled as a linebacker, and still misses the defensive work. "Specialization," he remarks, "does let a player concentrate upon a single job."

That single job of Schinabeck's is one of the toughest in modern football. As a T-formation center, Schinabeck is called upon to block the nearest linebacker or the man in front of him during most of and guards.

Offices in Homes Will Be Prohibited by New Professional Ordinance

City Council Okays Measure but Feels Rules Will be Confusing

Certain groups of professional people, depending on who they are, what they do and the kind of equipment needed to do it, will be prohibited in the future from having offices in their homes. The common council, at the urging of Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings, Wednesday night repealed a section of the ordinance which had permitted offices in a single family districts. Affected by the council action will be a physician, surgeon, dentist, musician, artist, architect, engineer, insurance agent "or other recognized profession". The city still has a so-called home occupation ordinance which will permit some business activities in a residence but these are not clearly delineated.

Future Confusion

As a result, it appears there will be confusion in the future as to who may be permitted to transact business in a residence located in a zone A district. Apparently almost all members of the common council understood the somewhat vague ordinances being dealt with because the Stillings-authored proposal was passed by a 17 to 2 vote. No mention was made as to how the new ordinance prohibiting businesses in residential homes will be enforced. "We will have to rely on one neighbor squealing on the other," is the way one city official put it—and he was serious.

Mrs. Stillings said the home occupancy ordinance was being left on the books to accommodate people with certain occupations that require no extra equipment and displays.

Real Estate

It was Mrs. Stillings' opinion that insurance and real estate agents could be permitted to conduct business from their homes if they desired to do so.

Professional people with offices now in their homes will not be affected by the ordinance change. Ald. Clifford Radder was vehemently opposed to the change. He said "Two of the largest businesses in Appleton were started in basements of homes, moved into a garage and then new locations."

"I don't think it is realized what is being done here," Radder said. Ald Alvin Tewes said "There are many things not understood about this ordinance". Mrs. Stillings insisted the home occupation ordinance would take care the situation. "The small home does not permit big business," she said.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Stillings informed the council she was disturbed that a dentist in her home. "We have to protect nice neighborhoods from this sort of thing," Mrs. Stillings said.

"Our 13,000 Farmer Members Have A Guaranteed Market For All Their Milk "Now"

Yes, the 13,000 dairy farmers of DOC plants have a guaranteed market for the 8½ million pounds of milk they produce every day.

These dairy farmers built and own the more than 20 plants which serve the members and the market in the most efficient and economical manner yet devised.

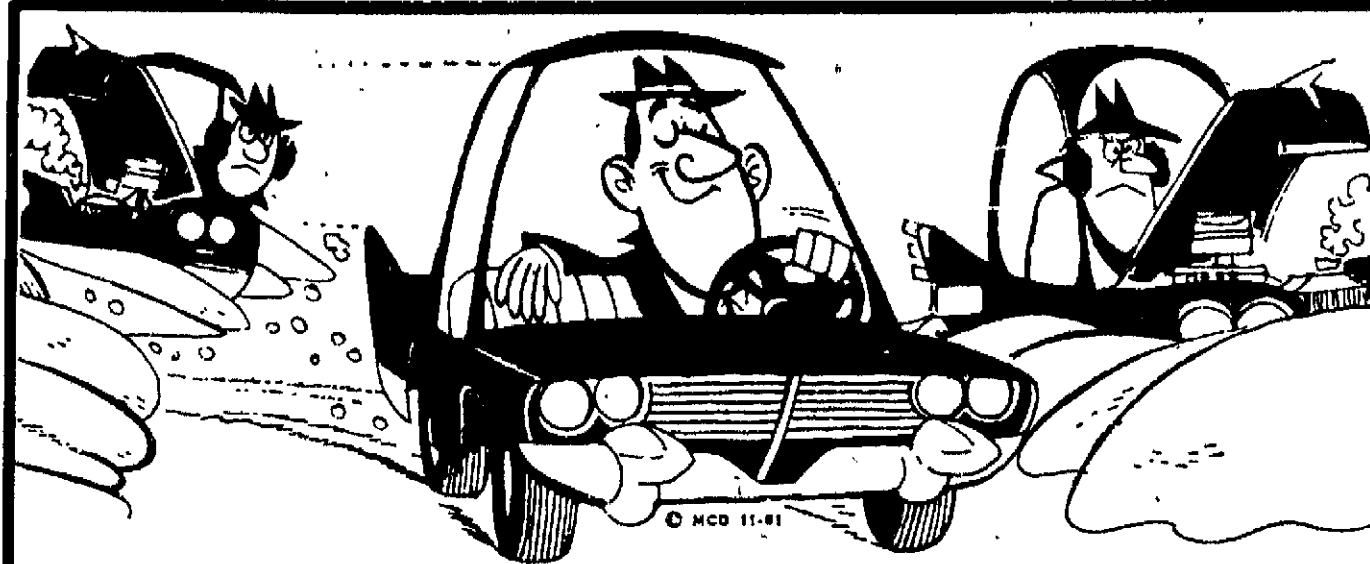

When city markets for fluid milk and cream cannot use all the milk these plants receive every day the DOC plants process this excess milk into butter, powder and cheese.

The large volume received by these well equipped and well staffed plants makes for real efficiency and the lowest possible operating costs and the highest pay price. No one does the job better or at less cost to the milk producer.

It pays to belong to one of these 14 DOC cooperatives which in total handle several billion pounds of milk annually. If you are not a member, talk with the manager of your nearest operating cooperative today.

Executive's Opinions Sweet Music to Jingo

Development of Dramatic Arts as Important as Science to Society

BY JINGO

It's a funny thing how more important ideas that you've held and espoused for some time take on the appearance of something of considerable importance when they are pronounced by someone else. This is especially true when the theme is used by someone of considerable respect on an occasion of some importance.

Such an experience has been Jingo's and he'd like to pass it along to you for what it's worth.

Below is a transcript of remarks made by business executive Fletcher B. Coleman on the occasion of the dedication of the new dramatic arts building at Illinois Wesleyan University. Jingo hopes you will recognize some ideas that have appeared here before.

Why erect a dramatic arts building? Broadway is over-supplied with unemployed actors, but we desperately need more nuclear physicists, engineers, mathematicians. Are the dramatic arts important? Do they serve the welfare of a free society? I think they do and for these reasons.

They hold up the mirror in which society can see itself. They give life, impact, form and substance to the printed word. They stimulate popular support for noble goals; they prick pomposity. They bring light and color and sound and movement to great ideas. They resurrect history and remind us of its lessons.

Sustain Ideals

The dramatic arts rephrase and refreshen a society's ideals and aspirations and remind it of its failures. They help man see himself in an infinite variety of contexts. They bring to life experiences and situations remote in time or distance—they let us share the cultures of other peoples and give us new insight into the many worlds in which we live. They can probe as no other medium can into man's mind, his societies, his institutions.

And to the student, they teach poise and self-possession and the art of articulate expression, and these he must have if he is to live effectively with his fellow man. They give him a great arena in which he can loose his

Neurotic Tries to Mar Kildare

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5) — Dr. Kildare has Larry Parks with a chilling portrait of a complete neurotic. And, before it's all over, Richard Chamberlain's hysterical fans will probably be turning teen-age gray. This fiend, Parks, is out to get Chamberlain! He makes him work very hard. He sets things up so it looks like Our Noble Intern is incompetent. Even the sagacious Dr. Gillespie (Raymond Massey) begins to look at Dr. Kildare with suspicion.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — Wide Country tells a nice, simple, predictable story of an ex-convict drifter (Michael Ansara) with a heart of purest gold. At the beginning, we eavesdrop on him dreaming and learn why he's mad at the world in general and his father in particular. In fact, he wants to kill his father, but some teen-age motorcycleists rob him of his money and gun, so he takes up with the rodeo to earn the money to continue his murderous trip.

8-9 (Channel 2) — The Nurses tells a story which the other medical shows have already done. We're in the hospital's prison ward, with a dying prisoner. And the doctors battle to save him for his inevitable date with the electric chair. The ethical problem: Is it right to cure only to kill?

8:30-9 (Channel 11) — McHale's Navy bases its comedy on one funny premise — the men use movie soundtracks of battle scenes to make the Japanese think they're being attacked in force. It's only when a reel containing something other than battle sounds is used that the men of PT73 get into real trouble.

9-10 (Channel 11) — Premiere tells a story of two feuding Marines during World War II. Harry Guardino (with a Southern accent) plays a sergeant who strikes up an antipathy toward a recruit, played by Chris Robinson. At one point, Guardino makes Robinson wear a camouflage mask for 10 days, and this changes Robinson from a happy-go-lucky boy into a man with one purpose — to destroy his antagonist.

9-10 (Channel 2) — If, during the course of The Alfred Hitchcock Hour, the whole plot seems familiar, it will be because this is the second time around for this script. It was originally used on Lene Schrader and Mrs. Mary Schrader. They are sisters-in-law.

Law and You Unmarked Land No Exception To Wisconsin Trespass Laws

Most people realize that any entry upon land owned by another without his permission is a trespass, but many people also believe that there are various exceptions in the case of hunting or fishing. The fact that land is not "posted" doesn't mean you can hunt there. It is unlawful to hunt or shoot on any land enclosed by a fence or to enter upon enclosed or cultivated lands or woodlots to hunt, fish or trap, without permission of the owner or occupant.

If the land is not fenced or posted, and if it is not cultivated, one may hunt there without committing criminal trespass. However, it should be noted that in central and southern Wisconsin, there are very few areas which are not enclosed by fences or cultivated.

Even if the land isn't enclosed or cultivated the owner or occupant may keep hunters off by placing signs on the property, or by personally notifying them not to hunt there. The signs must be at least eleven inches square and must include the name of the owner or occupant. They must be posted in at least two conspicuous places on every forty acres.

Trespassers are subject to fines of as much as $50 and jail if the fine is not paid. They also may be subject to civil suit for damages by the property owner. Don't have your outing ruined. Secure permission to hunt.

Mrs. Roosevelt Had Concern for Others

Former First Lady Became Well-Known For Her Fight to Help Those in Need

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Life for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the great and gracious lady who died Wednesday night, would have been deeply different if she had been born a generation earlier.

Then she might have been considered just a goodhearted but ineffectual busybody. But she made the most of her times and her opportunities until, when she died, she had become the best-loved woman in the world.

She had that priceless quality in a human being: Concern for other people. She had an even rarer quality: A willingness to do something about her feeling.

The underlying philosophy in much she did for people was the belief the government must take an increasing responsibility for the general welfare.

This was a responsibility that government ducked through most of its history and only assumed in the 1930s to avoid national chaos in the desolation of depression. It was forced into it.

Until President Roosevelt's New Deal of the 1930s, the national philosophy was so-called rugged individualism which too often became a philosophy of the devil-take-the-hindmost.

Until New Deal days there would have been far fewer to listen to her and, more fatal to her ideas of a better world, far fewer in positions of power to cooperate with her.

She insisted, in explaining her activities in behalf of groups and people in general, that she simply had to do what she thought was right. What she considered right was not always what others considered right.

Battled Prejudice
Those others included the battalions with prejudices against a public and active life for women, racial prejudices, economic prejudices, social prejudices and even national prejudices.

She was criticized, lampooned, mimicked and belittled. But she was never deterred.

She was orphaned at 9, a girl with only inner beauty. Her very plainness no doubt helped identify more easily with the commonality of mankind.

She acquired an overpoweringly dominant mother-in-law. She had six children and a husband crippled by polio. And, what made her particularly human, was the fact that her social and political consciousness developed slowly.

With her drive she might have become a prominent figure even if her husband had not been president of the United States.

But the White House and the times in which she lived gave her the opportunity to become a full and leading participant in the life of the nation and the world.

She was one of those few people who, at the moment of death, could look back on her life and not feel that, if given another chance, she might have made better use of it.

Council Studies Union Pay Hike, OK Rezoning

Kaukauna Property May be Used for Disposal by Industry

KAUKAUNA — Aldermen reviewed city employee union requests at a council meeting Wednesday night, approved the counter-proposals recommended by the board of public works and left it to that organization to meet with the union Nov. 13 to discuss proposals.

City workers asked 10-cent per hour pay hike, the city offered five. Workers asked four weeks paid vacation after 20 years but the board recommended no change. The union wanted reduction of probationary period to 30 days but the city officials preferred keeping the 60-day probation.

City workers wanted temporary employee working time to apply toward probationary period, but city officials wanted no change. The union requested actual time worked in addition to 2-hour call in time at regular pay. The city offered two hours pay at time and one-half guaranteed on a call-in and additional time and one-half for hours worked beyond the 2-hour period. On other items both the union and city were agreed.

Approval was given to the hiring of Francis Jansen as a permanent employee on the street department.

Kaukauna Fund Drive Goal Short by $36,000

Money Would Permit St. Paul Home Addition, Increased Bed Capacity

KAUKAUNA — Approximately $9,000 has been collected in the second phase of the drive to raise funds for an addition to the St. Paul Home, far short of the $45,000 goal established. Captains were informed at the fifth weekly meeting at the home Tuesday night.

Albert Schmidt, co-chairman of the drive, urged captains to redouble their efforts and to contact other captains who have delinquent cards. Plans were discussed for a booster button campaign, arrangements to be made by Miss Margaret Mary DeClerq. The workers hope to raise $45,000 before the end of the year, thus permitting work on a modern, fire-resistant wing to get underway early in spring. The home currently accommodates 14 patients and the wing will increase the bed capacity to 50. The addition will make possible the admission of bedridden patients as well as male patients.

Appleton Man Fined For Disorderly Conduct

CHILTON — Rollin L. Toohey, 20, 1041 W. Bell Ave., Appleton, was fined $15 by Judge D. H. Sehora in Calumet County Court after Toohey admitted disorderly conduct.

Toohey was arrested by a county deputy as a result of an incident at a Waverly Corner beer bar Oct. 26.

from residential to heavy industrial by the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Company and Joseph and Elsie Killian was referred to the planning commission.

The land was recently annexed to the city from the Town of Buchanan and will be used by the paper company for disposal of industrial solids. Much of the land involved is ravine and unsuitable for building.

Aldermen approved a resolution transferring $106,000 from the contingent fund to the Vocational School fund, thus providing the school with money to finance the $106,000 addition to the school, Presently only women are accepted at the home.

The St. Paul Home is a non-profit, non-sectarian institution although staffed by the Franciscan Sisters of Charity. Plans were outlined for formation of a clean-up committee to review contacts after captains return pledge cards.

Red Cross Award to be Made Tuesday

The highest award given by the American Red Cross will be presented to an Outagamie County citizen at the annual meeting of the county chapter at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the 41 Bowl.

This certificate of merit award is only the 62nd to be given in Wisconsin since 1913. In 1960, an Outagamie County youth, 13-year-old Bruce Gunderson, received the award for saving the life of a 12 year old boy.

Chapter chairman George Browne will present the honor, after first aid chairman Bob Fender explains its significance.

In addition to the award, there will be election of officers for the county organization and revision of the by-laws.

Reservations for the dinner which will precede the meeting may be made at the Outagamie County Red Cross office at 110 E. North St.

St. Therese Holds Parents' Program

Adults Attend Instruction Instead Of Students at Catholic Parish

Parents' night was held Wednesday at St. Therese Catholic parish for fathers and mothers of public high school students. About 100 attended.

One of the major undertakings of St. Therese is its Confraternity of Christian Doctrine program for students in ninth through 12th grades who do not attend Catholic schools. These teen-agers attend religious instructions every Wednesday evening throughout the school year.

This Wednesday, however, their parents attended in place of the students to see first-hand the program being followed by their youngsters.

Cheese Makers Hit at Control By Government

Association Says Present Situation Is Undesirable

GREEN BAY — Opposition to government production controls for the dairy industry was expressed by the Wisconsin Cheese Makers Assn. here Wednesday.

Several delegates indicated interest in some form of voluntary controls by farmers and the industry. Continued heavy purchases of surplus by the government under price supports, they said, is an undesirable situation.

Members of the Cheesemakers Association, who met Wednesday afternoon behind guarded doors, are holding their 71st annual meeting. It will wind up at the Hotel Northland this evening with the awarding of the world's cheddar cheese championship during the convention banquet.

Reporters were barred from the session of the association's council Wednesday afternoon which featured an appearance by Donald N. McDowell, Madison, director of the State Dept. of Agriculture. Reporters also were not permitted to hear the discussion on resolutions.

It was learned, however, that McDowell discussed sanitary and other standards which are under state jurisdiction. He said relations between his department and cheesemakers are at a high level, but indicated that there still are some plant operators who are not too concerned about the public welfare.

It also was learned that McDowell talked about some new forms of dairy products which may be available soon. He said details are being worked out jointly by his department and the University of Wisconsin.

Elmer Beery, Shawano, vice president of the association, apologized for the rule barring reporters from the council meeting. He implied his belief that anything concerned with the production of food is public business.

"We've had this rule for a long time," he said, stating it was imposed after some members claimed a reporter in another city had written stories unfavorable to the association.

Appleton Group Airs Promotion Of 'Americanism'

A group of Appleton residents met Wednesday to discuss the possibility of forming an organization to promote Americanism.

About a dozen persons saw a film strip entitled "Communism on the Map" and then discussed the need and feasibility of organizing a group to provide information and combat apathy in the area of Americanism.

The group decided to invite Mark Stewart, one of the organizers of Act, Inc., in Green Bay, to talk to them in early December.

The meeting was called by Thomas Schiltz, who became interested in the subject through work as Americanism chairman with an Appleton service club. He sent out letters inviting about 35 persons to attend.

An Appleton woman had a special tie to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who died Wednesday. Mrs. Merton Gasper, 419 E. Harding Ave., and her daughter, Susan, both shared a birthday anniversary with the former First Lady.

In 1937 Mrs. Gasper learned that Mrs. Roosevelt's birthday and hers were on the same day, Oct. 11. She wrote to congratulate her, and on Oct. 27 received a letter from Mrs. Roosevelt, who was then First Lady.

Mrs. Gasper still treasures the letter, and over the years has sent cards to Mrs. Roosevelt. Susan, now a seventh grader at James Madison Junior High School, was born on Oct. 11, 1949.

Commemorative Issues Profitable for U. S.

Kennedy Administration Has Cut Number But Has Retained Profit at Same Level

BY PHILIP MEYER
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Production of the only post office item that makes money—the commemorative stamp—has been cut two-thirds by the Kennedy administration.

But the profits still roll in at almost the same rate they always did.

A post office audit shows the ex-President Eisenhower's postmaster general, Arthur Summerfield, made a profit for the government of $3,000,000 on 42 commemorative issues in 1960.

J. Edward Day, the present post office head, limits commemorative issues to 15 a year. Last year he turned a profit of $2,700,000.

He would have gone over three million, according to Special Assistant James F. Kelleher, except that sale of the 15th stamp was postponed until 1962. That was the Project Mercury issue, which had to be held on the pad until John Glenn got into orbit last February.

Why the Cut?

Why the reduced output? "We found we had to choose between issuing a lot of stamps of low quality or a few of high quality," says Kelleher. "Fifteen a year is the most that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing can turn out without sacrificing quality."

There's money in commemoratives because large numbers are bought up by collectors and never go on letters. And it costs the post office $35,000 for 120,000,000 four-cent stamps with a face value of $4,800,000.

But most collectors, according to Kelleher, are either youngsters or people of moderate means. They'll spend only so much on new issues, no matter how many the Post Office turns out.

Buck Passed

Getting somebody's face on a stamp used to be a political matter with the Post Office committees of both houses of Congress making the decisions. But plowing through all the requests grew so tiresome that Congress turned the job over to the postmaster general in 1955.

Summerfield struggled with the task for two years and finally passed the buck to a special citizen's advisory committee, a plan the Kennedy administration has retained.

Under Day the committee includes artists, stamp collectors, businessmen, and an historian, Bruce Catton. Its products have been not only notable but noticeable—which accounts for the impression on the part of many stamp buyers that there are more commemorative issues than there used to be.

Precedents Broken

Some precedent-breaking examples:

—A colorful four-center that used contemporary design to portray a nurse.

—Reproduction in color of a noted work of American art, Frederic Remington's "Smoke Signal."

—Elimination of the white border, running the design all the way out to the perforation. This was done on all four sides of the Arizona statehood issue and at the top of the Seattle World's Fair stamp.

—Printing stamps on colored paper. The Kansas centennial stamp was on bright yellow paper. The Kansas centennial stamp was on bright yellow paper, and the Charles Evans Hughes commemorative used light brown paper to give it a warm tone.

Design Competition

Also being tried for the first time is a public competition for a design of a stamp. The committee has invited professional artists to submit proposals for a stamp celebrating the 100th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg.

Still unsolved is the problem of going through all the ideas for things to commemorate. The committee gets 3,000 requests a year.

One ground rule helps it to narrow the field: any selection which would set a precedent, opening the door to other deserving candidates in the same field, is ruled out.

This is the excuse the committee gave when the Internal Revenue Service asked for a stamp celebrating its 100th anniversary. Rather than raise the question of whether that was anything to celebrate, the committee simply said it would open the door to re-

Homemakers Learn About Meat Cookery

Thursday, Nov. 8, 1962 Appleton Post-Crescent C1

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

It may seem unlikely that a two-hour session on meats could be compared to a three-ring circus, but that's the way it was last week at Kaukauna High School. There was never a dull moment . . . things kept popping every minute . . . the stars of the show are all experts . . . and the program itself was interesting, informal and liberally peppered with flashes of friendly humor.

The three stars were University of Wisconsin personnel who knew their fields, all with the Co-operative Extension Service. . . Quin Kolb, meat extension specialist . . . Charlotte Dunn, food and nutrition specialist . . . and Mary Beeler, institutional management specialist. The name of their program was "Meats for Modern Living" and they covered an immense field with dispatch and an overwhelming array of facts.

They used charts, they did demonstrations. Mr. Kolb showed various cuts of meat available by cutting up actual meat . . . both Miss Dunn and Miss Beeler assisted with the demonstrations, the informal discussions and on the side prepared an array of delicious dishes before the eyes of the audience with the aplomb of magicians.

Although recipes made on the spot were a highlight of the evening, this was not a cooking session. It was a rapid-fire study of meats, their uses, an explanation of various cuts and quality of meats, methods of cooking and ways the housewife can stretch her food budget dollar without sacrificing nutrition. Every dish prepared was made to prove a point.

Attractive service and the use of garnishes were given their due. Proper storage of meat, buyman-ship and variety in meat preparation were stressed.

High Points

Some of the high points brought out during the lively session were these: always cook meat at low temperatures; meat spells protein and protein in turn contributes to nutrition.

Meats take to broiling, roasting, stewing, braising, pan frying and simmering, depending on quality and need . . . but meats never should actually be boiled.

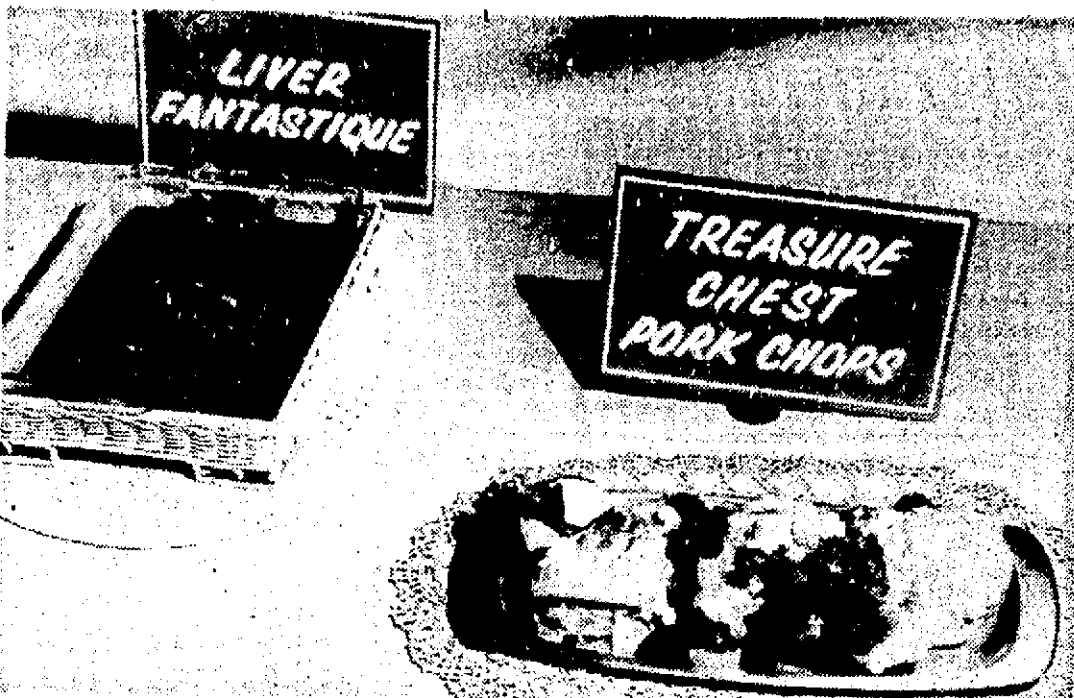

Liver and other variety meats such as heart, kidney, sweetbreads should be tried more often in interesting recipes to coax reluctant eaters of such foods because they provide nutrients in extraordinary amounts.

Pork, believe it or not, is not a high calorie meat, providing the fat has been trimmed off well . . . it is comparable to beef serving by serving.

Another point that any homemaker striving to be a good cook should observe . . . use a meat thermometer when roasting meats. This is especially useful for barbecued meats prepared over charcoal.

Now for the dishes that were prepared, here are most of them in recipe form. Each and every one is worth trying.

Liver Fantastique
1½ pounds beef or pork liver, sliced ½ inch thick
6 slices bacon, diced
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup dark brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar

Truly Good Eating and a boost to family nutrition is Liver Fantastique, an easy-to-prepare dish that's as delicious as its attractive name. Besides it is a handsome dish of Treasure Chest Pork Chops, stuffed with a savory cashew nut dressing, then simmered for about an hour in a mixture of condensed mushroom soup and water.

The Familiar Budget Stretcher in most families . . . hamburger . . . turns into a real gourmet dish as Beef Stroganoff. This is an excellent example of how to be creative with ordinary meats. Here the Stroganoff is served over dry Chinese noodles, but they could be plain cooked noodles or even rice. Apple and red cabbage slaw in green pepper halves add an attractive garnish to the serving platter.

Treasure Chest Pork Chops
6 pork rib chops, cut 1½ inches thick
¼ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons lard
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
2 cups coarse bread crumbs, toasted
½ cup finely chopped cashew nuts
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
10½-ounce can condensed mushroom soup
½ cup water
Cut or have the butcher cut inches from the heat. Broil six pockets in the chops to accommodate stuffing. If these are cut from the bone side rather than the meaty side of the chops, the pockets will hold the dressing securely.

Cook celery and onion in lard until tender. Combine egg, water, salt, poultry seasoning, cooked celery and onion and toasted bread crumbs. Add cashew nuts, mixing well. Fill pockets in pork chops with stuffing. Place pork chops, cut side down, in pan with lard or drippings; brown over low heat. Pour off drippings.

Mix mushroom soup and water. Pour over chops. Cover tightly and simmer for one hour or until done. Recipe makes six servings.

Breakfast Broil

Set regulator for broiling. Place chops on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so top surface of chops is two to three minutes. Turn chops and broil for two minutes on second side.

Broilers Fine Budget Aids For Autumn

Use broiler-fryers to save food money during November and December.

Broiler supplies usually go down each fall, but this year the cut-down is not as much as usual, according to Louise Archbold, consumer marketing specialist at the University of Wisconsin. Demand for broilers is seasonally light, too, so this should help keep prices low.

There's enough turkey to satisfy holiday appetites. But supplies of turkeys for the rest of 1962 are expected to be 10 per cent below last year's record crop.

Expect lower egg prices as more hens come into production. Last year, each American on an average, ate 325 eggs. This year, predictions say, we are likely to use a few less eggs per person, nationally.

Meat Supplies

Beef supplies will be slightly smaller than October's peak but about the same as a year ago. Longer cooking cuts are more popular with the coming of cooler weather. You may find better buys on beef loins and ribs now. Fewer pounds of lamb and veal are in markets this year than at this time in 1961.

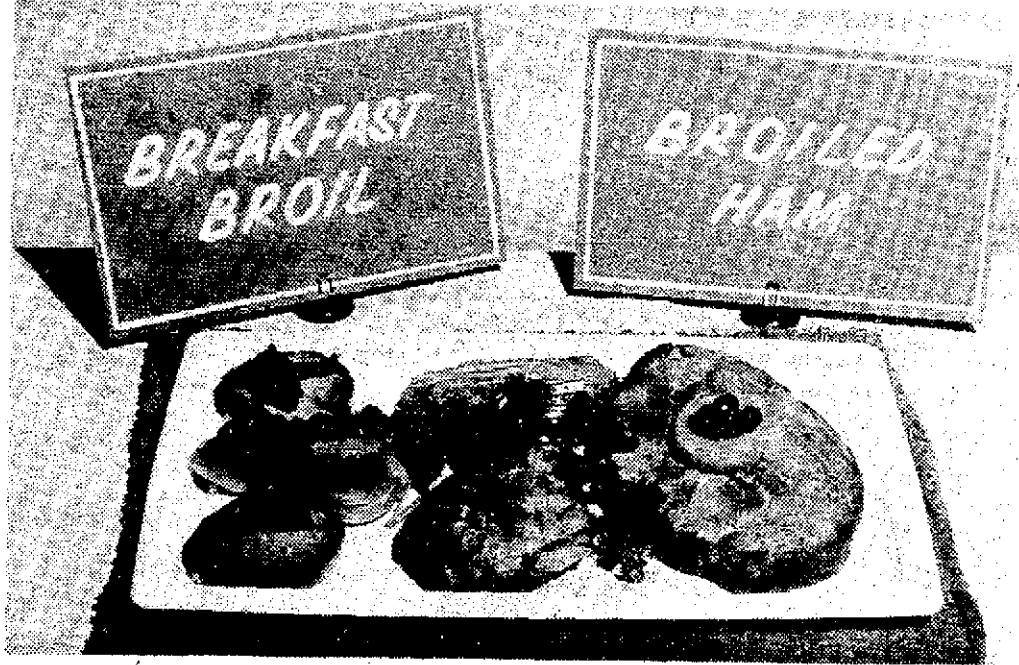

Expect to find specials on edible fats and oils. About 6 per cent more will be available than in 1961.

Many good quality, all-purpose apples are available at reasonable prices. This is a good time to buy apples in quantity. Large supplies of McIntosh apples in bushels from Door County are available, Miss Archbold reports.

Apple Guide

Here is a guide to apple buying—six to eight medium apples are enough for a nine-inch pie. You can expect two large, three medium or four small apples in a pound.

Now's the time to enjoy frozen orange juice often. Florida frozen

Spiced Cranberries in Peach Halves help make these servings of meats more attractive when they come to the table. Breakfast Broil at the left is an excellent suggestion for a special breakfast or brunch. Thick loin lamp chops are served with thick slices of Canadian-style bacon in this treat. The broiled Smoked Ham slice is a specialty guaranteed to please the men in the family.

one-inch thick. Place on broiler rack and insert broiler pan so top of meat is two to three inches away from heat. Broil eight to 10 minutes or until brown; turn and broil on second side eight to 10 minutes. Recipes makes four to six servings.

Beef Stroganoff

1 pound ground beef
1/2 cup minced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1/4 cup lard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
8-ounce can mushroom stems and pieces

10 1/2-ounce can cream of celery soup
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 teaspoons parsley flakes or minced parsley
8-ounce pkg. Chinese noodles
Cook onion and garlic in lard. Add ground beef and brown lightly. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add mushrooms and liquid; cook five minutes. Add undiluted cream of celery soup; simmer uncovered for 10 minutes. Add sour cream and parsley; cook until just heated through. Serve over noodles. Recipe makes six servings.

Country style Back Ribs and Sauerkraut

No. 2 1/2 can sauerkraut
3 pounds country style back rib (pork)
3 onions
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup water

Using a Dutch oven or electric skillet, place half the sauerkraut in bottom. Slice one and one-half onions; layer over sauerkraut. Then place meat over onion layer; cover with rest of onions, sliced. Mix remaining ingredients together; pour over sauerkraut and onions. Cook from one and one-half to two hours at 350 degrees.

There are many ideas for variations: thin, unpeeled apples might be layered on top before cooking; brown sugar could be sprinkled on top, or this dish goes well with dumplings.

Party Steak

1 beef round steak
1/4 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup lard
2 beef bouillon cubes
1 1/4 cups boiling water
1 1/2 cups chopped onions
1/4 teaspoon oregano
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

1/2 teaspoon pepper
Tomato slices
Pepper rings
Cut beef round into serving pieces. Mix flour, salt and eighth-teaspoon pepper together in paper bag. Place steak pieces in bag and shake until steak is well coated.

Then brown steak in lard at 330 degrees. Dissolve bouillon cubes in water; add to pan with steak. Add chopped onion, oregano, Worcestershire sauce and half-teaspoon pepper. Simmer two to three hours.

The tomato slices and pepper rings are used for garnish, the tomatoes fitting into the pepper rings. This colorful garnish should be added to the Party Steak just before serving time.

Sheinwold You Decide Who Goofed

When something goes wrong in the play of a bridge hand the one thing you can be sure of is that there will be a post mortem.

The players will try to decide whose fault it was, but this is sometimes a very difficult task.

West opened the six of spades, and East won with the queen. East returned the king of spades, and West played low.

Now the contract could not be beaten. West got in with the ace of diamonds in time to take a third spade trick, but that was all for the defense. South made game and rubber.

East spoke up first. "You can beat this hand by overtaking the king of spades," he pointed out. "Drive out the jack of spades with your nine, and you get back with the ace of diamonds in time to cash the rest of the spades and save the game."

It was all very true. What could West say in his own defense?

West put up a very good argument. "You'd be talking out of the other side on your mouth if you had three spades and three hearts," he replied. "Then I can beat the hand by sitting tight and getting five spade tricks. But if I overtake the second spade and give declarer a trick with the jack of spades, he continues with four heart tricks and four clubs."

West paused to let this sink in. "It was your fault," he resumed, still speaking to East, "for not telling me clearly that you had only two spades. You could do this by playing the king of spades at the first trick and then the queen of spades next."

"You're both wrong," North interrupted. "It was my partner's fault."

Everybody was startled by this strange accusation. How could it be South's fault?

"He played the two of spades and then the three of spades," North explained. "And now you're deadlocked in this argument. If he had played the three and the seven of spades, concealing the deuce, you could give him credit for clever deceptive play — and you wouldn't have to argue with each other."

You can be the judge. Decide for yourself whose fault it was.

Daily Question
Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S A 9 8 6 4 H 8 5 2 D A 6 4 C 7 5. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention. If partner bids two spades, you can raise to three; if he bids anything else you can bid your spades yourself. This indicates a 5-card suit in a hand not strong enough for an immediate jump to three spades.

starts, he is practically on the verge of hysteria. Of course I pet and assure him. What else can I do? Miss Hannah Neuman, Elizabeth, N. J.

A. Some dogs seem to have premonitions of storms and other dangers. During the war, dogs would often sense approaching enemy bombers long before they were spotted on radar. Perhaps their acute hearing picked up the sound of motors, but I doubt it. Where storms are concerned it may be that the falling barometer or lessening of atmospheric pressure that often precedes a storm disturbs them. We often think that we understand why animals behave the way they do, but often they seem to have special senses that are beyond our understanding. I'd suggest that you get tranquilizers from your veterinarian and give them to your dog when storms are forecast. Continue the medication until the storm has passed.

Jaycettes See Program on Arrangements

Members of the Appleton Jaycettes heard Mrs. Albert Bennett, Hortonville, demonstrate dry flower arrangements at their desert meeting Monday evening at Reetz's Supper Club. Mrs. Thomas Schultz was hostess, assisted by Mrs. Marvin Hinzman.

Mrs. Thomas Fountain was elected treasurer to fill a vacancy.

Mrs. Richard Derfus will replace Mrs. Fountain as a member of the board.

Mrs. Dennis Herring and Mrs. James Murphy, co-chairmen of the style show to be held Saturday at 41 Bowl, reported on final plans for the 1:30 p.m. program.

It was announced that the Jaycettes will visit the City Home Tuesday. Mrs. Fountain will serve as chairman of Thanksgiving Day favors to be distributed at the hospital.

Mrs. Murphy, vice president and state director, announced that the Jaycee-Jaycette Mid-Year Convention will be Dec. 7 to 9 at Fond du Lac.

New Cooks Note

Note to new cook: When you buy lamb stewing meat that has the bone in, allow about a half-pound for each portion. If the lamb is boneless you'll find a pound of the meat will make three servings.

Sandra Schmidt Parents Tell Engagement Of Daughter

CLINTONVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmidt, 142 Bennett St., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Lee, and Theodore Heidke, son of Mrs. Esther Heidke, 110 West St. The bride-elect was graduated from Clintonville High School and is employed at Aid Association for Lutherans, Appleton. Her fiancé, also a graduate of Clintonville High School, is employed at Bohl and Maeser Shoe Store, Appleton.

No wedding date has been announced.

Today's Etiquette

UNCONVENTIONAL CARDS

Dear Louise: What is your opinion concerning small envelopes containing printed acceptance or regret cards that come with wedding invitations and are to be returned to the bride's parents? These cards leave a space for a checkmark, such as: "will attend" or "cannot attend." Sometimes there is also a space to state how many.

Louise Davis Answers: My opinion? For the birds. Sending this type of enclosure card with wedding invitations is not correct. An invitation to a wedding reception, luncheon or dinner party is decidedly personal. The least the guests can do is to handwrite acceptance or regrets in the proper third person form. Short, personal notes may be written instead to intimate friends or relatives. If a bride's parents receive no acknowledgment at all, they may assume regrets and make allowances for people who happen to be away on extensive trips. Such cases are rare, however.

INTRODUCTION PROBLEM

Dear Louise: My mother recently married a widower who also has grown children. How do I introduce the husband's sons and daughters to establish the relationship?

Louise Davis Answers: I suggest that you include in the introduction, "My step-father's son, Mr. George Brown" or even "Mother's husband's son, Mr. George Brown."

Types of Popcorn

The volume of popped corn depends, in part, upon the variety of corn which is used. Yellow corn produces large kernels. White corn produces smaller, tender kernels.

Your Problems

Man's Marital Status Must Be Matter of Public Record

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 28 and for the past year I've been dating a man 31 who works for the same company. Rex told me he was divorced before being transferred here. He spoke seriously of marriage.

I observed, however, that many weekends he was "occupied" and couldn't even telephone. When, after a company meeting, Rex avoided speaking to me in the presence of the executives, I became more suspicious than hurt.

I asked a close friend in personnel to check the records. When she told me the records showed Rex is still married the pieces fit together.

I confronted him with the fact at once and he became furious. He shouted, "Your investigation was an invasion of privacy. I never bothered to change the record. I considered marrying you but you've ruined the relationship for all time. Goodbye."

I believe him, Ann, and I'm broken-hearted. Was I justified in checking the records? Please tell me.—Marianne

Dear Marianne: Dry your tears. Buttercup. This man sounds as flakey as mother's apple-pie crust. The lost weekend plus the drop-dead treatment in front of the executives adds up to a married man—not a divorced one.

If you had asked your friend to check on Rex's salary, I'd agree it was an invasion of privacy, but a man's marital status should be a matter of public record and not "private information"—unless, of course, he's trying to keep it private for obvious reasons.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: About a year ago I had to admit my husband had lost all interest in me. I looked in the mirror and decided it was all my fault. I had put on a lot of weight and looked terrible. So I launched an intensive campaign to "reinterest" him. I dieted strenuously, lost almost 40 pounds, and had my hair re-styled. I bought smart, new clothes and even got my teeth fixed. When old friends met me on the street they couldn't get over the change. My husband—well, he has yet to say one word.

I have a lovely home, nice children and a lot to be thankful for. My husband says he loves me but claims he's not the demonstrative type. I think I could fight another woman easier than I can fight his indifference. I'm 27 and he is 28, so he's not over the hill if that's what you're thinking. Help me, please.—Invisible

Dear Invisible: I hate to resort to a cliché, but actions do speak louder than words. The measure of a man's devotion is not what he says but how he behaves.

Of course it's disappointing to work hard to please a guy and then have him just sit there like a clam with a broken hinge, but if that's his nature you can't change him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know this letter will never make the column but I had to write it anyway. This is for the benefit of kids who think their lives are ruined because a sister or brother got into trouble and spoiled the family name.

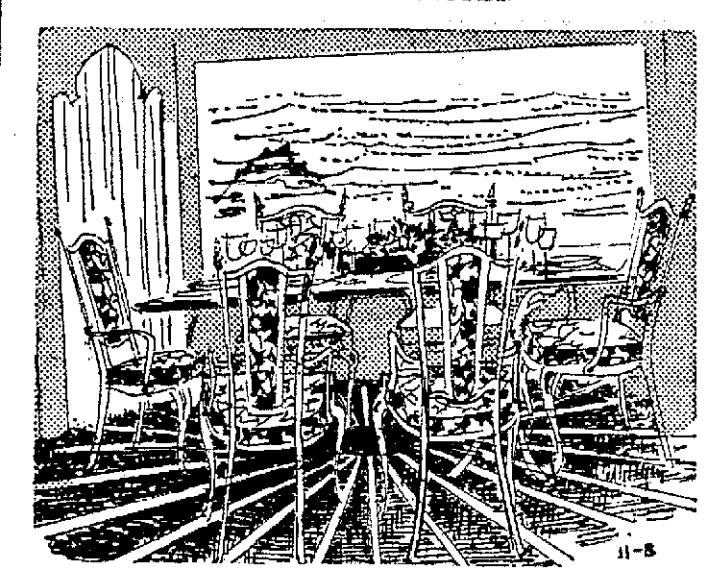

My older sister had a baby out of wedlock. The stories kept the town gossips plenty busy. My parents were heartbroken. I decided it would be my job to bring honor and respectability to our home.

I held my head up even though some of my friends told me they couldn't associate with me anymore. Parents' orders. I worked twice as hard in school as I ever had before and I became active in student government. My grades were tops and I was elected to office. I know now that my sister's mistake made a better person out of me.—Terry Lee

Dear T. L.: You've learned an important lesson: When life

Sea-View Screen

BY ELIZABETH HILLIER

The airy grace of metal furniture inspires outdoor-effect settings, but they needn't depend on glass walls or wide windows. A large-scale pictured outdoor view does very well with its appeal to the imagination, as in this room. With a handsome contemporary Japanese screen, designer John Elmo, A.I.D., turned solid wall into a long look out to sea.

The floor is vinyl that reproduces the slightly uneven surface as well as the small squares of mosaic. White sunburst strips inset in the black mosaic below the glass-topped cast aluminum table and chairs finished in Siamese red. Brilliant multi-colors with the red predominating covers the chair seat and back cushions. Corner-angled window framing shows a version of the arch shape which was so often seen in the trend-setting Decoration and Design Show, recently presented in New York by the American Institute of Interior Designers, where this room was sketched. The dark wood of the window framing continues panelling on the walls.

Find out what's wrong with a room and you've taken a big stride toward improving it. You can so easily with Elizabeth Hillier's booklet, "What's Wrong with That Room?" — a quick tags.

check list of room faults and tips on how to correct them. For your copy, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents to Miss Hillier at this newspaper.

"Grecian Holiday" was selected as the theme of a Panhellenic ball at the 7:30 p.m. Tuesday meeting of the Fox Valley Panhellenic Association at the Terrace Room of the Lawrence Memorial Union. The ball will be held Jan. 26 at the Crystal Room of the Conway Hotel.

Miss Carolyn Schull, Mrs. Richard Uehling, Mrs. Frank Wright, Mrs. E. R. Shannon, Mrs. James Rasmussen, all of Appleton, and Mrs. Bruce Robertson, Neenah, will serve on the committee.

April 29 was set as the date of the annual Panhellenic Tea at Lawrence College. High school senior girls and their mothers will be invited.

Illness Can Cripple Youth's Drive to Learn

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Eve Jones: My son, age 11, was born with several serious defects including some of the heart. He has been kept out of school frequently to a void dangers of infection. Operations have corrected the defects, so he now attends school normally, although he has had to repeat one of the grades.

It's only true of children who haven't been taught to respect property rights. And mothers like this usually enjoy watching the mayhem.

Find another friend who doesn't like seeing you and your house disturbed. It isn't your job to handle children like this and you probably can't. It takes professional treatment.

Lawrence Senior Awarded Grant By Fraternity

Thomas Schinabeck, a senior at Lawrence College from Sheboygan, is one of more than 30 top college students in the U.S. and Canada to be awarded scholarships from the Founders Fund of Beta Theta Pi General Fraternity, according to a committee headed by Prof. Paul P. Van Riper of the Cornell University graduate school of business and public administration.

The scholarships range in value from $200 to $500. Recipients are selected principally on the basis of superior scholarship, but the committee also considers collegiate extra-curricular activities, financial need and service to the fraternity.

Schinabeck is co-captain of the Lawrence football team, former treasurer and now president of Beta Theta Pi, winner of the Junior Spoon as the outstanding man in that class, a prize scholarship in the field of semantics, and was elected to Mace, senior honor organization.

Wash 'n Wear Gloves

In times past ladies were admonished to "wear seemingly gloves, but least of all a pair that once was white."

Well, the idea has come full circle. Fashion again favors the white glove in capelet, suede or glaze kid, depending on the formality of one's costume.

Fortunately, technology has kept pace with fashion. Most leather gloves are now washable. The processes that insure sud-

Moisture Aids Plaster Clean-Up

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: The builders didn't do a good clean-up job and there are a number of plaster spatters on most of our aluminum window frames. How can I remove these without damaging the aluminum?

A: Moisture the plaster spatters until the plaster is softened (apply wet clothes, and keep moistening with water). Then wipe off with a cloth or broad piece of wood.

Unpleasant Floor Drain Odor
Q: We are beginning to get an unpleasant odor from the floor drain in our cellar. How can we get rid of the odor?

A: The drain trap (if there is one) may have run dry. It should be kept filled with water at all times to prevent odors from backing up into the cellar. Pour a pail or two of water into the floor drain. If this doesn't stop the odor immediately, there may be no trap in the drain line; a plumbing contractor should be consulted.

Scratches on Plastic Tile
Q: We have plastic tile walls in a powder room. There are some scratches on the tile surface. How can these be removed?

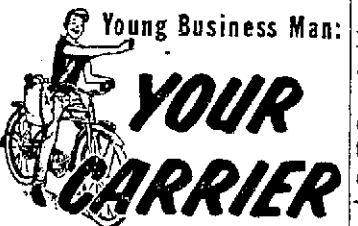

A: Rub the scratches with powdered pumice and a damp felt pad. Then polish with powdered chalk and a soft, clean, damp cloth.

Bubbled Varnish Finish
Q: I varnished an unpainted but sanded chest of drawers last week. The finish is "bubbled" all over. How can I correct this?

A: The usual causes for varnish bubbles are: stirring the varnish while in the container and introducing air bubbles, or faulty application of the varnish. You may have brushed the varnish too vigorously or "slapped" it on. Varnish should be flowed on gently, following the grain of the wood and not worrying about brush marks (these flatten out by themselves). The best way to correct the present finish is to remove it down to bare wood (sorry!), and refinish, keeping in mind the cautions as to applying varnish.

Painting Plastic Upholstery
Q: We have several living room chairs with plastic seats and backs. We are redecorating the room and would like to change the color of the plastic. Can this be painted?

A: Yes. Any good quality latex base paint can be used; or one of the new vinyl plastic sprays, available at paint, hardware and housewares dealers in a variety of colors, is easily applied to plastic upholstery. Be sure to remove all trace of grease, wax and grime from the surface of the plastic before applying any new coating.

Pointers on Holiday Turkey

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

Getting ready to buy your Thanksgiving turkey? It must be selected with care and expertly prepared to be at its supreme best.

If you buy a frozen turkey, defrost it in its original moisture-proof wrapping in the refrigerator. This Miss Kuester will take from one to three days, depending on size. For speedy thawing, place unwrapped bird in pan under running cold water or out at room temperature for two to four hours, depending on size. Prompt cooking after defrosting is best. Do not refreeze.

Size is not an indication of age or tenderness. If you want a turkey between eight and 15 pounds, ask for a hen turkey. If you want a turkey between 16 and 25 pounds it will be a tom turkey. Allow a half to three-fourths pound per person. A half turkey is ideal for a small family.

How to tell when bird is done? Press fleshy part of drumstick. It is done if meat feels soft. Also move drumstick up and down. If it gives easily or breaks, it is done. The best way to tell, though is by using a meat thermometer. When thermometer registers 180 degrees, inserted in meat, the turkey is done.

Gift Package Ribbons Make Useful Curtain Tie-Backs

BY CAPPY DICK

This fun-project, of special interest to girls, makes use of pieces of ribbon that have been collected from gift packages. The result is a set of window-curtain tie-backs.

The first step is to braid three lengths of ribbon. If the ribbon is very narrow, use six strands instead of three, handling each pair as one strand. When the braid is a foot and a half long tie each end (Figure 1) to keep the braid from coming undone.

The next step is to make two balls of ribbon to be fastened to the ends of the braid. For these, the best ribbon to use is the crinkly kind which will be easy to curl by drawing the ends over the edge of a table-knife blade. Wrap 15 or 20 turns around the fingers of one hand (Figure 2). Remove the bundle from your fingers and tie it tightly at the center (Figure 3) with strong thread.

With scissors cut the loops at each end of the bundle, then curl the ends by pulling them over the table-knife blade, creating a fluffy ball.

Make two such balls and tie one to each end of the braid. The tie-back is now ready for use.

Place the braid around the window curtain as the girl has done in the picture. Tie the braided band into a loose knot, letting the two balls form a flower-like bundle as in Figure 4. Hook the cluster over a small nail or hook attached to the window frame. The tie-back will hold the curtain in a graceful drape.

When you have made another tie-back for the other side of the curtain the fun-project has been completed.

Republicans Gain New Union Support

BY VICTOR RIESEL

NEW YORK — Nelson Rockefeller was singing in the rain in the early morning of the final Saturday before the election. He had a mass outdoor labor rally. But the deluge of the decade washed it out. However, he was greeted by two of the most influential labor leaders of the land.

There was symbolism in the arrival of these labor leaders as they sloshed through rapidly-forming puddles. They had come though they knew that Nelson Rockefeller was running for President of the U.S. as well as for governor of New York.

Between them these labor chiefs lead well over 1,250,000 unionists — though they do not speak for all of them politically. They are early. He had risen to prominence driven out to men—Harry Van Arsdale, the suburbs with a whirlwindish hood's live-hour day, and David labor publicist Sullivan, national leader of the He was scheduled to speak at a mass outdoor labor rally. But the deluge of the decade washed it out. However, he was greeted by two of the most influential labor leaders of the land.

There was symbolism in the arrival of these labor leaders as they sloshed through rapidly-forming puddles. They had come though they knew that Nelson Rockefeller was running for President of the U.S. as well as for governor of New York.

Not since the twenties have so many labor leaders actively endorsed and campaigned for so many Republican leaders alone in New York State, but right across the United States.

I do not write here of the top national labor leadership. I report on the secondary echelons, right down to the grass-root precincts.

In New York the labor support of the Republican ticket were not even a minority of the active union leaders. But you can take no count. There were unions such as the United Steelworkers, whose leaders refused to endorse the Democratic ticket officially, and unofficially fought for Gov. Rockefeller. The bulk of the former AFL unions fought for Rockefeller. The Democrats held only a few of the old CIO unions and the garment trades. But there was no enthusiasm.

Attack Candidates

Slashing attacks on the Democratic senatorial candidate came from the powerful Railway Labor's Political League — even charging the candidate with being a foremost enemy of organized labor.

Support for the Republican senatorial candidate, Jacob Javits, came even from such New Deal unions as the International Association of Machinists, through their Non-Partisan Political League. In New Jersey the League also backed two Republicans for the U.S. Congress. This does not mean the Machinists are not overwhelming Democratic. It does mean that some of their $100,000 campaign fund went for Republicans.

As I crisscrossed this land in the pre-election weeks, I found many of the second and third echelon labor officials working quietly with the Republicans.

In New York Mr. Rockefeller has co-operated closely with the labor people for four years. Furthermore, his labor adviser, Victor Borella, who is also executive vice president of Rockefeller Center, had as much of the confidence of scores of state union leaders as had Arthur Goldberg on the national scene in past years. The labor men always had access either to the governor or Victor Borella.

Defective Vision Could be Reason for Poor Grades

BY CARL N. NEUPERT, M. D.

Tommy was a puzzling youngster—he seemed bright enough, but his grades didn't show it. Then one day a routine eye examination furnished the reason: Tommy suffered from defective vision.

Tommy's case was not unusual, either. In fact, one recent survey revealed a total of 20 to 25 percent of school age children with eye defects needing some form of care. Many of these disorders are "hidden" since the children, unaware of how well they should see, do not complain of poor vision.

Need Attention

Prompt attention and proper care of these defects would help many school children show improvement in their studies. Sometimes, even blindness can be prevented through proper management of eye defects at an early age.

This is why a child should have his eyes examined at intervals during his school career, as well as before he starts attending industrial states as far from Washington, D.C. as Oregon.

They are aware that the industrial areas—the big cities—are the political keys to control of the big states. And the big states cast the big electoral votes for the presidency of the U.S. But in this election they committed themselves nonetheless.

And though their numerous Democratic colleagues inside labor argued that the issue really was John Kennedy against the Republicans, many a powerful labor leader threw money, manpower, and campaign skill the other way.

frequency of follow-up examinations. Children need to have their glasses changed from time to time—in some cases as much as once a year.

For if children are to get the most out of their school work, they must have good vision. The glasses Tommy wears provide the proof—he now not only sees well, but he's also a bright boy inside the classroom, as well as out.

YOU KNOW how persnickety kids are about foods. Before each of 1,000 we set two bowls of noodle soup... Mrs. Grass and another famous brand. 3 out of 4 preferred Mrs. Grass. Number 4 probably hated soup, anyway.

THE "ALL-AMERICAN" KID GOES FOR MRS. GRASS SOUP BECAUSE:

- It tastes home-made—mild, pleasing seasoning.
- It has more flavor—chicken-y rich, because it has the exclusive Golden Nugget with its sealed-in chicken-y flavor.
- It has more noodles—50% more than any other mix and
- It's so economical—25% more soup than other mixes.

Menasha Council Sets Minimum Size for Lots

MENASHA — The minimum size of a single family lot in the City of Menasha was set at not less than 60 feet with a total area of not less than 3,600 square feet Wednesday by the Menasha Council.
The vote was 10-1 with Ald. Raymond C. Zielinski, First Ward, the lone objector. The only exception would be lots of 3,600 square feet but less than 60 feet in width, which are on record as of Dec. 17, 1957. In no event will a building permit be issued for erection of a duplex on lots of less than 50 feet width.
Three other ordinances or amended ordinances were approved by the Council Wednesday night: a new ordinance — the city had none before — covering the construction and repair of sidewalks in the city; an amended ordinance raising bicycle license fees in the City of Menasha from 50 cents to $1 for each two-year period; and an ordinance allowing for the rezoning of the Wanserski and Smith properties, from residential to commercial.

Benefit From Poor Stock Market Year

BY SYLVIA PORTER

This has been one of the roughest years for investors in the stock market since the great collapse of a generation ago. Millions of us who started 1962 with paper profits on our stocks now have paper losses or have sold out at actual losses. Millions of us who cashed in on capital gains earlier this year are now sitting with other stocks priced well below what we paid.

In these remaining weeks of the year, you can and should take steps to get the maximum tax benefit from your losses and to pay the minimum tax on your capital gains. To begin with, you should today:

List all your transactions in stocks so far in 1962 to see precisely what your actual gains and losses are to date.

Planning Goal
List all your potential gains and losses on stocks you still own to see what additional gains or losses you might take in 1962.

For most investors, the basic tax planning goal will be to wipe out as much as possible of the capital gains you already have realized and to make maximum use of your paper losses.

As you are aware, if you have sold stocks owned more than six months at a profit, your gain will be taxed at no more than a rate of 25 per cent; if you have sold stocks held six months or less at a profit, your gain will be fully taxable at the regular rates applying to your ordinary income. And if you have paper losses larger than the gains you have taken, you can take and deduct up to $1,000 of those capital losses in excess of your capital gains from your ordinary 1962 income.

From a tax viewpoint, it's easy to say you should sell stock on which you have losses. But from an investment viewpoint, you may not want to be out of the market or out of your particular stock.

Switch Stock
Here, then, are ways to take your tax loss while still maintaining your investment in the market.

You can switch from the stock you sell at a loss into a stock similar to it — sell one motor, for instance, buy another of equal quality.

Or if you want to keep the identical stock, you can:

(1) Double up on the stock for 30 days, meaning you would buy a total of shares equal to what you already own. Then, after 30 days you would sell your original batch at a loss. This would avoid the "wash sale" rule and entitle you to take your loss — but you also would take the risk of owning a double batch for the 30 days.

(2) Sell your shares and repurchase them after 30 days. This also would avoid the "wash sale" rule and allow you to take your loss, but here you would risk an upsurge in your stock while you're out of it.

(3) Sell your shares "short" and simultaneously buy the same total of shares, and after 30 days cover your short sale by delivering your older, higher-priced stock. This would enable you to maintain an unbroken ownership without taking any additional risk to your stock's ups or downs in the 30 days. A federal circuit court has approved this method, but it's not yet clear that the Treasury will agree.

You may find that you have more paper losses than you can use this year. Nevertheless, by selling and realizing your losses in 1962, you can create a "capital loss reserve" on which you can draw in succeeding years to cut your taxes then — assuming the market rebounds. You can "carry forward" losses above $1,000 to offset any capital gains and up to $1,000 of ordinary income a year through 1967.

Two Reasons
There are two reasons you may benefit from taking losses now. First, if you take your capital loss in 1962, and "carry it forward," it will be treated in later years as a short-term capital loss no matter how long you held the stock. Short-term losses can be preferable to long-term capital losses because they are used first against short-term capital gains. If you take quick profits next year, you can use the carry-over loss to cut the tax due on them. Second, if the market rises next year, you may have no tax loss to take. By selling at a loss this year and switching to another stock, you can have the deductible loss and still benefit from a price rise on the new stock you purchased.

Fisherman Now Hates Boatmen

INDIAN ROCKS BEACH, Fla. (AP) — If George Wiesner goes through life with an antipathy toward pleasure boatmen, it's understandable.

The 17-year-old Largo boy, fishing from a local pier with heavy tackle one recent night, hooked into a big fish, probably a giant grouper.

The fish refused to tire. George fought him through the night. Other fishermen brought him coffee. Daylight came, and still the fight continued. It went on through the morning.

A few minutes past noon, a pleasure boat came along, the

City Supports Plan To Extend Franklin, Washington Streets

Aldermen Indicate They're in Rush To Eliminate Traffic Bottlenecks

Proposed extension of Franklin and Washington streets to eliminate major traffic bottlenecks garnered unanimous support of the Appleton Common Council Wednesday night.

The council suspended its rules and adopted a resolution by Ald. Kenneth Loos which threw the city's full support behind the project.

On Nov. 14 the Wisconsin Public Service Commission (PSC) will conduct a hearing on the city's petition for grade crossings involving the North Western railroad.

It is generally agreed among council members that a bond issue will be needed to cover the cost of the street projects once the PSC grants approval. Aldermen have given the impression they want to expedite the project.

The Franklin and Washington street situation has been a municipal "sore thumb" for years and has created serious traffic problems for the downtown district.

Recently, the Appleton Chamber of Commerce renewed its appeal that the streets be extended as soon as possible so plans for the rebuilding of College Avenue can be drawn up.

The resolution adopted by the council said maintaining progressive growth of the city required constant attention to all problems related to growth.

"The maintenance of an orderly flow of traffic into and out of the central business district is a serious growth problem," it was conceded.

It was cited that past reports and surveys have indicated a desire for a major traffic line exists between the northwest areas of the city and the central business district.

The council said it recognized that the existing street system of Appleton does not accommodate the major traffic desire line, and the extension of Franklin and Washington Streets would solve the problem.

The council reaffirmed its desire to proceed with the street extension work, declaring: "The City of Appleton in the purchase of properties along these proposed street extensions has indicated the intention of the city to proceed with these projects."

It was voted to advise the PSC that the Appleton common council "wholeheartedly concurs with the necessity of obtaining the two railroad crossings essential to the resolution of the traffic problems for the headquarters is the north-east corner of Atlantic and Drew Streets.

The council also concurred in a resolution by Ald. A. H. Stoebauer that action on relocating Franklin and Washington Streets be taken when the funds are provided for the work.

Aldermen intend to wait until after the PSC finding, and will then determine how much money will be needed in a bond issue to cover the project.

In other action, the council: Held in abeyance the proposed relocation of Meade Street intersection with Wisconsin Avenue until funds are appropriated.

Authorized the street department to place used sidewalk blocks along the Cedar Street hillside to prevent erosion.

Approved the purchase of a snow thrower from Drott Tractor Co., Milwaukee, for $8,525. Delivery will be in 10 days.

Reduced the work week, from 72 to 63 hours per week, for fire department personnel and asked the chief to report on the number of men needed to effect the changeover in 1963.

Authorized a 40-hour work week for police department personnel, plus the hiring of four women personnel (clerks), and four men to fill vacancies. Police are now on a 42½ hour week.

Vote Forecast Goes Awry So He Eats Crow

Nick Karras, partner in an Appleton restaurant, ate crow Wednesday.

He didn't have to cook it himself. The meal was prepared by William Cherkasky, active worker in the Outagamie County Democratic party who promised Karras Monday he would eat crow after Karras had predicted Nixon would win in California, said the GOP was hopeful about the outcome of the Massachusetts senate race and predicted that the Democrats in Wisconsin didn't have a chance against Republican Sen. Alexander Wiley.

When Cherkasky invited him to lunch Wednesday after the vote results were in, Karras knew he was in for it. Worse than eating crow, he also made the rash promise not to talk politics for 30 days.

The "crow" turned out to be a Cornish hen. "I couldn't find the real thing," Cherkasky lamented.

Cherkasky, who has been making the rounds of the city in recent months in search of an adequate site, Mitchell said the northeast site would provide good access for fire department equipment to the business district, and hinted there was a possibility insurance underwriters might make a downward adjustment in the city's insurance premium rates.

Construction Soon

"What I want to know tonight is whether the council wants to appropriate the money to buy the property and proceed with the planning of a new fire department headquarters," Mitchell told aldermen.

It was the general consensus the city is going to have to build the station sooner than expected.

There is a possibility the city could do quite well financially by selling the present Oneida and Washington street site. The proceeds could be used to offset the land and construction cost of the northeast side facility.

No one spoke against the proposed site and the cost figures Mitchell presented.

It is expected the common council will decide whether to set aside funds for the land purchase and a training area. He emphasized there would be more than adequate room for the storage of equipment.

The mayor and Fire Chief Rockland Kuehl have been making the rounds of the city in recent months in search of an adequate site. Mitchell said the northeast site would provide good access for fire department equipment to the business district, and hinted there was a possibility insurance underwriters might make a downward adjustment in the city's insurance premium rates.

Appleton Wire Works Starts Large Expansion Program

Products Development Center Begun; Other Building Planned

The Appleton Wire Works Corp. is undertaking the largest program of capital expenditure in its 67-year history, with work started on a Products Development Center and plans to modernize the warehouse and build a two-story office and laboratory building.

The expansion program was outlined Wednesday at the annual dinner meeting at the Appleton Elks Club for 25-year employees of Appleton Wire Works. All told, existing facilities will be increased by well over an acre of floor space, they learned.

The permit issued by Building Inspector Walter Bogan for warehouse work calls for construction estimated to cost $175,000. That doesn't include any improvements or machinery in the warehouse. W. E. Buchanan, Wire Works president, told the veteran employees that ground was broken Tuesday in the block bounded by Meade, Lave and Hancock streets and the North Western Railway for a building 180 by 225 by 20 feet high to house a Products Development Center. This structure will adjoin the present warehouse building of metal construction that fronts 75 feet on Meade Street.

Expand Capacity

Second step in the program is scheduled to start within a few weeks. Work will get underway on the 75 by 125-foot warehouse building to modernize it for expanding the company's capacity for chrome plating Fourdrier wires.

Plans are also being prepared for a two-story building on Hancock Street. At the rear this structure will adjoin the Products Development Center. Its ground floor will be general offices, its second floor laboratories.

Principal purpose of the Products Development Center is to provide space for working out new products and processes on pilot-scale and experimenting with plant equipment. Here will be tested innovations in coating, plating, weaves, alloys and synthetics for making better and longer-life paper machine wires.

Connected to Center

In modernizing the all-steel warehouse, the Wire Works is practically making a new building, Buchanan explained. It will be insulated, heated, given an interior brick wall, and equipped with water supply and sewer. Actually it is part of the Product Development Center, with which it will be connected.

Appleton chrome-plated wires for experimental use by paper mills have during the past year been plated on equipment of limited size and capacity. This equipment will be moved into the modernized steel structure and total chrome capacity will be augmented with units capable of plating Fourdrier wire in widths beyond 300 inches. Plans call for having the new unit operating early in 1963.

Construction of the third new building is scheduled to start next spring and be completed about a year from now. The upstairs laboratories will serve the research and development needs of the Product Development Center. The downstairs space will relieve present crowded office conditions and bring into one compact area company officers and executives who now are housed on different levels of several plant buildings.

Half Century Mark

The year 1962 marks exactly half a century since A. B. Weisenborn and G. E. Buchanan bought out the other interests in the Appleton Wire Works from William Buchanan Sr., and John R. Buchanan. W. E. Buchanan recalled in his after-dinner talk to the Quarter Century veterans. The two men thereafter owned equal shares in the firm, and their descendants in the Purdy and Buchanan families have held to the same 50-50 ownership basis.

"It is seldom that such a friendly and close relationship is maintained for so long a time," Buchanan declared.

Myron Anderson, Park Brumette, Emil Heckert, Joseph Lang, Olga Meyer and George Weisgerber became members of the Wire Works 25-Year Club Wednesday. There are now 78 members, of whom 58 are still working and 20 are retired. Of the 20 retired members, 12 are 50-year men. Dinner guests included the members, company supervisors and wives.

Woman Found in River Not Believed Murder Victim

MENASHA — No official pronouncement has been made on the exact cause of death of 69-year-old Mrs. Clara Koslowski, Menasha, whose body was found floating in the Fox River shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday night. Although foul play is not suspected, Menasha Police Chief Lester D. Clark began an immediate investigation in an attempt to pinpoint the exact cause and circumstances of death. Mrs. Koslowski, 610 Fourth St., was found floating face down in the Fox River near a boathouse to the rear of the John Burke residence, 737 Paris St.

Her body was fully clothed, except for a coat or jacket. Although an outer garment could not be found during a search of the shoreline Tuesday night, a grey winter coat, identified as belonging to the victim, was found at 10.05 a.m. Wednesday.

According to Menasha police Lt. Richard J. Gavinski, who is participating in the investigation, the coat was hooked on a drag line by Menasha patrolmen John Chapleau and Richard Week. The coat was found submerged in several feet of water just off the shore, at a point between the city boat dock off the end of Manitowoc Street and the Burke boathouse.

Appleton Council Okays General Pay Increase

Funds for Finance Director Dropped From 1963 Budget; Raise for Mayor Forbidden

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Appleton Common Council Wednesday night approved a general pay increase for city employees in 1963, but killed a proposal to include funds in next year's budget for creation of a municipal finance director position.

Aldermen spent about 90 minutes on the budget which had been worked up in recent weeks by the finance committee following a series of hearings with department and municipal board heads.

The total city budget as it now stands for the public hearing on Nov. 21 calls for spending $8,892,533, of which $5,395,293 would come from the property tax levy.

Already approved by the council committee of the whole, the budget calls for a tax rate for city purposes only of $38.68 — an increase of $1.91 over last year's figure of $36.77.

Levies Pending

(The budget for city purposes comprises all municipal expenditures for the coming year, including those of the board of education and other municipal boards and agencies. To be added to the present city rate are the levies of Outagamie county, the state and county school purposes.)

(The overall tax rate in the City of Appleton in 1962 was $44.10 per $1,000 assessed valuation and includes the county levy, $6.36; state, 41 cents; and levy for county school purposes, 37 cents.)

Originally, the finance committee had been thinking in terms of putting about $50,000 in next year's budget to cover pay increases but aldermen boosted the figure to $70,000.

It is proposed to grant a general pay increase of 2 per cent to the city's more than 400 employees. Those who get paid on an hourly rate would get a hike of 5 cents per hour although the union has requested a 10-cent boost for street sanitation workers. Some salary inequities in a few departments will also be corrected.

At first aldermen had agreed on a $67,000 figure for salaries as recommended by the personnel committee, but then had a change of heart and appropriated the additional money to insure that three elected officials — the city clerk, treasurer and assessor — will get a $600 pay hike in 1963.

Raise Forbidden

There was also talk of raising the salary of Mayor Clarence Mitchell upward from $10,500 but someone mentioned there is a state law which forbids the raising of a mayor's salary during his term of office.

No mention was made Wednesday night of the policy the common council is going to adopt concerning car allowances for certain city officials and department heads.

The 2 per cent across-the-board increase for city workers will cost $25,000.

The only item deleted from the finance committee's proposed

Darryl Holcomb, 1726 E. Marquette St., reported to police the convertible top of his car was slashed in three places and the plexiglass rear window was broken. He estimated the damage amounted to $130.

The car was damaged Tuesday night while it was parked near the Moose Hall, 800 N. Superior St.

Willard Flunker, 326½ W. Spring St., reported that his white convertible top was written on with a black marking pencil while the car was parked near his apartment Wednesday.

The school and county portions of the budget have not yet been submitted, Harbaugh said, but he told the school budget should not exceed last year's.

In addition to the operating portion of the budget, the city has a municipal debt retirement obligation of $453,803 and a school debt service of $648,884.

Councilmen reviewed the public safety and street maintenance budgets, both of which showed a slight increase over last year, for part of their physical education program.

OSHKOSH — A tax rate increase of 80 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation is forecast for the municipal operating portion of the 1963 Oshkosh budget, councilmen were told Wednesday night.

The operating portion of the budget, submitted by City Mgr. Ray Harbaugh, totals $3,203,336, being carried out as building the exclusive of $583,289 in various city funds not supported by the tax levy.

The 1962 operating portion of the budget totaled $2,946,923. The 1963 operating budget year note with an average interest would require a tax levy of $460.13 as compared to $400.133 for 1962.

Harbaugh said $359,000 was trimmed from department requests before the budget was compiled.

Kimberly to Vote On Swimming Pool Proposal Tuesday

Ballot Will Advise Board Whether To Make Financial Arrangements

KIMBERLY — Residents from Kimberly school district No. 6 will go to the polls again Tuesday, not to elect candidates, but to advise the board of education whether to make financial arrangements for a proposed $250,000 enclosed swimming pool. If the summer, also under the board would be adjacent to the new 2,000,000 high school.

The advisory referendum will be held from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the lobby of the high school gym. The pool, suitable for year-around use, would be open to all people of the district and also would be utilized by high school students.

Season passes would be available to residents of the district while those outside the district would be required to pay an admission fee. Plans call for a 75 by 42-foot pool swimming area with another 42 by 42-foot diving area where a 1-meter and 3-meter board would be located.

A pool of this size would accommodate a capacity of 500 persons at one time. Also proposed is a wading pool to be built separate from the main pool, this feature designed for use by smaller children in the summer.

Since 1920 the village has used a pool built by Kimberly-Clark which is still maintained and operated by that company. This pool is 76 by 40-foot with the diving area included in the swimming area. It is open about 60 days per year with an average daily attendance of about 575. Attendance on a good swimming day is about 1,400, although the capacity of this pool at any one time is 200.

Finance Plans

Sauter and Seaborn, architects, have indicated the best time to construct the pool would be while school construction is being carried out as building the pool at any other time would cost the considerable more.

School board members indicated $250,000 for pool construction could be borrowed on a 10-proposed 1963 operating budget year note with an average interest would require a tax levy of $460.13 as compared to $400.133 for 1962.

Menasha Votes Down C of C Armory Plan

All Councilmen Turn Thumbs Down; Second Ward Absent

MENASHA — City of Menasha aldermen voted 10-1 Wednesday night to reject the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce's request that the city provide a site for construction of a $400,000 National Guard armory.

All of the Menasha aldermen turned thumbs down on the proposal, except for Frederick J. Block, Second Ward alderman, who was absent; and Morgan L. Eckrich, Third Ward, who declined to go along with the rejection. The vote came after the reading of a letter from Vern A. Duerrwachter, chairman of the local National Guard armory committee, which read as follows:

Chamber Letter
"In the matter of a Wisconsin National Guard armory site, the Chamber of Commerce of Neenah - Menasha wishes to express to the Menasha Common Council that it is the desire of the Chamber to retain for the Twin Cities a long established institution which can be lost to a neighboring community.

"The City of Menasha," the letter continued, "does not have a National Guard armory, presently, nevertheless, the Chamber serving as a Twin City organization, desired to extend to Menasha the opportunity to consider the possibility of and/or to place a bid for the new $400,000 area National Guard armory."

Menasha Aldermen Favor Bridge Over Little Lake Butte des Morts

Attorney Says Structure Would Be of Aid in Future Annexations

MENASHA — City of Menasha aldermen Wednesday night, went on record favoring construction of a bridge due west of Ninth Street over Little Lake Butte des Morts, or not at all.

The council arrived at this tentative decision after City Attorney Richard J. Steffens reminded aldermen that the city must be officially represented when its petition for the bridge is reviewed by the State Highway Commission on record favoring construction on Nov. 27. The hearing, to begin at 10 a.m., is scheduled at the Elks Club in Menasha.

Not only must the city be officially represented there, Steffens reminded the Council, but there should be some workable consensus among Menasha aldermen as to where they actually want the bridge to be positioned. The city attorney also noted that if the interests of the City of Menasha are to be insured, the preferred positioning of the bridge would be to extend due west on Ninth Street and across Little Lake Butte des Morts, thus making the area west of the lake contiguous with Menasha in the increases for employees. According to one committee member, there are to be no "across the board" raises for any departments and the only increases will be long-overdue benefits for employees with over five years service to the county.

Sylvester Esler, chairman, said the committee is favoring a $1,000 salary increase for Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer. Schaefer reportedly asked for a $3,000 salary increase.

Salary Request
Civil Defense Director Lee Penney requested the committee consider a $106 per month salary increase for him, but was told the figure would be out of the question. Penney is seeking a monthly wage of $596 per month.

He told the committee he was inexperienced when he applied for the job as Civil Defense director and took a low starting wage because, he said, the experience he gained was more valuable.

The committee told Penney his wage request would be considered and another meeting would be held before the committee submits pay requests to the county board next week.

Resolution Considered
Esler said a meeting later today with the sheriff and traffic committees would discuss the possibilities of submitting a resolution to combine the two departments. A similar resolution was denied by the county board last year.

Esler said the two committees may be convinced that the action would be financially appealing to personnel in both departments.

Esler said the combination would be run more efficiently under one direction and save money.

Esler also said that pay raises and other benefits would be more easily worked out and considered. Esler also hinted that the traffic and sheriff committees may be combined even if the departments do not combine. He said the formation of a new parks committee to replace the airport and parks committee may require the committee combination. The present airport and parks committee would then become the airport committee.

Appleton Aldermen Approve Pay Boost

he was opposed to the finance director and authored the motion not to include funds for the post in next year's budget. Stumpf took the position that the report said the city's financial administration was being adequately handled and thus he saw no reason for a change.

Loos wanted to know if other municipal boards, such as the board of education, could be included in the consolidation of financial operations. "I haven't heard anything from the school board if they will go along with this," Loos said. He asked for a legal opinion.

Questions Posed

"I think we can include the school board. At least we could set up the mechanical part for centralized accounting," replied City Atty. Frederick Froehlich. He was the target of other questions but for the most part other aldermen did not give him a chance to answer them.

Ills of Appleton's present financial administration were cited by Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings who insisted the position of finance director was warranted. "I have been pushing for a director since 1958," she said, adding, "We have some funds and have no idea how much money is in them."

Mrs. Stillings noted that the city administration will have a $147,000 surplus this year from the 1962 budget and questioned whether the budgets had been prepared properly in the first place. "A director of finance could prepare a much better and more accurate budget for us," Mrs. Stillings said. "No other city puts out a budget in the form we do; tighter control is needed."

Advantages Listed

Some aldermen felt it would just be the creation of another department and the city would not get its money's worth.

This was denied by Ald. Buckley who submitted a list of 18 advantages the city would gain by having a finance director. "There have been just a few things said against this proposal; here are several valid facts supporting it," Buckley said as he read off the list.

Buckley said under a program established by a finance director it would be possible to have a daily check on city finances available, better spending controls, projection of available funds for capital improvement projects, more intelligent planning, improved investment policies and centralized accounting, just to mention some.

Post Recommended

There would also be improved accounting of the special assessment fund, Buckley claimed. He told the council the Taxpayers' Association recommended creation of the post and explained that many cities in the state have finance directors.

Stumpf said he "might go along with it" if the school board was included under the proposed finance revamping program. He insisted his motion was merely to delete the position from the 1963 budget.

Tews quoted the survey report which said in part that "finances have been capably handled". He saw no need for setting up the post at this time, declaring the city had capable city officials.

"It appears that minds were made up before we came in here to discuss this," observed Ald. Thomas K. Schneider.

Ald. Douglas Ogilvi said large as well as small businesses needed and benefited from having well-trained finance men. "They have them and save money," he commented.

"I lean toward a finance director and if we kill this tonight it will be a step to the rear," said Ald. Fred Ziemann. "If we expect Appleton to grow, we have to grow with it," he added.

Need Shown

Ziemann said past incidents showed the need for a revised financial setup for the city. "We can't determine the status of the city's general fund unless we get two sets of books in here—one from the comptroller and the other from the treasurer," Ziemann declared.

Ziemann recalled that Clerk-Comptroller Elden Broehm had asked that his financial duties be separated already last July. "We need a director to oversee the city's whole financial structure," he said.

Aviation Member Says Odds Favor Winnebago for Airport

Members Divided on Who Will Conduct Fact-Finding Survey

OSHKOSH — Chances are 95 to 5 that a neighboring county will not be designated as the area airport by civil aeronautics board, the Winnebago County board was told by one of its aviation committee members.

The remark was made during discussion on an aviation committee resolution to put $15,000 into the budget for an economic and engineering study of the present Winnebago County airport and for consultant services and expenses that may be required in connection with the CAB area airport hearings. The money was proposed in the budget.

Supv. Elmer G. Steinhilber, Oshkosh, in explaining the reason for the study said the CAB hearing will decide if the Winnebago County airport will be designated or a "non-existent paper airport north of the county."

"It is a 95 to 5 chance that we will be designated but we can't sleep," he stated.

Picture Changing

He said the aviation picture is changing considerably because of jets and other developments and "we should get experts to advise us. We must stay ahead of the game."

"We need all the facts and figures to back us at the CAB hearings. It's a fight for what we have at this airport. Others have told us there isn't much chance for the other airport to be designated as the area airport as it is too near another airport which likely will be designated as the airport, that one being Green Bay," Steinhilber continued.

Supv. Clayton Heiss, Menasha, said he read where someone from his area expressed opposition to a firm being considered for the study. "I hope the aviation com-tee," Ziemann insisted. He intends to introduce a resolution requesting the finance committee make a study and recommendation within three months.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell, who has said publicly that he favors the finance director position, remained silent during the entire discussion.

"I would like to keep harmony in the county and we are bending over backwards," board chairman Joseph Drexler, who is aviation committee secretary, indicated. "But the time comes when we must take the bull by the horns. We should fight for our own interests."

Quality Company

Supv. Oliver Thomsen, Neenah, asked, "by what criteria do you qualify a company. Many jump up and say they are qualified to make a study. It's a new field," he said about airport engineering studies.

"Let's not get some disgruntled FAA employee who has become a consultant. Look into the relationship of the people as far as aviation is concerned and if they have a record to prove it," Thomsen urged.

Supv. Gordon Hanson, Town of Winchester, said he was in favor of a study and urged, "let's forget about the north and the south. We are here to represent the best interests of the taxpayer."

Supv. Max Carpenter, Town of Rushford, inquired as to the need for a survey and said he thought an Oshkosh citizens group had just made a survey regarding the airport.

Survey Facts

Supv. Steinhilber pointed out the survey was to get facts and figures for the consultant to present before the CAB. "We are looking for someone who is the best in the field."

Drexler added that the reason for the objection to the one firm was that it was not known to this particular group. (The group in reference was the Neenah-Menasha Citizens Aviation Committee).

Supv. Alvin Staffeld, Neenah, aviation committee chairman, said the phrase should be "not acceptable at this moment. Who knew anything about the firm? You inquire from others since you don't just accept the one person's word. We are inquiring of many other firms as to what they can do for us."

The study request was made by the Twin City group last June in a letter to the county board. The group urged that a qualified, non-biased survey be made of the Winnebago County airport.

Resolution States

The board's resolution states: "Your committee after careful consideration believes that as we near completion of the current phase of airport development, a complete economic and engineering survey of the Winnebago County airport would be a great benefit for the purposes of long range planning and for immediate use at the forthcoming hearings of the Civil Aeronautics Board."

The resolution then directs the aviation committee to retain a recognized planning organization to provide a comprehensive economic and engineering survey of the Winnebago County airport and places $15,000 into the budget for this purpose and for any legal and consultant services and expenses which may be required in the CAB area airport investigation.

This money would be in addition to the approximate $7,000 already authorized by the board in September for such work.

Enstrom Stock Offers Succeed

The Enstrom Corp. announced this morning that an official tabulation shows the $300,000 stock offering was completed successfully. This is the second public stock offering conducted by the Enstrom Corp. and the company estimates that the second offering added approximately 500 new shareholders to its stockholders list and also estimates that $75,000.00 of this offering was subscribed to by old shareholders and $225,000.00 was raised through the sale of its stock to new shareholders. The final tabulation on this breakdown will be available in about ten days.

The company states that with this successful stock offering it will now be possible for the company to complete its development and FAA certification program and begin production of the P-28 helicopter in Menominee. A new of a downtown Appleton department store Wednesday.

The bomb turned out to be a homemade device which measured about 4 inches long and was made of cardboard rolls and matches. A yellow piece of paper made up the fuse. The bomb was found by the department store janitor.

Police said there was no indication that the tubes contained powder of any sort.

Leading Republican Winners
Of Type Necessary for Race

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American electorate's demonstrated disdain for party labels in Tuesday's election indicates Republicans may need a personality-plus candidate in 1964.

It just happened in the balloting that the Republicans who won the big ones are just that type. They have the kind of fresh, voter appeal that is credited with helping make John F. Kennedy a headline winner in 1960. And no one is doubting that the President will seek re-election in another two years.

The GOP stars in an otherwise confusing and somewhat frustrating election that ended in almost a numerical dead heat in congressional and gubernatorial contests were:

Rockefeller Tops List

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, an omnivorous blintze-consuming, hand-shaking, back-clapping campaigner who is mentally quick on his feet and knows the ways of television. By getting himself re-elected by nearly half a million votes Rockefeller leaped to the top of the heap of Kennedy's potential GOP rivals.

Gov.-elect George Romney of Michigan, an indefatigable campaigner who charmed some union votes away from the Democrats to win his race in a key state. Possibly somewhat less liberal than Rockefeller, he may attract support from party conservatives who look on the New York governor as too inclined to the welfare state to suit them.

Gov.-elect William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, a very wealthy man just getting his feet wet in bigtime politics. He is a handsome, all-smiles candidate who can be a tough campaigner if the occasion demands it.

They are Robert Taft Jr., son

of the late "Mr. Republican," who won election to Congress in an at-large race in Ohio, and Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, who won re-election while the voters of his state were giving another term to Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse.

The central performer in the GOP's greatest disappointment, the failure to attain the governor-

2 Killed in Portage Woods

Father, Son Shot
To Death in Remote
Section of County

STEVENS POINT (AP)—A father and son were found shot to death in a remote wooded area of Portage County Wednesday and authorities said it appeared to be a case of double murder with robbery as the apparent motive. A 23-year-old man was being held for questioning.

Portage County Sheriff Emil Meshak said a small bullet hole was found in the left cheek of 37-year-old Robert Wesley of Wisconsin Rapids whose body was discovered near his truck by a hunter on Deer Road 20 miles southwest of Stevens Point. A bullet hole also was found in the back of Wesley's father, Frank Wesley Jr., of Route 1, Adams, whose body was located in a nearby wooded area Wednesday night by a 17-man posse.

Autopsies were planned on the bodies today.

Sheriff Meshak said $40 to $60 was missing from the wallets of the two men who had been in the area cutting wood pulp for sale to a mill at Mesinee.

A Wisconsin Rapids hunter, Edward Brown, found the body of the younger man lying in a pool of blood. At first authorities were not sure whether he had been injured in an auto accident or had been shot.

Efforts to contact Robert Wesley's father in Wisconsin Rapids were fruitless.

Meanwhile, the sheriff said, the 23-year-old man was taken into custody about 9 p.m. Wednesday by Portage and Wood county authorities for questioning.

Shortly thereafter, a 17-man searching party was organized and dispatched to the spot where the body and truck had been found at 10:30 a.m. Shortly before 10 p.m. the officers formed a line and moved through the underbrush. They turned up the body of Frank Wesley slumped over a chain saw which he had been using.

Frank Wesley's car was located earlier some 100 yards down the road.

Estes Receives 8-Year Term in Texas Prison

Bankrupt Promoter
Guilty of Swindle,
Jury's Verdict Says

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — A jury convicted bankrupt promoter Billie Sol Estes of swindling and set his sentence at eight years in the State Penitentiary Wednesday.

The verdict, reached after the 11 men and one woman deliberated 2 hours and 8 minutes, ended a 17-day trial on state charges growing out of a transaction involving a mortgage on liquid fertilizer tanks. The state said the tanks did not exist.

Estes, 37, faces state anti-trust charges accusing him of fixing the price of liquid fertilizer. Also pending against him are federal charges of fraud, conspiracy and perjury in connection with $22 million in loans obtained on fertilizer tanks.

First Conviction

It was the first conviction for Estes since his multimillion-dollar complex of liquid fertilizer tank mortgage deals, cotton allotment transfers and grain storage collapsed last spring.

Asked for comment on the verdict, Estes replied: "What can you say?"

Estes was accused of inducing Pecos farmer T. J. Wilson to sign a $84,500 mortgage on non-existent liquid fertilizer tanks. Prosecutors claimed Estes, his own credit exhausted, paid rental bonuses and got farmers to contract for non-existent tanks, leased the tanks from them and agreed to pay monthly rentals matching payments due on the mortgages.

The defense claimed he merely paid a bonus for borrowing credit. Estes remained free under $20,000 bond pending a motion for a new trial, promised within 10 days by defense lawyer John D. Cofer. Altogether, kinsmen have posted $140,000 bonds for Estes on state and federal charges.

Split Bullet Causes Girl to Lose Eye in Sharpshooting Act

MILAN, Italy (AP)—The crowd under the big top held its breath Wednesday night.

Khordy Barlay, a sharpshooter from Germany, aimed a carbine at his pretty wife, Annelle, 20, and, one by one, picked off five balloons tied to her head. The audience roared approval. The tent rang with applause.

Across the city in a hospital operating room, doctors operated on Alice Althoff, 17, shot a week ago when she substituted for Barlay's wife in the sharpshooting act.

The doctors were unable to save the girl's right eye, which had been injured by a bullet fragment that pierced the eye and lodged in the brain. But they reported that the girl was beginning to recover from the partial paralysis that followed her injury.

Navy Ready to Check Returning Soviet Ships

Aiming at Removal of Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blocking U.S. Navy ships were ready to check homeward bound Soviet vessels today for proof that they are hauling Red missiles from Cuba.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Wednesday that 40 Soviet rockets had been dismantled in Cuba and probably were on their way back to the Soviet Union.

The Pentagon said Wednesday night that arrangements were being made with Soviet representatives for the Navy to check on the number of dismantled missiles aboard the homeward-bound Soviet ships.

No Further Details

In announcing that the first contact would be made today, Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, indicated no specific hour. And he declined comment when a newsman asked if the Red Cross would play a part in the inspection procedure.

The administration has insisted on international verification of the de-nuclearization of Cuba. Asked Wednesday if the arrangement for a Navy check of the missiles removal was considered satisfactory, Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, called attention to the last exchange of messages between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

In his Oct. 27 message to Khrushchev, Kennedy said he understood that Soviets to have agreed to remove offensive weapons systems from Cuba "under appropriate United Nations observation and supervision."

Red Cross May Act

There has been talk since of the Red Cross filling this role.

Salinger also was asked if the plan for a Navy check would have any effect on U.S. insistence upon on-the-spot verification inside Cuba. He said he was not prepared to go beyond the Pentagon statement.

The announcement said: "The Soviet Union has reported that ships are leaving Cuba with missiles aboard."

"Arrangements are being made with Soviet representatives for contact with these ships by United States naval vessels and for counting the missiles being shipped out."

The statement was issued after President Kennedy met with the

Alleged Bogus Oath Brings Libel Suit

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Testimony has begun in a criminal libel trial in which the Knights of Columbus charges a minister published a fictitious K. of C. oath in a church pamphlet.

Harold L. Lamboley, K. of C. general counsel, and a former Monroe, Wis., judge, testified Wednesday he repeatedly asked the Rev. Walter L. King, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, Independent, at Finleyville, Pa., to retract the bogus oath.

George H. Ross, an assistant Allegheny County district attorney, said no retraction was printed.

The K. of C., a Catholic fraternal organization, claims the Rev. Mr. King published the oath in the "Voice of the Nazarene" in May, 1960.

Envoy Leaves Party After Red Attacks U. S.

Bulgarian Leader
Alleges Piratical
Action Against Cuba

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — U.S. Minister Eugenie Anderson walked out of a Soviet reception Wednesday night after Bulgarian President Dimitar Ganev accused the United States of piratical action against Cuba.

Ganev made the accusation in an address during the Soviet Embassy's reception in honor of the 45th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. It was attended by Sofia's diplomatic corps and chief delegates to the Bulgarian Communist party congress now being held here.

Soviet Envoy Speaks

Ganev spoke after Soviet Ambassador Georgi A. Denisov addressed the guests. Denisov made a passing reference to American imperialism before launching into the familiar Soviet line that Premier Khrushchev saved the world from war by withdrawing Soviet missiles from Cuba.

Ganev said the United States had violated all international laws in trying "to put up the blockade around small but heroic Cuba, in beginning piratical action and openly preparing an armed attack on revolutionary Cuba."

"I think we had better leave," said Mrs. Anderson to her American interpreter. They started out Bulgarian government officials rushed over in an attempt to smooth things over; diplomatic informants said, but Mrs. Anderson would have none of it.

The Bulgarian press did not mention the incident today.

Father Out of Job, But Son's Working

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. John B. Swainson called home Wednesday after the returns showed the Democratic incumbent had lost his bid for re-election.

"Well, we lost, son," Swainson told Peter, 12.

Peter has been working as a page for Democratic Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski.

"Did T. John lose too?" Peter asked.

"No, T. John won," the governor replied.

"Well, anyway, my job is safe," Peter said.

The 78-year-old widow of the nation's 32nd president and niece of the 26th president had suffered from what the family described as "a complicated type of anemia" for two and a half years.

Her health failed rapidly during the last six weeks, accelerated by non-contagious tuberculosis which was not proved until Oct. 25.

Her physicians, expecting heart failure, were with her at the end, along with three of her five living children. Two sons were en route by plane from distant points in the nation. Nineteen grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive her.

Pope John Attends Requiem for Cardinal Born in Milwaukee

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII attended a special requiem in St. Peter's Basilica today for Aloisius Joseph Cardinal Muench and five other cardinals who died in the past year.

Cardinal Muench, a native of Milwaukee, and former bishop of Fargo, N.D., died on Feb. 15.

All archbishops, bishops and abbots who died in the past year also were honored by the memorial service.

The Pope entered the basilica on foot through a side entrance. He wore robes of red, the papal color of mourning. Giuseppe Cardinal Ferretto, a member of the Vatican Curia, celebrated the Mass at a small altar set up before the papal throne.

Kuehn Says Party to Study Official Canvass

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Philip G. Kuehn, loser by about 12,000 votes to Democrat John W. Reynolds in unofficial returns from Tuesday's election, said today that Republicans will await the outcome of the canvass before deciding on whether to ask for a recount of gubernatorial ballots.

"We will watch the canvass very closely," Kuehn said, particularly in some of the Milwaukee wards where tabulating errors were discovered during the unofficial count early Wednesday.

Urges Honest Reporting

Nixon Accuses Some Papers of Not Being Fair in His Campaign

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, as angry and distraught as he has ever been in public, met reporters in what he called his final news conference—and accused segments of the press of utterly failing to give him a fair shake.

Newsman thought the Republican gubernatorial candidate had called the conference Wednesday to concede victory to Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown. Nixon did that, but he kept talking.

Lashes at Press
"As I leave you," Nixon told reporters coldly, "I want you to know just how much you're going to be missed."

"You won't have Nixon to kick around any more because, gentlemen, this is my last press conference."

Nixon was endorsed by some 75 per cent of the California daily newspapers that took sides in the turbulent gubernatorial campaign. But he said many of his statements had been ignored by the press.

"I have no complaints about the press coverage," Nixon said early in his statement. But it turned out he had plenty.

Samples:
"I am proud of the fact I defended my opponent's patriotism. You gentlemen didn't report it, but I am proud that I did that."

"As I leave the press, all I can say is this: For 16 years, ever since the (Alger) Hiss case, you've had a lot of fun, that you've had an opportunity to attack me and I think I have given as good as I can take."

"It was carried right up to the last day (of the campaign). I made a talk on television, a talk in which I made a flub."

News Pictures Show Fraud at Polls, Paper Says

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Daily News says a federal investigation may develop from news pictures which the paper said showed fraudulent voting in the Chicago election Tuesday.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., told the News in a telephone interview he may request a federal inquiry. Curtis is a member of the Senate subcommittee on elections.

Curtis declared he was shocked by reports that Daily News photographers had made pictures of a Democratic poll worker paying money to voters after they left polling places. The Daily News published the pictures Tuesday.

"I intend to follow this up," Curtis said.

Two investigators for the Senate subcommittee were in Chicago Tuesday to watch for possible irregularities. Curtis said he would wait for a report from them before deciding a course of action.

The pictures were taken outside a polling place in the 5th Precinct of the 1st Ward on the West Side.

The newspaper identified the alleged cash dispenser as a 78-year-old man who has been a Democratic Party worker for 46 years.

The News said two women voters told a reporter for the newspaper that they each had received $1 for their votes, $1 for their votes, $1 for their votes.

School Board Won't OK Married Student

GRAY, Ga. (AP) — The Jones County School Board has reaffirmed its stand expelling an 18-year-old high school football star because of his marriage.

The board met Wednesday night to take another look at the case of Johnny Arnold, the 6-foot, 170-pound halfback who was expelled with his 15-year-old bride under the board's no-marriage rule.

Angry Arnold boosters have been urging that he be readmitted so that he can continue his education and perhaps win an athletic scholarship.

the United States "a link in a chain constructed... over a period of years designed to contain the Communist effort, to prevent expansion."

"Viet Nam represents a key link in the chain, especially South east Asia," he said.

"Should South Vietnam fall to the communists, Cambodia, Laos, Thailand, Burma, Malaya and Indonesia would also soon fall."

If this happened, Helble said, "there is no doubt the rest of our allies in the rest of the world would lose faith in us. They would soon decide we don't mean what we say."

Helble, however, pointed out that South Viet Nam "is a difficult area to fight a war in."

He said "the communist regime is firmly installed in North Viet Nam. That part, he said, is recognized only by the communist countries of the world and supported by the Soviets and Chinese."

Helble discussed the government of South Viet Nam. He noted the country has a constitution and holds elections.

"Nevertheless, to be perfectly frank the country is a dictatorship," he added.

It has never known democracy. "But now at war I think it is unreasonable for us to think they should move forward in the direction of democracy," he said.

"As much as we would like to be supporting a democratic region in South Viet Nam, it is too much to hope for at this time."

Why do the peasants put up with the communists? Helble asked.

Reasons for this, he noted, include an 85 per cent rural population. "They have never known any loyalty to the government in Saigon. They don't know who or what it is."

They never knew there was a power higher than that of head of a family, he said. Helble said peasants are "extremely poor." The per capita income is less than $100 a year. "They live from hand to mouth."

"They don't have much to lose no matter who wins."

"They must adjust to whatever pressure is closest in order to survive," he said.

Our problem, he said, is "to give the people both the will and means to defend themselves."

He said the United States has tried to give them better communications, training, transportation and arms in order to bring this about.

The results of the military have been good, he said. However, he noted that progress has been slow in other areas.

Wrong Ducks Bring Waupaca Woman Fine

WAUPACA — Miss Barbara Behnke, 23, Waupaca, pleaded guilty of possessing ducks during a closed season when she was arraigned before Municipal Justice George Whalen.

Miss Behnke was fined $50. She was arrested Saturday in the Town of Farmington for possessing two canvass back ducks, which are protected this year.

Raymond Schroeder, 47, Weyauwega, was fined $10 and costs for possessing shotgun slugs during a closed season and $20 for trapping mink in a closed season.

Some areas was explained. "What is most important to the peasant is whether he has a little more rice in his bowl tomorrow, whether his sick child will live."

The United States is helping with supplies of medicine, training and food, Helble said.

Outlines History

Helble explained geographical features of the nation and outlined its history. He presented slides of the countryside to illustrate his talk.

Helble, 28, a 1952 graduate of Appleton High School, is a political science graduate from the University of Wisconsin. He was with the State Department in Venezuela for two years.

For the past 15 months he has been stationed at Hue, South Viet Nam as consul. He was given the meritorious service award in 1960 for the part he played with "services above and beyond the call of duty" in an incident when the South Viet Nam presidential palace was bombed.

Helble indicated he has been under fire in South Viet Nam several times. He pointed out that casualties are 600 to 1,000 each week for both sides. He said, however, he is delighted to have the opportunity to "stuck my neck out and go back."

Who Is That?

Democrats Break GOP Hold in Outagamie

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The New Frontier has broken into the county's exclusive Republican Club in the Outagamie County courthouse where, for the first time in 30 years a Democratic officeholder, Sheriff Calvin Spice will hang his hat next January.

Depending on your political point of view, the change was apparent immediately.

If you were a Democrat, the elevators seemed to run faster and more often. If you were a Republican, the cables snapped and groaned and the machinery threatened to break down in between floors.

Rooms too Hot

If you were a Democrat, the offices which seemed too hot in the summer or too cold in the winter suddenly seemed to be just right. For the Republican, the old courthouse structure showed signs of complete breakdown.

Office workers, most of whom had stayed awake throughout the entire vote count, discussed the change over early morning coffee klatches, along corridors, and in whispered tones between court cases.

Traffic officers and sheriff officials expressed mixed emotions over the strange turnabout. Two traffic men had tried for the office of sheriff and one had made it. Most patrolmen waited until Spice reported back to duty tonight before expressing personal gratitudes.

Outagamie County Under-

sheriff Donald Heinritz reported to his office about 9 a.m. and set about a full day's task of delivering court subpoenas and warrants. He appeared in abnormal good spirits and parried with office visitors who stopped to express their regrets or condolences.

"I'm naturally disappointed," Heinritz said, "but I'm sure the most disappointed person is my son, Donny, who, at 5 years of age, doesn't understand why his daddy isn't going to be sheriff."

Heinritz said he and his son had a long talk early this morning.

Courthouse visitors stopped perfect strangers in the hallways and asked them "Well, how's it feel?" Most of the county employees knew what the strangers meant. Some told how they felt. Some didn't.

Phone Calls

The telephone operators in the county clerk's office were busy handling an unusual amount of telephone calls, most people asking for current results on top state races. There were few calls for results of the sheriff's race.

Judge Gustave Keller, who discontinued court Tuesday because of election day, opened sessions an hour early today to make up for lost time. Judge Keller, an avowed Democrat who runs, however, on a non-partisan ticket for office, took time out today to claim it would be nice having company on the New Frontier.

New London Appoints New CD Director

NEW LONDON — A new civil defense director was named following the resignation of Richard Berglund, former director, at Wednesday night's city council meeting.

George Wochinski, 321 N. Shawano St., was appointed by Mayor Wilmer Schlafer upon the recommendation of Berglund. The council approved the appointment.

Berglund said he has received the leases for the city CD shelters and will get the signatures of owners today and turn them over to Wochinski tonight.

In a statement Berglund gave on the request of the council, he said he had trouble getting cooperation of the people of the city in the beginning and things slowed down. Since the Cuban crises, he said, he has received many telephone calls. He added, "It is a thankless job." Previously Berg-lund had said he paid his own expenses and asked that the council put some expense money into the 1963 budget. Mayor Schlafer said council is considering putting $200 into the budget for expense.

Products Development Center Begun; Other Building Planned

The Appleton Wire Works Corp. is undertaking the largest program of capital expenditure in its 67-year history, with work started on a Products Development Center and plans to modernize the warehouse and build a two-story office and laboratory building.

The expansion program was outlined Wednesday at the annual dinner meeting at the Appleton Elks Club for 25-year employees of Appleton Wire Works. All told, existing facilities will be increased by well over an acre of floor space, they learned.

The permit issued by Building Inspector Walter Bogan for warehouse work calls for construction estimated to cost $175,000. That doesn't include any improvements or machinery in the warehouse. W. E. Buchanan, Wire Works president, told the veteran employees that ground was broken Tuesday in the block bounded by Meade, Lawe and Hancock streets and the North Western Railway for a building 180 by 225 by 20 feet high to house a Products Development Center. This structure will adjoin the present warehouse building of metal construction that fronts 75 feet on Meade Street.

Expand Capacity
Second step in the program is scheduled to start within a few weeks. Work will get underway on the 75 by 125-foot warehouse building to modernize it for expanding the company's capacity for chrome plating Fourdrinier wires.

Plans are also being prepared for a two-story building on Hancock Street. At the rear this structure will adjoin the Products Development Center. Its ground floor will be general offices, its second floor laboratories.

Principal purpose of the Products Development Center is to provide space for working out new products and processes on pilot scale and experimenting with plant equipment. Here will be tested innovations in coating, plating, weaves, alloys and synthetics for making better and longer-life paper machine wires.

Connected to Center

In modernizing the all-steel warehouse, the Wire Works is practically making a new building, Buchanan explained. It will be insulated, heated, given an interior brick wall, and equipped with water supply and sewer. Actually it is part of the Product Development Center, with which it will be connected.

Appleton chrome-plated wires for experimental use by paper mills have during the past year been plated on equipment of limited size and capacity. This equipment will be moved into the modernized steel structure and total chrome capacity will be augmented with units capable of plating Fourdrinier wire in widths beyond 300 inches. Plans call for having the new unit operating early in 1963.

Construction of the third new building is scheduled to start next spring and be completed about a year from now. The upstairs laboratories will serve the research and development needs of the Product Development Center. The downstairs space will relieve present crowded office conditions and bring into one compact area company officers and executives who now are housed on different levels of several plant buildings.

Half Century Mark

The year 1962 marks exactly half a century since A. B. Weisenborn and G. E. Buchanan bought out the other interests in the Appleton Wire Works from William Buchanan Sr. and John Buchanan. W. E. Buchanan recalled in his after-dinner talk to the Quarter Century veterans, the two men thereafter owned equal shares in the firm, and their descendants in the Purdy and Buchanan families have held the same 50-50 ownership basis. "It is seldom that such a friendly and close relationship is maintained for so long a time," Buchanan declared.

All Wisconsin Congressmen Re-Elected

Some in Trouble Early But Triumph in Final Count

Re-election of the incumbents bore out most election forecasts in Wisconsin congressional races. Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, a 32-year-old Watertown Democrat bidding for a third term as 2nd District congressman, had the toughest scrap.

First returns placed him behind his Republican challenger, Ivan Kindschi of Marshall. But when tabulations reached the half-way point in the five-county district which includes Dane County and the city of Madison, Kastenmeier took charge. Still his final margin was not expected to match the 15,000-vote edge that re-elected him in 1960.

Republican Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski of Mercer also had trouble before showing his customary sure foot in the big 10th District of northern Wisconsin.

Hanson Faltered

O'Konski's Democratic opponent, J. Louis Hanson of Mellen, faltered about a third of the way through the race, however, and the man who claims seniority in Wisconsin's congressional delegation moved ahead to win an eleventh consecutive term.

On the other side of the coin, Democratic Reps. Clement J. Zablocki and Henry Reuss were called in his after-dinner talk to the Quarter Century veterans, the two men thereafter owned equal shares in the firm, and their descendants in the Purdy and Buchanan families have held the same 50-50 ownership basis. "It is seldom that such a friendly and close relationship is maintained for so long a time," Buchanan declared.

Council Rules On Transfer

New London Mayor Given Authority to Dispose of Property

NEW LONDON — The city council Wednesday passed a resolution authorizing the city clerk and mayor to transfer city-owned school property to the New London Unified School District.

The resolution was passed upon the recommendation of the finance committee, which previously had met with the school board and city attorney on the transfer of property.

The finance committee recommended the city accept notes from the board of education to the amount the city is bonded for school indebtedness. Also the notes are to be paid on the same date as the city notes are due. Rate of interest is to be the same.

At the time of the change from the city school system, July 1, 1961, to the unified school system, indebtedness to the city for school purposes was $471,000. Payments have been made by the school since that time and the amount of indebtedness as of Nov. 1 was $377,000.

It also was recommended that the school district pay approximately $3,737 in cash for assessments of the Allen property, purchased by the city School system for a building site for the new high school. At that time it was agreed that the school would pay the special assessments.

The athletic field located on Washington Street will not be turned over to the school system as it is city owned. It was stipulated the school could continue to keep their buildings there provided they move them within 30 days upon request of the city.

The property to be turned over to the school district by the city includes all schools in the name of the city and all real estate and personal property with the exception of the athletic field.

Chilton Council Delays Installation Of Parking Meters

Plan Six-Month Test of Tight Restrictions as Alternative

CHILTON — The City Council Tuesday night relaxed its stand on parking meters and delayed installation for six months while it tests new, rigid parking restrictions in the business district.

Giving rise to the move was a report prepared by Mayor Elmer Daun which outlined the experimental parking control program. It was unanimously adopted by the council.

Until Tuesday night, the council had moved unwaiveringly toward meter installation since first proposed in August. Protests by the Chilton Chamber of Commerce and a petition asking for a referendum were hurried clearing the way for meters.

The council move represents a temporary compromise. If the control plan fails, the council still has the power to install meters.

Rigid police enforcement of more stringent parking limitations during Friday night store hours play key roles in the plan. The parking ordinance will be amended to limit parking time in specified business district areas to one hour between the hours of 6 and 9 p.m. Fridays. There is currently a two-hour parking limit.

Affected Areas

Areas affected by the one-hour parking includes both sides of W. Main Street from Madison Street to a point 100 feet west of State Street, N. State and N. Madison streets between Main and School streets, E. Main Street from Madison east to the Commercial Bank property, and E. Main from Railroad Street to a point 100 feet west of Mill Street.

The police department will be reinforced to check parking Friday nights. Fines are $1.50 for the first offense and $3 for the second.

In addition to marking cars, police will be asked to keep a careful record of the program's effects. The report will be studied in six months when the parking situation is again reviewed.

Daun also recommended improved lighting of city hall parking lot and an attempt to lease property so that a sidewalk could be built linking the lot with the center of the uptown shopping district.

He also asked for a study on securing more off-street parking areas.

Heated Dispute

Dismissal of a traffic charge by City Atty. Edward Eick and alleged failure to prosecute two men arrested for drunkenness touched off heated remarks by Police Chief Harry Thompson. Thompson demanded that when a drunk is arrested and jailed overnight he be prosecuted. Thompson maintained this would protect police from false arrest suits.

Eick pointed out that the city attorney has the right to determine if sufficient evidence exists to warrant arrest and prosecution.

Eick was defended on this point by Ald. William Hertel, also an attorney. Hertel said an area of discretion is left to the city attorney in his decision to prosecute or recommend dismissal.

Mayor Daun will meet with Eick and Thompson to negotiate an understanding.

Other Action

In other action, the council launched an attempt to hold the $67,933 federal grant available to the city for sewage treatment plant remodeling without proceeding at St. John's Catholic church with actual construction this year. Extensions are possible, but Daun said. No funds have been day appropriated for the project in the 1963 budget.

Eick was asked to secure an opinion from the federal department responsible for the grant administration and report back to the council with his findings.

The Utilities Commission has recommended that the grant be accepted and remodeling work be carried out. The commission also recommended that cost estimates for a sewage lagoon be secured. No direct action was taken on the recommendations.

Dr. Miles Agee's health and sanitation committee was ordered to work with the commission while studying feasibility of the lagoon method.

Lumber Jack Saws Spell Doom of Tall Pines, New London's Reminder of Past

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON—"The Pines" are coming down. Wednesday morning three men, each carrying a chain saw, walked into the 100-foot-high stand of virgin pine. By nightfall one-fourth of the tall majestic trees that have acted as a familiar landmark for many years lay on the ground in lengths ready for a sawmill.

Today, by the time this paper reaches homes of the city, another large portion of the stand will have fallen to the grovel of the never turning saw. By the end of the week only a row of small trees will remain on the Algoma Street, a boarder for the plot.

Misty Eyes

For years people of the city drove by the stand without even glancing in it's direction. Wednesday every car that went past slowed down, and the driver craned his neck to see what was happening. Several took Cutting Down of the New London "pines", a well known landmark has begun. The stand of virgin pine is owned by the community hospital. The land will be retained by the hospital and divided into building lots. Cutting the felled trees are Mat Dillburg, left, and George Jeske, right, both of route 3, Clintonville. time to stop, get out and stand for a few minutes to watch the three men with their roaring chain saws bring the mighty pines crashing to the ground with lightning precision.

Reactions varied. Some stopped to see what was going on. Some stopped to find out why the trees were being felled and others stopped for a few minutes to just watch the loggers working in the heart of a city.

Among the people that came were many old lumber jacks who now are retired but still love to tell the tale of the woods. To them the smell of the freshly cut pine brought back the days of the Hatten era when they either worked in the sawmill or spent their winters working in the north woods.

A raw west wind was blowing as each of the three workers busied himself with the task of downing trees. One elderly gentleman stood with a gleam of moisture in his eye, perhaps from the wind or—more likely from the thought of the pines being gone. He shook his head and asked, "why must they go?"

Some Bitter

Another elderly man, who has lived within the shadow of the landmark for more than 40 years, spotted a photographer taking pictures of the workmen and asked if one last picture might be taken of his home with the pine stand as a backdrop.

One man said, "What's the matter with Nelson, he said he was going to save our forests."

The Pines, which are expected to yield approximately 140,000 board feet of lumber, are the last of a stand that once covered much of the south side of the city. Some older residents even recall when the same kind of stands were cut from adjoining blocks to make way for homes.

In recent years red rot has taken it's toll, and the "pines" have lost a little of their value.

CHILTON — Final plans for the Chilton Kiwanis Club's most productive fund raising project of the year, a $5-a-plate hospital benefit dinner, have been completed.

Since its inception seven years ago, the event has raised an average of more than $1,100 annually for Calumet Memorial Hospital's building fund. The first $7,928 it earned was applied to debt retirement with this year's earning earmarked for the expansion fund.

Kiwanis Speaker

Featured speaker will be John Davis, Kiwanis district chairman for programs and music. A speech instructor in the Kenosha Public School system, Davis will also serve as master of ceremonies. He is a well-known humorist in organization circles.

The Herbie Schneider dance band has donated its services. Another special feature will be community singing and distribution of special prizes. The latter have also been donated.

Invocation will be by the Rev. Duane Dionne, assistant pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church, Chilton. The Rev. Charles A. Koch, pastor of the United Church of Christ, New Holstein, will give the benediction.

Waupaca Council Wants Hotel Razed

Action Asked on Delevan Because Building's Condition Claimed As Hazardous and Unsightly

WAUPACA — Action to have the Delevan Hotel razed because of its hazardous condition was proposed Wednesday night by the city council.

The hotel, which was condemned by the city and has been vacant for a number of years, was brought to the attention of council by Ald. Fred Rawson. He said a resident complained to him about the "unsightliness."

Windows of the hotel still bear homecoming paintings from the football season and political posters are still in the windows, the council learned.

Chief of Police Fred Rasmussen told the council the hotel is a menace because it attracts juveniles, even though the doors are boarded up. He said a recent tour through the hotel by him and a member of his department revealed the roof has wide openings and the third floor is in hazardous condition.

Tourists Stop

Mayor Lloyd Matheson said signs of "eat" and "hotel" cause a number of tourists to stop and attempt to enter the building. He suggested contacting George Suman, the owner, to have the building razed.

He said it is an eyesore, children break in, it is unsafe and could be the scene of a serious accident. "I think it is highly improbable anyone will buy the building and remodel it because it would cost more than building deeds and abstracts for the proposed new hotel," Mayor Matheson added.

Several aldermen and City Atty. Laurie Anderson advised the council the south wall is bulging outward and the hotel is becoming a home for birds and doves.

After mentioning the danger of a wall collapsing, the council asked Anderson to write to the attorney general to determine what steps will have to be taken by the council to have the building razed.

The council authorized the police department to install warning lights and signs signifying church.

"Children Crossing" on Churchill Street and other warning signs on Fulton Street. Mayor Matheson said Carl Knapp, who resides on Churchill Street, complained of the danger involving the children crossing the street at Riverside Street on the way to and from the Riverside Elementary School.

Mayor Matheson advised the council he plans to write to the state to urge the installation of overhead directional signs for the intersection of Churchill and Royalton Streets. Chief Rasmussen said the state had advocated painting the highway lanes but he delayed the project because of the anticipation of snow.

Mayor Matheson said if anyone is injured in the intersection, it will be the responsibility of the state.

Harry Bradley, representing the First Methodist church, and the Rev. James Saunders, pastor, urged council to supply warranty deeds and abstracts for the property.

The church representatives claimed the legal procedures in completing the transfer of property is delaying landscaping at the new church.

City Atty. Anderson said it would be impossible to give the church a warranty deed because of the legal process. He said the city vacates the existing street, the property ownership reverts to the abutting property owners which in this case is the city.

City Atty. Anderson was asked to meet with the church's attorney W. Fulton Street. Mayor Matheson said Carl Knapp, who re-

New London Tickets Split

Tally Shows Votes Did Not Follow Strict Party Lines

NEW LONDON — New London voters Tuesday did not follow strict party lines as they favored a Democrat for district attorney and Republican candidates for the office of governor and U.S. senator.

In nearly a two to one vote in favor of the Republican gubernatorial candidate, Philip Kuehn, polled 961 votes to 572 votes for the victorious John W. Reynolds. The largest spread of votes was in the fourth ward where 404 votes were cast for Kuehn and 184 for Reynolds.

Edward R. Macklin, seeking the Waupaca County District Attorney's post, carried all four wards of the city, and in the total amount of votes cast polled 136 more than his Republican opponent, Gerald Anderson, who was victorious and Co., Clintonville, for $2,835. This will replace Macklin, who has been acting District Attorney for the past year.

A total of 978 votes were cast for defeated Senator Alexander Fred Wiley and 560 for Gaylord Nelson in the senatorial race.

The Republican candidate for sheriff, Lorain Frasier, piled up an overwhelming 785 votes over his Democratic opponent John Gough. In the third city ward, which is in Outagamie county, George Elise, running on the independent ticket, a former resident of the city, carried the ward with 131 votes, while Republican candidate, Donald Heinritz, polled 125 votes and Democratic candidate, Calvin L. Spice, who carried the county collected only 76 votes.

In the race for assembly seat incumbent Richard E. Peterson carried all four city wards in Waupaca county with a total vote of 683. Gerald T. Murphy, in his first political attempt, polled 477 votes.

Conservation Issue

Potter Asks State to Dredge Upstream on Manitowoc River

POTTER — The Potter Community Association has appealed to the State Conservation Department for upstream dredging of the Manitowoc River for several miles from the Potter bridge.

Representing Potter civic and business leaders, the group requested the proposal at its last town chairman and the township's representative on the Calumet County Board, stated in a group proposed that the dredging be carried out in conjunction with the development of the Brillion-Potter marsh wildlife preserve. The latter is in its formative stages with land acquisition scheduled to begin soon.

Potential Development

Dredging would improve fishing activities year-around and prevent fish from dying of lack of oxygen during the winter freeze, the appeal reasoned. The river is filling in with silt and is choked with weeds in this particular stretch.

To date, the association has received no word from the Conservation Department.

Potential residential development of the community was discussed after E. valenberg presented the subject, "Homes for business leaders, the group requested."

Ray Rusch, Rantoul township's representative on the Calumet County Board, stated in a group proposed that the dredging be carried out in conjunction with the development of the Brillion-Potter marsh wildlife preserve. The latter is in its formative stages with land acquisition scheduled to begin soon.

A planning committee to further the residential development study was appointed by Schwalenberg. Calvin Huber is chairman. Working with him are Vernon Schroeder, Roy Wenzel and Harlan Gruett.

The committee's duties will be to determine availability of property, road plotting and community obligations to developments.

A fund drive patterned after the United Fund has been organized in the community. Residents will be contacted only once and will be given an opportunity to designate the assignment of their contributions.

Listed Charities

Charities listed include the Red Cross, Heart Fund, Cancer Society, Polio and Salvation Army. In the event a Boy or Girl Scout troop is organized, it will be added to the list.

In charge of the fund drive are Roy Wenzel, chairman, Calvin Huber and Harlan Gruett.

The offer of land for park and playground purposes made by Aaron Loose was lauded by the association members. It is slated for development as a wildlife preserve. Trees will be planted on the property soon.

Loose was named chairman of a park study committee. F. W. Spencer, Wilbert Paul and Ted Krueger will serve with him.

Waupaca Still Seeking School Superintendent

Proposal to Join Outagamie County Rejected Wednesday

Waupaca County is still an "orphan" without a county school superintendent, after the Outagamie County education committee Wednesday turned thumbs down on a proposal to have a joint superintendent for the two counties.

State superintendent of public instruction Angus B. Rothwell, who had proposed the "jointure," told the Waupaca County education committee, "We will find another county that needs your valuation even if we have to jump county lines."

The superintendent's post was left vacant when George Barber resigned to accept an administrative position with the Manawa school system. He temporarily is handling the superintendent's duties on a part-time basis.

Winebago Said No

The Waupaca and Winebago county education committees had approved having a joint superintendent for the two counties last year, but the Winebago County board rejected the proposal.

The superintendent's post can be filled through a "jointure" with another county, or through an appointment by Rothwell of someone to complete Barber's term.

Another possibility that has not been considered, Rothwell said at the hearing at the Outagamie County courthouse Wednesday, would be to appoint an educator now working in one of the areas under the jurisdiction of the county superintendent to the Superintendent's post. This would not require county board action, but would require school board action, he said.

Board Must Approve

The county board must approve a jointure. The Waupaca county board meets next week and does not meet again until February. As a result of school reorganization, valuation and the responsibilities of the superintendent have been reduced in many coun-

Today's Deaths

Chester J. Sawall, 60, 707 W. Prospect Ave., Appleton.

Doyle G. Springer, 55, Weyauwega.

A total of 26 Wisconsin counties are now operating under joint superintendents. The jointure arrangement is only a temporary solution to the problem, Rothwell told the committee members. Legislation has been proposed to abolish the office of county superintendent of schools and to set up a system of coordinators for various areas of the state.

Equalized Value

The equalized valuation of the territory under the jurisdiction of the superintendent in the two counties is about $26,000,000 in Waupaca and $146,000,000 in Outagamie. The Waupaca valuation may drop further if Weyauwega forms a common school district, as is now being studied. This would leave only Iola-Scandinavia under the county superintendent, since Manawa formed a common school district this fall.

There is a danger that reorganization will result in counties with no territory under the county superintendent, Rothwell said, but there still would be some problems to be resolved, such as transferring property between school districts. No present legislation provides for this.

The Outagamie County education committee, after a caucus, voted 6-0 against the jointure. To be presented to the county boards for approval, it would have had to be okayed by a majority of both education committees, with the same number voting from each committee.

Appleton Man Held in Oskey Beating

Douglas Meyer Picked Up by Police For Battery

Douglas Meyer, 30, route 4, Appleton was taken into custody late Tuesday night by Appleton police who have charged him with battery in the beating of Frank Oskey, 49, 216 S. Badger Ave. after the two men had argued in an Appleton tavern Oct. 28.

Meyer's attorney, Mark Catlin, Appleton, filed an affidavit of prejudice against Outagamie County Judge Gustave Keller early today and the case was continued until 9:30 a.m. Monday when another judge will be sequestered. Meyer was freed after he posted a $100 bond.

Oskey, who was released from St. Elizabeth Hospital Monday after receiving treatment for injuries from the beating, appeared Tuesday in Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer's office to sign a formal complaint against Meyer.

Oskey was taken to the hospital when he was found unconscious at the rear of Carl's Tap, 523 W. College Ave. When he was questioned by police the following day, he said he had been in an argument with Meyer and another man, and the three men left the place. Oskey said the argument was based on his association with Negroes.

Thursday, Nov. 3, 1962 Appleton Post-Crescent D3

Five Hold Key To Chilton Cage Hopes

Coach Begins Work With Letter Winners As He Grooms Team

CHILTON — An experienced quintet holds the key to Chilton High School's cage success during the 1962-63 Eastern Wisconsin Conference season.

Coach Ken Vander Velden is working with five letter winners as he grooms the Tiger varsity for its opener Nov. 16 here against Stockbridge.

Included are Jim Wagner, Tom Selk, Dick Rollmann, Steve Compton, seniors, and Tom Dhein, a junior. One of the lettermen, however, may not make the starting lineup. Instead Jim Vogel, a junior, may start. Vander Velden feels that Vogel could become a key cog for the Tiger hoopers.

Jim Wagner, 6-2, is the tallest member of the squad. The rugged center came along fast at the close of the past campaign. Wagner scored a total of 96 points, most of them coming in the last four games. Currently, he is sidelined with a leg injury.

Top Scorer
Selk is the top scorer returning. He garnered 112 points on last year's varsity. Dick Rollmann had 76 and Tom Dhein, 51. The team's sixth top scorer a year ago, Paul Reinke, a starting guard and letterman, has not returned by invitation to parent-teacher conferences during the school year.

Sophomores, Scott Wilson, Jerry Lodes, Al Whitby, Nick Casper, Paul Juckem and Nick Schaff will strengthen the team.

Brillion Jaycees Hear Ugandan Talk

BRILLION — Alfred Okello, foreign exchange student from Uganda, Africa, attending Reedsville High School, told Brillion Jaycees he was impressed with the number of "McAdamsized" (black-topped) roads in the many "settlements" (cities) in the United States at a recent meeting.

He said in his country villages are made up of huts and are separated by dirt roads. He said settlements are far from each other.

Okello said he had been approved as an exchange student after passing a series of examinations based on schoolwork. He said in Uganda, students must take tests after the sixth and eighth grades, and, if they fail, are dropped from school.

Okello said cotton, sugar cane, coffee, tea and tobacco are the principal Ugandan crops. He said most of the produce is hand-harvested, because farmers have little machinery to aid them.

He said he has one brother and three sisters at home. Okello said his parents had to pay part of his expenses and the Reedsville American Field Service chapter paid the remainder.

The Jaycees voted not to sponsor an auto seat belt program in Brillion. The group set the date of the Harmony Jubilee at Feb. 16.

The club announced it would be represented at the district meeting in Manitowish Nov. 20.

Steve Meyer, Tom Mueller and Gary Grimm are the lettermen. All are seniors, but none is over 5-9 in height.

Gib Schoen, Gerry Mayer, Gary Daun and Tom Schoen are the transfers, and all are over 5-11. Gib Schoen is the tallest at 6-2 while Daun is the smallest at 5-11. Mayer is 6-foot even.

Tom Schoen is a 6-1, sophomore forward who is running a strong campaign to win a starting berth. Mayer and Daun are juniors, and Gib Schoen is a senior.

Back From Service
Coach Don Gosz, back after missing the 1961-62 season due to service with the National Guard, several other promising candidates fighting for positions on the team.

This group includes two sophomores — Glenn Schumacher and Gene Comerford — and a pair of freshmen, Jim Moon and Bob Mayer. All are under 5-10 but show a lot of hustle.

Senior Marty Seckel, 5-7, and junior Dave Karls, 5-11, are also capable of giving a lift to a team that finished with a 7-14 record and took third place in the Kettle Moraine Conference last season. Gosz' 1960-61 Stockbridge cagers had a 14-6 record for the season and were in second place at the end of the K.M. season.
